Birmingham Boy's Body Discovered; 'Animal' Hunted

LIVONIA, Mich. (AP) — A missing 11-year-old Birmingham, Mich., boy apparently has become the seventh victim in a string of child abduction-slayings that have gripped Oakland County in terror.

Early today, Birmingham police tentatively identified as Timothy King a body discovered late Tuesday along a well-traveled dirt road less than a mile from a busy intersection in this northern Detroit suburb. There were no obvious wounds on the body and cause of death could not be immediately determined, police said.

Asked if the latest death appeared to follow the pattern of some of the earlier abductions, Michigan State Police Sgt. Jack Kresse said, "there is a great similarity, yes." Kresse said no attempt had been made to conceal the body.

"The most important thing is to get this animal off the street," Birmingham Police Lt. Jack C. Kalbfleisch said in describing his hopes for a solution to the apparently-related string of child killings.

Timothy King was last seen March 16 when he went to a neighborhood store to buy candy. Oakland County authorities launched a massive search for the boy involving as many as 300 policemen.

The body, discovered by passing motorists, wore a red jacket, green pants and shoes that a Birmingham police officer said "matched the description" of clothing worn by the King child when he last was seen one week ago tonight.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said a skateboard was found near the body. The King boy had taken his football and skateboard with him when he walked to a pharmacy near his home, left the store through a rear door and disappeared.

Kalbfleisch said positive identification would be withheld until the King boy's parents saw the body. The scene is in Wayne County, but near the Oakland County line. The body was found some 11 miles from the boy's home.

Six other Oakland County children have been abducted and slain since January 1976.

"People are scared," Oakland County Sheriff Johannes Spreen said on Tuesday. The sheriff's department is one of several Oakland County police agencies, along with the Michigan state police, which contributed officers to a special task force probing the deaths.

"Parents are now driving their children to school and picking them up," Spreen said. "When a child has been missing a couple of hours, where the parents would have waited it out, now they call us right away."

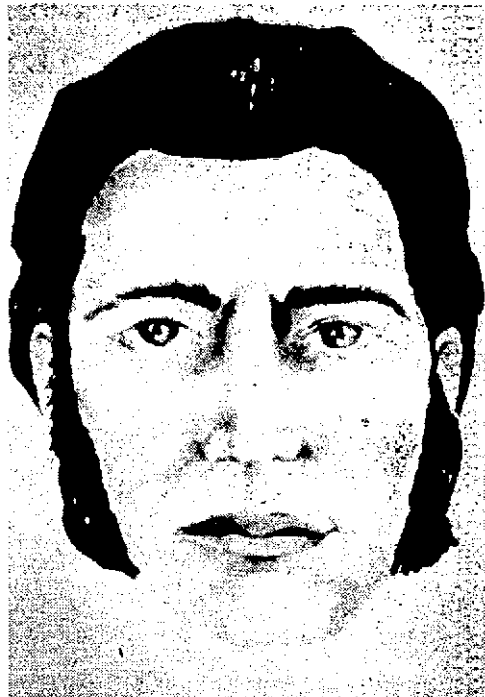

Four of the missing youngsters, including King, disappeared while walking to or from their homes. Another vanished after she ran away from home, while another disappeared while hitchhiking. All were later found dead. Another youth was killed while babysitting for her sister. Oakland County authorities are seeking a man who they believe was the last person to talk to the King boy before he vanished last Wednesday. Police have speculated that the

Proposes $1 Million Reward

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state lawmaker has proposed a $1 million state reward fund for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect in the kidnappings of seven Oakland County youngsters. Rep. David Campbell, R-Royal Oak, introduced a bill Tuesday designed to help law enforcement officials obtain information leading to the arrest of a suspect and his conviction. Under the bill, the minimum state reward would be $50,000, to be paid to anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone who murders, kidnaps or commits criminal sexual activity against any youth 16 years of age or under.

Saccharin Cancer Threat Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medical scientists testifying on a proposed government ban on saccharin say there is no evidence to support the belief that the artificial sweetener causes cancer in humans.

Witnesses appearing Tuesday before a House health subcommittee also said a decision to ban saccharin for human consumption should take into account its possible benefits to dieters and others unable to eat sugar.

Dr. Arnold L. Brown, of the Mayo Clinic Medical School in Rochester, Minn., said, "I don't believe there is a significant risk to humans," posed by saccharin.

Another physician, Dr. Kurt J. Isselbacher of Harvard, said the risk of developing cancer from saccharin is "remote."

"The harm, however, which may occur to millions in the absence of a non-nutrient sugar substance is great," he said.

The Food and Drug Administration is proposing a ban on saccharin, the only government-approved artificial sweetener remaining on the market. The proposed ban was announced after completion of Canadian tests which showed that some laboratory rats fed large amounts of saccharin developed malignant bladder tumors.

Dr. Richard Bates, FDA's chief scientific officer, testified before the House subcommittee on Monday that extrapolation from the animal tests would indicate four cases of cancer for every 10,000 Americans who drink a single bottle of diet soda a day.

The risk would be four per 1,000 persons among those who drink 10 bottles a day, he said.

But several of the witnesses questioned Bates' statement.

Dr. Robert Squire of the Johns Hopkins University Medical School said a controlled scientific test using humans would be necessary to make such a prediction.

Former Allegan Woman's Body Is Found In Grave

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
SALLISAW, Okla. — The bodies of a former Allegan woman and her female employer were found Tuesday in a shallow grave in a wooded area near this northeastern Oklahoma town. The victims were Kendal Gailther Ashmore, 35, and Kathy Anne Brown, 22, who were kidnapped six days ago and held for $500,000 ransom that was paid but never picked up.

Miss Brown was a 1972 graduate of Allegan high school and was working as a trainer for the Ashmores, who have a stable of 17 Morgan horses. She met Mrs. Ashmore several years ago at a horse show and moved to Oklahoma last summer.

Miss Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown of rural Allegan.

The bodies, one atop the other, were buried under about six inches of soil. The site is on land reportedly owned by Larry Eugene Chaney, 34, the carpenter who has been charged with kidnapping in the case.

The grave was found by Tulsa County Sheriff's Lt. Art Lee during a search of the area. The women were wearing blue jeans.

A medical examiner was called to the scene.

Mrs. Ashmore is the wife of Phillip Ashmore, builder and former board chairman of the Riverside National Bank at Jenks. The couple has operated a horse raising business for several years.

Chaney was charged Monday on two counts of kidnapping for extortion and is being held at the Tulsa County jail under $1 million bond. A preliminary hearing is set for April 11.

On Monday about 200 officers and friends of the Ashmore family scoured a 14 square mile area near Tulsa in search of the women.

Mrs. Ashmore and Miss Brown disappeared last Thursday afternoon. They were in a pickup truck owned by the Ashmores and reportedly had bought hay and were looking at some horses.

The pickup was found early Friday in Tulsa. Mrs. Ashmore's purse was on the seat and there was no sign of violence.

Ashmore received an anonymous telephone call Friday demanding $500,000. He followed instructions to place the money at an abandoned rodeo arena in Jenks, but no one picked it up.

When a second call came late Friday night saying he had placed the money in the wrong place, police traced the call to Chaney's residence about four blocks from the arena.

He was arrested early Saturday morning without incident.

Schoolboy's Gun Fires; Girl Dies

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A 12-year-old girl was shot and killed Tuesday when a gun taken to school by a 9-year-old boy for a "show and tell" project discharged on a school bus, sheriff's deputies said. Tammy Kersten of Oshtemo Township was sitting about a foot away from the boy when the gun went off. Kalamazoo deputies said. Some 30 other students were aboard the bus but escaped injury. Deputies said the boy took the gun from home without parental permission apparently for the class "show and tell" project. The youth never showed the gun in school but was showing it to friends aboard the bus when the weapon fired, authorities said. The .22 caliber bullet went through the Kersten girl's arm and entered her heart, officials said. She was dead on arrival at a Kalamazoo hospital.

Prexy Forces Teachers To Work For Results

What happens when an educator assumes the responsibility for a school which has slipped academically and steps in with a firm hand to turn things around? In the case of New Jersey Passaic County's Community College, among the first acts of its new president was to suspend or place on probation one-third of the student body because of failing grades.

That was followed by scrubbing the basketball season because too many of the team members had sub-standard grades and tripling the minimum classroom teaching requirements of the faculty.

"I just feel that a student needs discipline and structure, and that a teacher needs to be in the classroom. You need to learn the basics before you can take other courses," explained the 42-year-old president, Dr. Gustavo A. Mellander.

Naturally, Dr. Mellander was the subject of many criticisms — until the results began coming in. One of the first was in the college's nursing school. In the year before Dr. Mellander took over, only 38 per cent of the graduates passed state boards. In his first year, 76 per cent passed.

Learning that a little discipline and getting down to work produce results is not a bad lesson, in or out of school.

He Approves Red Army But Not Free Press

Fortunately, no responsible official has seconded UN Ambassador Andrew Young's suggestion that a law ought to be passed prohibiting the publication of "information regarding violent crimes." The remark was made following the takeover of three buildings in Washington by a gang of terrorists, and perhaps by now Young also has had second thoughts about the implications of his suggestion.

The idea that the destructiveness in men will go away if no one pays attention to it is dispelled every day on the streets of major cities. Muggers, rapists and assorted thugs certainly are not seeking publicity when they go on the rampage.

But even if one accepts the premise that terrorists are different and only seek public recognition — a questionable premise — who is to be the authority which shall decide whether the news media can report such assaults as the Washington takeover?

To consider seriously such a suggestion is to think nothing of tearing up the First Amendment.

Not too long before Ambassador Young proposed modifying this keystone of the Bill of Rights, he got his boss, President Carter, in a pickle by praising communist Cuba's troops in Angola. For one who professes belief in democracy, Young has a curious affinity for things totalitarian.

Legal Lotteries Increase All Types Of Gambling

A decade or so ago, legal wagering in states other than Nevada was confined almost exclusively to racetrack betting. At the end of last year, 44 states had some other form of legalized gambling and legislation to permit new types of betting games was pending in 37 states. Thirteen states now operate lotteries, including Michigan.

The rationale behind the growth of

There's Also A Domestic Model

Here at home they use a different device. It is called the cocktail party.

legalized gambling seems to be: People will gamble, whether it's legal or not, so why shouldn't society cash in on it and perhaps at the same time undercut one of the foundations of the criminal underworld?

There is no doubt about the popularity of gambling. The recently published final report of a federal Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling states that 61 per cent of adult Americans — about 88 million persons — participate in some form of gambling in a year.

Total volume of legal betting is about $18 billion a year and that of illegal betting is estimated to range from $10 billion to as much as $39 billion.

But society is playing a very dangerous game when it legalizes gambling, warns Bernard Kaepcke in an article in the Journal of Insurance, a publication of the Insurance Information Institute.

The two goals of producing revenue for the state and curbing criminal activities are mutually incompatible, he says, because taking a tax bite out of gambling proceeds inevitably drives gamblers to the illegal gambling market for its higher payout. The end result is an increase in all types of gambling, legal and illegal.

Not only do legalized or government-sponsored games of chance recruit multitudes of new gamblers, he says, but a percentage of these recruits are likely to become compulsive gamblers. And among them are many whose gambling ultimately will lead to crime to get money for betting or to pay off bookmakers and loan sharks.

"The addiction known as compulsive gambling," Kaepcke asserts, "provides one explanation of the mystery of what makes many an apparently respectable, often successful or highly placed individual turn to such crimes as embezzlement, forgery or fraud."

In a few years' time, states with lotteries probably will be spending more to curb the illicit gambling and other crime they've encouraged than the amount of the relatively paltry revenue they reap from lotteries.

SAYS PART-TIME FARMS HAVE A PLACE

Last Saturday the Extension Service sponsored a Part Time Farmers program in Paw Paw. This was decidedly a move in the right direction. Agri-business people, who regard small and part time farmers as a few holdovers on the way out, should have been there.

Seven acres and a dozen sheep, a small woodlot with a hundred sugar maple trees, and intensive organic gardening on five acres were a few of many specific cases talked about in one of the sessions. Situations like that tell us there's more to living on the land than managing large scale operations with automated machinery.

For years we've been propagandized with one side of the story, hearing mostly that average farm size has increased by so many acres, and the efficiency of the individual farmer has increased by such and such percent in terms of food grown. What we haven't heard about, is how many small farms have been swallowed up in order to make the remaining farms larger, nor how efficient the displaced farmer is on unemployment lines in the city. We also haven't heard much about the amounts of energy needed by corporation farms to produce an acre of crop, and how this compares with the energy requirements of the more labor intensive small farms.

Agri-business and corporate farming methods are indispensable in many sectors, but so are small, labor intensive farming methods. The idea should be to get the appropriate balance. Southwestern Michigan would seem to be far better suited to continued small and part time farm operations, in combination with industrial enterprise.

Actually, we could create a fair version of paradise by appropriate combination of urban and rural activities, in the natural setting we have. Prosperity of the region will be greatly increased once the value of the small and part time farm is adequately recognized. There only has to be some lines of reinforcement developed for complementary economic transactions among the many existing and would-be small farmers, gardeners, and entrepreneurs.

Marianne Means Squeaky Wheels Getting Grease

WASHINGTON — New Jersey's Rep. Frank Thompson is proving to be no Wayne Hays, in more ways than the most obvious.

As Hays' successor as chairman of the House Administration Committee, Thompson is a lot more fair-minded.

Hays refused for years to put the women employees of the House beauty shop on the same footing as the males in the House barber shop. The male employees are on the Federal payroll, which means they get vacation, sick leave, health insurance and retirement benefits. The women's operation is treated as a private concession with none of those benefits. In addition, barber shop salaries are $12,000-15,000 yearly, while beauty shop salaries are $7,000-$9,000.

But this year Reps. Yvonne Burke and Morris Udall have introduced a resolution to equalize the treatment of employees in all congressional hair emporiums, and Thompson supports it. Now that Hays is gone, it seems likely to pass. Other action to curl your hair:

New York GOP Sen. Jacob Javits, who is now 72, is telling intimates that he will retire at the end of his fourth term, which expires in 1980. He will make no public announcement until well after the 1978 elections, because the news is sure to set off a bitter scramble in New York for his seat. Upstate conservative Rep. Jack Kemp and moderate Rep. Barber Conable Jr. may square off in the GOP primary. As for the Democrats, it would take all fingers and toes to count them.

Arvonne Fraser, political activist wife of Minnesota's Rep. Donald Fraser, will become director of the Agency for International Development's office of equal opportunity programs. Fraser, long a champion of women's rights and a regional campaign coordinator for President Carter, originally wanted to be director of the Women's Bureau in the Labor Department. But the AFL-CIO has long treated that department as its private preserve, and she was vetoed for the job by Al Barkan, who heads COPE, the AFL-CIO political arm.

It was the female putdown. Barkan had nothing against her; it was her husband he can't stand. (Rep. Fraser and Barkan madly agree on labor issues; but they disagree strongly on congressional reform, military policy and the Vietnam war.)

Rep. Millicent Fenwick, the dignified New Jersey Republican, unbent during a Time-Life party here to lead all the executives and Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield in something called "The Squat."

It's a favorite Asian sitting position, in which the person crouches close to the ground with back arched just so. Fenwick is an expert at it, and doesn't mind demonstrating.

Vermont Democratic Sen. Patrick Leahy, elected only two years ago, approached the venerable Sen. James Eastland of Mississippi recently to ask for help in getting on the Appropriations Committee. To his surprise he had only to ask, and Eastland said, "Yep."

"But don't you want to hear my reasons for being selected?" Leahy asked. "I don't care about your reasons," Eastland replied bluntly. "You're the only one of you younger fellows who's asked me."

Another case of the squeaky wheel getting the grease.

Vice President and Mrs. Mondale would have been able to figure out nobody had lived in their refurbished mansion before them, even if they hadn't already known it. There weren't any clothes hooks on the backs of the bathroom and closet doors.

Postscript: It took several days and three workmen, one with a clipboard, to get some hooks installed.

CAB Bumping Public Interest

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Within the next few weeks, the nation's airport ticket counters will be sporting a new decoration: A sign telling passengers that their "confirmed reservations" may well be worthless because they legally can be "bumped" from a flight on which they hold a prepaid ticket.

In theory, the posting of those signs will be a mark of progress because the airlines will be publicly acknowledging, for the first time, a highly questionable practice in which they surreptitiously have engaged for many years.

In practice, that step is simply the most recent manifestation of a program of halfhearted, often-ineffectual "reform" of the federal regulatory agencies which increasingly have become captives of the very industries they were established to monitor and regulate.

One of the more fashionable ideas to emerge during the past year in Washington has been the notion of reforming those agencies, ostensibly to make them more accountable and responsible to the citizenry they originally were intended to serve.

No agency has been the subject of more serious consideration than the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB). Both the White House and key congressional leaders are fashioning new legislation which could allow true price competition and far greater freedom in route selection among the country's scheduled airlines — radical changes which the CAB eventually may be forced to accept.

Meanwhile, the Board is conducting business as usual — and nowhere is its pro-industry, anti-consumer attitude more evident than in its approach to two of the most frequent problems faced by airline passengers: Overbooking and overcharging. More than 100,000 passengers annually are "denied boarding" for flights on which they hold reservations, tickets or both because the airlines compensate for "no shows" by overselling tickets.

Such "bumping" is the fourth-biggest source of passenger complaints filed with the CAB, ranking behind problems relating to what the Board euphemistically calls "flight irregularities," (the airlines' failure to meet their own schedules) improper ticketing and mishandling of baggage.

Despite the ubiquity of that problem, the CAB took no action to resolve it until Ralph Nader was "bumped" from an Allegheny Airlines flight in April 1972, then promptly proceeded to file a law suit against the airline.

When the Supreme Court awarded Nader $25,000 for his inconvenience, the Board and its airline clientele became truly concerned — but not alarmed enough to produce any conclusion to a CAB investigation into "deliberate overbooking and oversales," which has dragged on for almost a year.

Indeed, the CAB will celebrate the first anniversary of its probe with an interim, "Band Aid" solution: Requiring the airlines to give the public notice that they accept more reservations than they have seats to fill — but allowing them to continue the practice.

Although improper ticketing ranks second as a source of passenger complaints, the CAB has shown even greater reluctance to deal with that problem. As a result, airlines regularly advertise the availability of various bargain fares, but charge the full price to customers who don't specifically ask for the lower rate.

Again, the Board response is not to order a halt to such practices and impose penalties on those who fail to heed its rule. Instead, it has printed a brochure warning passengers that they must learn the difference among Advance Purchase, Excursion, Tour Basing, ABCs, ITCs, OTCs, TGCs and a host of other "promotional" fares. The CAB apparently believes that the burden of insuring that the industry properly serves the public should fall not on the Board or on the airlines but rather on the passengers. In the old days, that was called "Caveat Emptor" or "Buyer Beware."

Donald Carpp, owner of the processing and cold storage plant, indicated he expected to have his plant in almost full scale operation by early next week. A counter offensive against Benton Harbor's smoke barrage was launched yesterday when Christian Blough, of the American Laundry company, announced that his firm has completed the installation of a new firebox, grates and automatic down stoking system in the laundry plant on Territorial and Fifth streets. The new plant, which was put in operation Monday morning, eliminates approximately 90 per cent of the smoke output of the American Laundry boilers.

One of Benton Harbor's oldest retail firms, whose name has been associated with the city's commercial life for more than a quarter of a century, passed out of existence today with the sale of the last remaining merchandise of the Wallace Bros. store, Pipestone and Wall street, to Chicago buyers. The Wallace sign and Wallace sporting goods have held their niche along Pipestone street for 29 years.

The Benton Harbor city council met Friday night and made glad the hearts of many city officials and employees by raising their salaries. The City Clerk now makes a total of $80 per month. The salary of the city attorney was raised from $45 to $50 per month. The chief of the fire department was raised from $55 to $60, the assistant chief from $45 to $50, and the pipemen were all raised from $40 to $45. Alderman Gillette made a motion to reduce the salary of the aldermen from $50 per year to $1 per year. His motion did not prevail.

Prexy Forces Teachers To Work For Results

What happens when an educator assumes the responsibility for a school which has slipped academically and steps in with a firm hand to turn things around? In the case of New Jersey Passaic County's Community College, among the first acts of its new president was to suspend or place on probation one-third of the student body because of failing grades.

That was followed by scrubbing the basketball season because too many of the team members had sub-standard grades and tripling the minimum classroom teaching requirements of the faculty.

"I just feel that a student needs discipline and structure, and that a teacher needs to be in the classroom. You need to learn the basics before you can take other courses," explained the 42-year-old president, Dr. Gustavo A. Mellander.

Naturally, Dr. Mellander was the subject of many criticisms — until the results began coming in. One of the first was in the college's nursing school. In the year before Dr. Mellander took over, only 38 per cent of the graduates passed state boards. In his first year, 76 per cent passed.

Learning that a little discipline and getting down to work produce results is not a bad lesson, in or out of school.

He Approves Red Army But Not Free Press

Fortunately, no responsible official has seconded UN Ambassador Andrew Young's suggestion that a law ought to be passed prohibiting the publication of "information regarding violent crimes." The remark was made following the takeover of three buildings in Washington by a gang of terrorists, and perhaps by now Young also has had second thoughts about the implications of his suggestion.

The idea that the destructiveness in men will go away if no one pays attention to it is dispelled every day on the streets of major cities. Muggers, rapists and assorted thugs certainly are not seeking publicity when they go on the rampage.

But even if one accepts the premise that terrorists are different and only seek public recognition — a questionable premise — who is to be the authority which shall decide whether the news media can report such assaults as the Washington takeover?

To consider seriously such a suggestion is to think nothing of tearing up the First Amendment.

Not too long before Ambassador Young proposed modifying this keystone of the Bill of Rights, he got his boss, President Carter, in a pickle by praising communist Cuba's troops in Angola. For one who professes belief in democracy, Young has a curious affinity for things totalitarian.

Legal Lotteries Increase All Types Of Gambling

A decade or so ago, legal wagering in states other than Nevada was confined almost exclusively to racetrack betting. At the end of last year, 44 states had some other form of legalized gambling and legislation to permit new types of betting games was pending in 37 states. Thirteen states now operate lotteries, including Michigan.

The rationale behind the growth of legalized gambling seems to be: People will gamble, whether it's legal or not, so why shouldn't society cash in on it and perhaps at the same time undercut one of the foundations of the criminal underworld?

There is no doubt about the popularity of gambling. The recently published final report of a federal Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling states that 61 per cent of adult Americans — about 88 million persons — participate in some form of gambling in a year.

Total volume of legal betting is about $18 billion a year and that of illegal betting is estimated to range from $10 billion to as much as $39 billion.

But society is playing a very dangerous game when it legalizes gambling, warns Bernard Kaapke in an article in the Journal of Insurance, a publication of the Insurance Information Institute.

The two goals of producing revenue for the state and curbing criminal activities are mutually incompatible, he says, because taking a tax bite out of gambling proceeds inevitably drives gamblers to the illegal gambling market for its higher payout. The end result is an increase in all types of gambling, legal and illegal.

Not only do legalized or government-sponsored games of chance recruit multitudes of new gamblers, he says, but a percentage of these recruits are likely to become compulsive gamblers. And among them are many whose gambling ultimately will lead to crime to get money for betting or to pay off bookmakers and loan sharks.

"The addiction known as compulsive gambling," Kaapke asserts, "provides one explanation of the mystery of what makes many an apparently respectable, often successful or highly placed individual turn to such crimes as embezzlement, forgery or fraud."

In a few years' time, states with lotteries probably will be spending more to curb the illicit gambling and other crime they've encouraged than the amount of the relatively paltry revenue they reap from lotteries.

SAYS PART-TIME FARMS HAVE A PLACE

Editor,

Last Saturday the Extension Service sponsored a Part Time Farmers program in Paw Paw. This was decidedly a move in the right direction. Agri-business people, who regard small and part time farmers as a few holdovers on the way out, should have been there.

Seven acres and a dozen sheep, a small woodlot with a hundred sugar maple trees, and intensive organic gardening on five acres were a few of many specific cases talked about in one of the sessions. Situations like that tells us there's more to living on the land than managing large scale operations with automated machinery.

For years we've been propagandized with one side of the story, hearing mostly that average farm size has increased by so many acres, and the efficiency of the individual farmer has increased by such and such percent in terms of food grown. What we haven't heard about is how many small farms have been swallowed up in order to make the remaining farms larger, nor how efficient the displaced farmer is on unemployment lines in the city. We also haven't heard much about the amounts of energy needed by corporation farms to produce an acre of crop, and how this compares with the energy requirements of the more labor intensive small farms.

Agri-business and corporate farming methods are indispensable in many sectors, but so are small, labor intensive farming methods. The idea should be to get the appropriate balance. Southwestern Michigan would seem to be far better suited to continue small and part time farm operations, in combination with industrial enterprise.

Actually, we could create a fair version of paradise by appropriate combination of urban and rural activities, in the natural setting we have. Prosperity of the region will be greatly increased once the value of the small and part time farm is adequately recognized. There only has to be some lines of reinforcement developed for complementary economic transactions among the many existing and would-be small farmers, gardeners, and entrepreneurs.

Squeaky Wheels Getting Grease

WASHINGTON — New Jersey's Rep. Frank Thompson is proving to be no Wayne Hays, in more ways than the most obvious.

As Hays' successor as chairman of the House Administration Committee, Thompson is a lot more fair-minded.

Hays refused for years to put the women employees of the House beauty shop on the same footing as the males in the House barber shop. The male employees are on the Federal payroll, which means they get vacation, sick leave, health insurance and retirement benefits. The women's operation is treated as a private concession with none of those benefits. In addition, barber shop salaries are $12,000-$15,000 yearly, while beauty shop salaries are $7,000-$9,000.

But this year Reps. Yvonne Burke and Morris Udall have introduced a resolution to equalize the treatment of employees in all congressional hair emporiums, and Thompson supports it. Now that Hays is gone, it seems likely to pass.

Other action to curl your hair:

New York GOP Sen. Jacob Javits, who is now 72, is telling intimates that he will retire at the end of his fourth term, which expires in 1980. He will make no public announcement until well after the 1978 elections, because the news is sure to set off a bitter scramble in New York for his seat. Upstate conservative Rep. Jack Kemp and moderate Rep. Barber Conable Jr. may square off in the GOP primary. As for the Democrats, it would take all fingers and toes to count them.

Arvonne Frazer, political activist wife of Minnesota's Rep. Donald Frazer, will become director of the Agency for International Development's office of equal opportunity programs. Frazer, long a champion of women's rights and a regional campaign coordinator for President Carter, originally wanted to be director of the Women's Bureau in the Labor Department. But the AFL-CIO has long treated that department as its private preserve, and she was vetoed for the job by Al Barkan, who heads COPE, the AFL-CIO political arm.

It was the female putdown. Barkan had nothing against her; it was her husband he can't stand. (Rep. Fraser and Barkan madly agree on labor issues; but they disagree strongly on congressional reform, military policy and the Vietnam war.)

Rep. Millicent Fenwick, the dignified New Jersey Republican, unbent during a Time-Life party here to lead all the executives and Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield in something called "The Squat."

It's a favorite Asian sitting position, in which the person crouches close to the ground with back arched just so. Fenwick is an expert at it, and doesn't mind demonstrating.

Vermont Democratic Sen. Patrick Leahy, elected only two years ago, approached the venerable Sen. James Eastland of Mississippi recently to ask for help in getting on the Appropriations Committee. To his surprise he had only to ask, and Eastland said, "Yep."

"But don't you want to hear my reasons for being selected?" Leahy asked.

"I don't care about your reasons," Eastland replied bluntly. "You're the only one of you younger fellows who's asked me."

Another case of the squeaky wheel getting the grease.

Vice President and Mrs. Mondale would have been able to figure out nobody had lived in their refurbished mansion before them, even if they hadn't already known it. There weren't any clothes hooks on the backs of the bathroom and closet doors.

Postscript: It took several days and three workmen, one with a clipboard, to get some hooks installed.

CAB Bumping Public Interest

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Within the next few weeks, the nation's airport ticket counters will be sporting a new decoration: A sign telling passengers that their "confirmed reservations" may well be worthless because they legally can be "bumped" from a flight on which they hold a prepaid ticket.

In theory, the posting of those signs will be a mark of progress because the airlines will be publicly acknowledging, for the first time, a highly questionable practice in which they surreptitiously have engaged for many years.

Murphy, who has been with the bank since 1959, will also continue as ICB president, a post he has held since 1974. Announcement was made by Eitel O. Eberhardt, board chairman who has been chief executive officer.

The bank's shareholders recently approved the 10 per cent stock dividend by ratifying an increase in common stock from $2,928,200 to $3,221,020 through declaration of a $292,820 dividend payable in 29,282 shares of new common stock of $10 par value. The market value of Inter-City bank stock was about $24 per share before the dividend and is now $21.82 per share after the dividend.

Murphy said during 1976 average assets increased by 12.8

Mrs. Thornton joined the bank in 1965 and served as secretary to the Buchanan branch manager until February, 1976, when she began working for the bank's mortgage department. Stelter has been with the bank since April, 1976, and holds a master's degree in economic planning from the University of Michigan.

Search For BH Man Continues

Benton Harbor Det. Sgt. Sam Watson said no information has been received so far on the disappearance of Reginald Arnel Harris, 29, son of Mrs. Lenora Harris, 507 Britain avenue, Benton Harbor.

Watson said a missing person report on Harris earlier was sent out statewide and anyone having information should notify Benton Harbor police.

Mrs. Harris said her son disappeared after 10 p.m. Feb. 23 and was reported missing by her the next day. An account and photograph of Harris was published in this newspaper March 1. Mrs. Harris said her son requires regular medication and did not take his medicine with him. She said her son was wearing a blue three-quarter length jacket with a fur-trimmed hood.

PROPOSED MARINA SITE: Outlined here are approximate boundaries of 240-slip, $1.5 million marina, planned by private developers in St. Joseph township just south of Benton Harbor city limits. Site includes about 11 acres of land along St. Joseph river and six acres of water. Riverview drive, Benton Harbor, parallels river's edge (above), intersecting with West Empire avenue (just above top of marina boundary). Strip of land between Riverview and Empire intersection and marina boundary is not included in marina site, said Walter Clements, one of eight developers. Clements said the group has secured an easement across the strip to the marina property. Financing is sought through $1.2 million in tax exempt revenue bonds. St. Joseph township planners and Berrien county planning commission have designated marina project, but final plans must be approved by Berrien county board of commissioners. BH High School Will Let Seniors Graduate Early

The Benton Harbor school district starting next year will permit early graduation for high school students who meet specific requirements.

Roderick Halstad, group director for secondary education, said students who complete graduation requirements at midyear (end of first semester) will not be able to participate in further school activities, including sports.

However, they will be urged to return for the June commencement. There will be no midyear commencement exercises.

Students electing early graduation usually want to get an early start in college or on jobs, Halstad said. He said the policy approved Monday by the board of education is becoming a trend over the state.

Students to qualify must meet six basic requirements:

—Academic graduation requirements must be satisfied.

—Social and emotional maturity "commensurate with the average high school graduate" must be met.

—There must be an indication the student would have little to gain from further high school courses.

—Students must have earned 20 units of credit.

—Students must have seven semesters of residence.

—Students must have a grade point average of at least 2.5.

Halstad said the normal credit units required for graduation is 18. The extra two required for early graduation usually are acquired in summer school or by taking six classes during a regular semester.

Halstad said students who want to graduate early next year must apply this year by May 15. In future years, the application deadline each year will be April 15. Halstad said currently between 40 and 45 students are known to be interested in the new policy.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Benton's Grant Bid Criticized

CASSOPOLIS — A grant application for Benton township's $905,800 federal Community Development program will go to the federal government along with three letters criticizing the program.

The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission yesterday reviewed and approved Benton township's three-year grant application for funds from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

But Thomas Byers, executive director of the SWMRPC, said the commission will also forward the critical letters by Cecilia Burke, Silas Legg and Lawrence Crockett with the grant application. The regional planning commission reviews applications for funding. The federal and state agencies applied to for funding have the final say in approval of the grant.

Legg is the former chairman and Mrs. Burke is a former member of the township citizens advisory committee, a group of citizens appointed to make recommendations on how the federal Community Development funds should be spent.

Both Legg and Mrs. Burke complained in their letters about not being able to obtain information about the Community Development program from the program's director, Judd Spray. Mrs. Burke also complained about the "non-productivity" of the township program.

Legg and Mrs. Burke were among other township residents who earlier this year criticized Spray for what was described as the low number of houses repaired under the Community Development house rehabilitation program. In the grant application approved yesterday, $240,000 of the grant is earmarked for rehabilitation.

Crockett, district director of the Michigan Department of Civil Rights, said he wanted to see some funds for relocation of families in the grant. There are no funds currently earmarked for relocation in the grant.

The SWMRPC also reviewed and approved applications for Community Development grants from Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Niles, Covert township, Bangor Hartford, and Decatur.

Final approval of the grants is up to HUD.

In other action, the SWMRPC reviewed and approved grant applications by southwestern Michigan communities for a total of $78,890.

The applications approved yesterday include a $20,000 application by Benton township to purchase 153 acres of floodplain at the confluence of Blue Creek and the Paw Paw river for preservation and recreation purposes. The $20,000 grant from the U.S. Department of the Interior will be matched with $20,000 from the township.

Two applications for $46,640 and $8,250 by the City of St. Joseph from the Department of the Interior were approved by the planning commission. The city is seeking the $46,640 to build an access road and 180-car parking lot at Tiscornia Park and the $8,250 grant to build restrooms and a storage building at Dickinson park. The city will provide a $46,640 and $8,250 match for the two grants.

An application for $4,000 from the Department of Interior by New Buffalo township was approved by the commission.

The grant is to construct a shelter and recreation area at the four-acre Township Hall park and the township would provide a $4,000 match.

Red Arrow Interchange Funds Given Final Okay

CASSOPOLIS — The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission yesterday approved $1,287,000 in federal and state funds for construction of a full interchange at Red Arrow highway and I-94 in Lincoln township.

The regional planning commission's approval of the project is the final action required to get the federal and state funds released to begin construction, according to an official from the state highway department.

Ronald Roberts, route relocation officer for the state highway department, said construction of the full interchange could begin in August when a construction contract is scheduled to be awarded.

Construction will involve renovation of the existing entrance and exit ramp at the interchange, according to Roberts, and construction of a new entrance ramp from Red Arrow highway to eastbound I-94 and a new exit ramp from westbound I-94 to Red Arrow highway.

The present interchange only permits westbound traffic to get on I-94 and eastbound I-94 traffic to get off.

BH High School Will Let Seniors Graduate Early

The Benton Harbor school district starting next year will permit early graduation for high school students who meet specific requirements.

Roderick Halstad, group director for secondary education, said students who complete graduation requirements at midyear (end of first semester) will not be able to participate in further school activities, including sports.

However, they will be urged to return for the June commencement. There will be no midyear commencement exercises.

Students electing early graduation usually will not get an early start in college or on jobs, Halstad said. He said the policy approved Monday by the board of education is becoming a trend over the state.

Students to qualify must meet six basic requirements:

—Academic graduation requirements must be satisfied.

—Social and emotional maturity "commensurate with the average high school graduate" must be met.

—There must be an indication the student would have little to gain from further high school courses.

—Students must have earned 20 units of credit.

—Students must have seven semesters of residence.

—Students must have a grade point average of at least 2.5.

Halstad said the normal credit units required for graduation is 18. The extra two required for early graduation usually are acquired in summer school or by taking six classes during a regular semester.

Halstad said students who want to graduate early next year must apply this year by May 15. In future years, the application deadline each year will be April 15. Halstad said currently between 40 and 45 students are known to be interested in the new policy.

PROPOSED MARINA SITE: Outlined here are approximate boundaries of 240-slip, $1.5-million marina, planned by private developers in St. Joseph township just south of Benton Harbor city limits. Site includes about 11 acres of land along St. Joseph river and six acres of water. Riverview drive, Benton Harbor, parallels river's edge (above), intersecting with West Empire avenue (just above top of marina boundary). Strip of land between Riverview and Empire intersection and marina boundary is not included in marina site, said Walter Clements, one of eight developers. Clements said the group has secured an easement across the strip to the marina property. Financing is sought through $1.2 million in tax exempt revenue bonds. St. Joseph township planners and Berrien county planning commission have designated marina project, but final plans must be approved by Berrien county board of commissioners. COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM Benton's Grant Bid Criticized

CASSOPOLIS — A grant application for Benton township's $905,800 federal Community Development program will go to the federal government along with three letters criticizing the program.

The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission yesterday reviewed and approved Benton township's third-year grant application for funds from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

But Thomas Byers, executive director of the SWMRPC, said the commission will also forward the critical letters by Cecilia Burke, Silas Legg and Lawrence Crockett with the grant application. The regional planning commission reviews applications for funding. The federal and state agencies applied to for funding have the final say in approval of the grant.

Legg is the former chairman and Mrs. Burke is a former member of the township citizens advisory committee, a group of citizens appointed to make recommendations on how the federal Community Development funds should be spent.

Both Legg and Mrs. Burke complained in their letters about not being able to obtain information about the Community Development program from the program's director, Judd Spray. Mrs. Burke also complained about the "non-productivity" of the township program.

Legg and Mrs. Burke were among other township residents who earlier this year criticized Spray for what was described as the low number of houses repaired under the Community Development house rehabilitation program. In the grant application approved yesterday, $240,000 of the grant is earmarked for rehabilitation.

Crockett, district director of the Michigan Department of Civil Rights, said he wanted to see some funds for relocation of families in the grant. There are no funds currently earmarked for relocation in the grant.

The SWMRPC also reviewed and approved applications for Community Development grants from Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Niles, Cawert township, Bangor Hartford, and Decatur.

Final approval of the grants is up to HUD.

In other action, the SWMRPC reviewed and approved grant applications by southwestern Michigan communities for a total of $78,890.

The applications approved yesterday include a $20,000 application by Benton township to purchase 153 acres of floodplain at the confluence of Blue Creek and the Paw Paw river for preservation and recreation purposes. The $20,000 grant from the U.S. Department of the Interior will be matched with $20,000 from the township.

Two applications for $46,640 and $8,250 by the City of St. Joseph from the Department of the Interior were approved by the planning commission. The city is seeking the $46,640 to build an access road and 180-car parking lot at Tiscornia Park and the $8,250 grant to build restrooms and a storage building at Dickinson park. The city will provide a $46,640 and $8,250

match for the two grants.

An application for $4,000 from the Department of Interior by New Buffalo township was approved by the commission.

The grant is to construct a shelter and recreation area at the four-acre Township Hall park and the township would provide a $4,000 match.

Red Arrow Interchange Funds Given Final Okay

CASSOPOLIS — The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission yesterday approved $1,287,000 in federal and state funds for construction of a full interchange at Red Arrow highway and I-94 in Lincoln township.

The regional planning commission's approval of the project is the final action required to get the federal and state funds released to begin construction, according to an official from the state highway department.

Ronald Roberts, route relocation officer for the state highway department, said construction of the full interchange could begin in August when a construction contract is scheduled to be awarded.

Construction will involve renovation of the existing entrance and exit ramp at the interchange, according to Roberts, and construction of a new entrance ramp from Red Arrow highway to eastbound I-94 and a new exit ramp from westbound I-94 to Red Arrow highway.

The present interchange only permits westbound traffic to get on I-94 and eastbound I-94 traffic to get off.

Roberts said 13 of the 18 properties needed for right-of-way to build the full interchange have been acquired and said the remaining five properties are currently in condemnation proceedings. Three of the properties are commercial, he said, and the remainder are residential.

The $1,287,000 in funds approved by the regional planning commission includes $1,153,300 from the Federal Highway administration and $128,700 from the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

The $1,287 million is for construction costs and does not include right-of-way acquisition.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

The public is invited. Dr. Maier's presentation will relate to the Lenten-Easter season on which he has shed new light through his scholarly research.

Dr. Maier, a renowned author and lecturer, has appeared on national radio and television programs and is a regular contributor to general, historical and theological journals. His father, the late Dr. Walter A. Maier, was the founding speaker of the "Lutheran Hour."

Dr. Maier's first book, a biography of his late father, "A Man Spoke, A World Listened," was published in 1963 and is currently in its eighth printing.

The first historical novel written by Dr. Maier, "Pontius Pilate," is a fresh view of the politics behind the Good Friday event. It has received wide critical acclaim, was adopted by three book clubs, translated into several languages and has gone through numerous printings. His next book was a documentary on the Nativity entitled, "First Christmas," The True and Unfamiliar Story," which was syndicated in the nation's newspapers. A companion volume followed in 1973, "First Easter," which uncovers new evidence of Jesus' empty tomb and is also receiving a wide and enthusiastic reception, syndication and wire service coverage.

Completing Dr. Maier's trilogy on the church festivals in their original setting was the publication of, "First Christians," Pentecost and the Spread of Christianity in May of 1976.

Dr. Maier has traveled extensively in Europe and the Near East. He received a master of arts degree from Harvard

PEACH SOMBRERO SALAD

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

She's 'Terrified' Of Planes

Dear Ann: I am happily married to a wonderful professional executive. My husband must travel in his work, which means flying. I am so terrified in a plane I nearly die. I have missed out on dozens of good times with him because of this.

Four years ago, I forced myself to get on a plane. Before we got off the ground I began to choke and had to be taken off. I was so mad at myself I nearly exploded.

Cocktails don't help. Neither do pills. I just panic.

Yesterday my husband won a trip for two to San Francisco — all expenses paid. I nearly fainted. He is begging me to go and I'm fighting it.

Would hypnosis help? Please, Ann, suggest something. I don't have much faith in psychiatrists, so don't send me to one. Thanks a million for any help you might offer. — Nervous in Winter Park, Fla.

Dear Nervous: Hypnotism might help. Also, don't rule out temporary medication. Ask your physician if he has any suggestions. If you want to overcome this crippling fear you will have to keep at it until you do. Thousands have, and you can, too.

was a steady at this place. When I explained I liked the ambience he advised me to find my fun someplace else because everyone assumes that a guy who goes to a gay bar is gay. I think he is wrong. What is your opinion? — Windsor, Ontario Reader

Dear Windsor: I'm sure some straights go to gay bars to rubberneck on occasion. But if you're a steady, you will certainly be taken for gay. Your dad has a point. Birds of a feather flock together.

Mom's Counting

Dear Ann Landers: When my son first married his wife, she would spend a couple of weeks with him and then go visit her parents across state for a week or so. This pattern kept up for more than a year. My son knew his wife visited other men while on her visits home.

Last June she went to for a visit with her folks and stayed almost six weeks. Two hundred and 53 days after the night of her return, she gave birth to a full-term healthy son. According to my information, 270 days must elapse after insemination, or 275 to 280 days after the first day of monthly period. Taking all this into consideration, she would have been impregnated while on her visit at her home.

I don't think my son is aware of these facts. Should I mention to him that even though he is the legal father of the baby he may not be the biological father? Or would it be better not to say anything? — His Mom

Dear Mom: MYOB. Your calculator may be on the Fritz and you just might stir up a whole lot of trouble.

If you applied your math know-how to business you could be an executive with IBM, honey.

CONFIDENTIAL To Seventh Heaven and Still Soaring: Of course he doesn't want to get out of your life. Why should he? He's having a ball. Get out of HIS before you become a candidate for the "Old Too Soon, Smart Too Late" club.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Energy Problem Behind Higher Costs

Energy and transportation problems are two big issues facing the food industry today in addition to escalating costs and shortages, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman added: Cold weather isn't all that plagues energy supplies. Warm, dry weather is also taking its toll for many western electric utilities depend on power as a basic source of water. The stored run-off from snow is used to generate hydroelectricity for homes, factories and businesses. Without it, plants, etc., just use more oil and natural gas.

In addition to the fact we are using our supplies, the cost of energy is escalating to a point that has the food industry worried, since they use huge amounts of energy. Higher energy costs could have a greater impact on the food industry than on most other industries.

A study conducted in late 1975 by Booz, Allen and Hamilton, Inc., for the Federal Energy Administration showed the food industry uses 16.5 per cent of all the energy consumed in the nation.

The industry, as described in the study, includes everything from the agri-business companies supplying producers, clear through the marketing chain to restaurants and retailers. Thus, higher energy costs can be translated into higher food now and in the months and perhaps years to come.

Many companies are crying hard to cut down, by shortening open hours, turning down thermostats and by instituting energy saving programs wherever possible. All will help but will it be enough? The problem is far from being solved.

Transportation is another big problem. Severe winter weather caused havoc with deliveries reaching destinations and shipments were lost due to accidents and damaged food that was frozen and had to be rejected.

There was a shortage of trucks in many areas while truckers were idle in Florida as shipments were curtailed. All this has meant severe hardships on independent truckers, especially, who have monthly payments to make on their rigs.

To help combat the problem and keep truckers in business, to be available for the heavy season, state and federal authorities were urged to request financial institutions to grant a 90 day moratorium on payments by independent truckers.

Energy and transportation are just two of the components that make the United States marketing system so complex, but knowing what is going on can help you better understand the entire system and the reasons for many of the price increases being passed along to you at the retail and restaurant end of the food industry business.

TASTE EXPERIENCE

Toss canned pineapple chunks with mixed bean salad. Add chopped green pepper and celery for extra crunch.

Erma Bombeck Too Tiring For Men

I couldn't help overhearing a conversation in a department store the other day.

A woman was shuffling through a sale dress rack when she, shouted, "If you're tired, just say so and we'll go home. It is no fun for me to shop when you stand back there and give me 'that look.' Why don't you go play in the drinking fountains or something?"

I looked down half expecting to see a pre-schooler, when a silver-haired man said mechanically, "I am not tired, Cora. Take your time."

May God forgive him for his lying mouth.

This will undoubtedly sound sexist, but man was never meant to shop. He doesn't have the physical stamina for it. After 15 or 20 hours on their feet, men tend to tire. Not women. I learned to shop at the feet of the Master — my mother. She could make the raid on Entebbe look like an impulse.

All you had to do was to put a card marked, "CLEARANCE, ALL SALES FINAL," or "10% OFF" under her nose to sniff. Then, hang on tight, because she was good for three days.

I have to admit, she brought a certain excitement to the exercise. She would stand outside of a department store waiting for the store to open. When she saw the manager approach the door

she would take up the slack in her handbag strap, grab my hand and tuck it under her arm like a football (which explains why my right arm is three inches longer today than my left one), hold her body rigid in a blocking stance, and when the door opened, charge! (Literally. She was the only woman ever treated for credit card burns on 90 per cent of her hands.)

Men are too practical to shop. Whenever they spend a day in a department store, they feel they should buy something. They do not enjoy the challenge. To women every little item on every little counter and on every little shelf is screaming, "Choose me! Choose me!" and each one must be picked up and auditioned.

Men, on the other hand, tend to be overly cautious. They will pick up a shirt and really feel an impulse to buy it. Then suddenly they will ask themselves, "Do I really need this shirt?" What's that got to do with anything?

I felt sorry for Cora. I really did. Here was her big day to rummage through racks of merchandise and there was her husband hanging over her shoulder like a bad conscience.

Next time you go shopping with your wife, ask yourself, would you want to read Playboy while she turned the pages? Same thing.

Gay Bar Fan

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 21-year-old guy who is perfectly straight. I like to go to a gay bar in our neighborhood because the music is good and the people are very friendly.

My dad sat me down last night and asked me if I was a switch-hitter. I told him absolutely not. He said he was very relieved because he had heard I

A 7-year-old boy was brought to my office with dog bites on his face, wrist and hand. His story is a typical one.

A gentle-looking dog of medium size was hitched to a post outside a supermarket. His owner left him there with the natural assumption that he would not molest anyone. He was an "affectionate dog who had never bitten anyone."

My young patient rushed from his mother's side to pet the dog. With lightning speed, the accident occurred.

Two factors deserve attention if the thousands of animal bites that occur each year are to be reduced.

The first is that no dog should be tied on a public thoroughfare while its owner is even momentarily away from it. The leashed dog is trapped. He is frightened because his owner is away and he knows he has no way of escaping should danger befall him. He must defend himself against any gesture, by a child or an adult, that he interprets as a possible threat.

The second factor is that everyone, especially children, must be taught the proper way to approach a strange animal.

1. Never approach a strange dog that is tied or locked in a car.

2. Don't disturb a dog while he is eating or chewing on a bone.

3. Don't frighten a dog by waking him suddenly.

4. Never pet a strange dog unless you first ask permission of the owner. He knows best if the animal is friendly.

5. Approach the dog with your hand extended. Let the dog come to your hand and sniff it. Talk to him gently at the same time. Then you can pat him on the head when he feels "properly introduced."

6. Remember that sudden quick motions can frighten even the most docile animal.

It is surprising how often the dog is less at fault than is the person who improperly approaches him. Until a child can thoroughly understand these basic rules of safety, petting any strange dog is an unnecessary hazard.

The pain of sewing wounds, the concern about rabies, the physical and emotional scars that can result from careless, misdirected affection to a strange dog hardly compensate for the possible pleasurable moment of petting a strange animal.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

She's 'Terrified' Of Planes

Dear Ann: I am happily married to a wonderful professional executive. My husband must travel in his work, which means flying. I am so terrified in a plane I nearly die. I have missed out on dozens of good times with him because of this.

Four years ago, I forced myself to get on a plane. Before we got off the ground I began to choke and had to be taken off. I was so mad at myself I nearly exploded.

Cocktails don't help. Neither do pills. I just panic.

Yesterday my husband won a trip for two to San Francisco —

all expenses paid. I nearly fainted. He is begging me to go and I'm fighting it.

Would hypnotism help? Please, Ann, suggest something. I don't have much faith in psychiatrists, so don't send me to one. Thanks a million for any help you might offer. — Nervous in Winter Park, Fla.

Dear Nervous: Hypnotism might help. Also, don't rule out temporary medication. Ask your physician if he has any suggestions. If you want to overcome this crippling fear you will have to keep at it until you do. Thousands have, and you can, too.

was a steady at this place. When I explained I liked the ambience he advised me to find my fun somewhere else because everyone assumes that a guy who goes to a gay bar is gay. I think he is wrong. What is your opinion? — Windsor, Ontario Reader

Dear Windsor: I'm sure some straighties go to gay bars to rub-berneck on occasion. But if you're a steady, you will certainly be taken for gay. Your dad has a point. Birds of a feather flock together.

Mom's Counting

Dear Ann Landers: When my son first married his wife, she would spend a couple of weeks with him and then go visit her parents across state for a week or so. This pattern kept up for more than a year. My son knew his wife dated other men while on her visits home.

Last June she went to for a visit with her folks and stayed almost six weeks. Two hundred and 53 days after the night of her return, she gave birth to a full-term healthy son. According to my information, 270 days must elapse after insemination, or 275 to 280 days after the first day of monthly period. Taking all this into consideration, she would have been impregnated while on her visit at her home.

I don't think my son is aware of these facts. Should I mention to him that even though he is the

Energy Problem Behind Higher Costs

Energy and transportation problems are two big issues facing the food industry today in addition to escalating costs and shortages, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman added: Cold weather isn't all that plagues energy supplies. Warm, dry weather is also taking its toll for many western electric utilities depend on water as a basic source of power. The stored run-off from snow is used to generate hydroelectricity for homes, factories and businesses. Without it, plants, etc., just use more oil and natural gas.

In addition to the fact we are using up our supplies, the cost of energy is escalating to a point that has the food industry worried, since they use huge amounts of energy. Higher energy costs could have a greater impact on the food industry than on most other industries.

A study conducted in late 1975 by Booz, Allen and Hamilton, Inc., for the Federal Energy Administration showed the food industry uses 16.5 per cent of all the energy consumed in the nation.

The industry, as described in the study, includes everything from the agri-business companies supplying producers, clear through the marketing chain to restaurants and retailers. Thus, higher energy costs can be translated into higher for food now and in the months and perhaps years to come.

Many companies are trying hard to cut down, by shortening open hours, turning down thermostats and by instituting energy saving programs wherever possible. All will help but will it be enough? The problem is far from being solved.

Transportation is another big problem. Severe winter weather caused havoc with deliveries reaching destinations and shipments were lost due to accidents and damaged food that was frozen and had to be rejected.

There was a shortage of trucks in many areas while truckers were idle in Florida as shipments were curtailed. All this has meant severe hardships on independent truckers, especially, who have monthly payments to make on their rigs.

To help combat the problem and keep truckers in business, to be available for the heavy season, state and federal authorities were urged to request financial institutions to grant a 90 day moratorium on payments by independent truckers.

Energy and transportation are just two of the components that make the United States marketing system so complex, but knowing what is going on can help you better understand the entire system and the reasons for many of the price increases being passed along to you at the retail and restaurant end of the food industry business.

Too Tiring For Men

I couldn't help overhearing a conversation in a department store the other day.

A woman was shuffling through a sale dress rack when she shouted, "If you're tired, just say so and we'll go home. It is no fun for me to shop when you stand back there and give me that look. Why don't you go play in the drinking fountains or something?"

I looked down half expecting to see a pre-schooler, when a silver-haired man said mechanically, "I am not tired, Cora. Take your time."

May God forgive him for his lying mouth.

This will undoubtedly sound sexist, but man was never meant to shop. He doesn't have the physical stamina for it. After 15 or 20 hours on their feet, men tend to tire. Not women. I learned to shop at the feet of the Master — my mother. She could make the raid on Entebbe look like an impulse.

All you had to do was to put a card marked, "CLEARANCE, ALL SALES FINAL," or "100% OFF" under her nose to sniff. Then, hang on tight, because she was good for three days.

I have to admit, she brought a certain excitement to the exercise. She would stand outside of a department store waiting for the store to open. When she saw the manager approach the door

she would take up the slack in her handbag strap, grab my hand and tuck it under her arm like a football (which explains why my right arm is three inches longer today than my left one), hold her body rigid in a blocking stance, and when the door opened, charge! (Literally). She was the only woman ever treated for credit card burns on 90 per cent of her hands.)

Men are too practical to shop. Whenever they spend a day in a department store, they feel they should buy something. They do not enjoy the challenge. To women every little item on every little counter and on every little shelf is screaming, "Choose me! Choose me!" and each one must be picked up and auditioned.

Men, on the other hand, tend to be overly cautious. They will pick up a shirt and really feel an impulse to buy it. Then suddenly they will ask themselves, "Do I really need this shirt?" What's that got to do with anything?

I felt sorry for Cora. I really did. Here was her big day to rummage through racks of merchandise and there was her husband hanging over her shoulder like a bad conscience.

Next time you go shopping with your wife, ask yourself, would you want to read Playboy while she turned the pages? Same thing.

Dr. Lester Coleman

A 7-year-old boy was brought to my office with dog bites on his face, wrist and hand. His story is a typical one.

A gentle-looking dog of medium size was hitched to a post outside a supermarket. His owner left him there with the natural assumption that he would not molest anyone. He was an "affectionate dog who had never bitten anyone."

My young patient rushed from his mother's side to pet the dog. With lightning speed, the accident occurred.

Two factors deserve attention if the thousands of animal bites that occur each year are to be reduced.

The first is that no dog should be tied on a public thoroughfare while its owner is even momentarily away from it. The leashed dog is trapped. He is frightened because his owner is away and he knows he has no way of escaping should danger befall him. He must defend himself against any gesture, by a child or an adult, that he interprets as a possible threat.

The second factor is that everyone, especially children, must be taught the proper way to approach a strange animal.

1. Never approach a strange dog that is tied or locked in a car.

Thus, when North doubles five hearts he isn't doubling for penalty — he is doubling to show that he doesn't hold an ace. If he held one ace he would have passed. With two aces he would have bid five spades — the cheapest bid at his disposal.

After North doubled to show no aces South had a real problem. He might pass and defend against five hearts doubled. This contract would have gone down two tricks. South finally made the right decision and went to five spades, where he lost the two aces held by his opponents.

A Texas reader asked us some questions about the Texas convention. We will answer some today and the rest tomorrow.

The Texas convention derived its name because it was first played extensively in Texas. It was invented by Dave Carter of St. Louis, one of the great players of the '50s and '60s.

South Haven Death Hearing Continues

BY TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — A preliminary hearing for a South Haven man charged in connection with the February slaying of a South Haven teenager and the alleged wounding of three other people was to enter its second day here today.

The hearing for Lee Rogers Newman, 26, was to resume in Seventh District court at 2 p.m. Newman is charged with murder in the shooting death of Jenise Perry, 17, on Feb. 24.

Police said Miss Perry was an innocent victim of an argument between two men outside a house where she was visiting. They said a bullet fired during the dispute penetrated the house and struck her as she was about to look out a window to see what was happening.

Newman was charged additionally yesterday with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the wounding of one of the three people wounded in the melee. The wounded person was identified as Obie Franklin, 29, of 951 Kalamazoo street, South Haven.

Franklin is alleged to have argued with Newman outside the home of Bernice Franklin, 410 Cable street, in the city's public housing project. Police said he was wounded by a shot from a 30-06 rifle as he stood near an auto parked across from the Franklin residence.

Franklin is alleged to have started to run away and it was believed that one of these shots when more shots were fired pierced the wall of the Franklin house and struck Miss Perry. The same bullet is believed to have wounded 12-year-old Luvernia Franklin who was also in the house.

A third person, Ishanee Gill,

24, of South Haven, was also believed wounded in the incident as she sat in the car from where the shots are alleged to have been fired. Miss Gill remains hospitalized while both Obie Franklin and Luvernia Franklin have been released.

Newman's court-appointed attorney, Kelly Page of Paw Paw, argued against the new charge on the grounds that evidence presented on one count would prejudice the second count. His request for separate examinations on the charges was initially granted by visiting Judge William Buhl, but Newman and Page later agreed to consolidate them after consultation with Buhl in chambers.

Most of yesterday's four-hour-long examination was spent receiving the testimony of two people who said they were at the Franklin residence at the time of the shooting.

William Echols, 15, a cousin of the Franklins, testified that Obie Franklin and Miss Gill had argued inside the Franklin residence and that Miss Gill invited Franklin to come outside.

Echols said he was standing in the doorway when he heard a shot and saw Franklin running toward the house. Echols said he heard additional shots and heard Miss Perry scream.

Echols said he was not able to identify the person who might have fired the shots. He also testified that there might have been as many as three people in a car parked outside the Franklin residence.

Police have believed that only Miss Gill and Newman were in the suspect vehicle.

Luvernia Franklin testified that she saw flashes that appeared to be gunshots just before she was wounded in the left leg.

Miss Franklin said she too had been standing near the doorway, but when the shooting began she started to walk toward the kitchen. Police believe that the same bullet that fatally wounded Miss Perry also struck Miss Franklin.

City patrolman David Drennan, the first police officer on the scene, testified that there was a large number of people milling around the Franklin residence as he arrived. However, he said he was unable to locate an eyewitness to the shooting.

Drennan said he was given the description of two suspect vehicles which were broadcast to area police agencies. State police troopers arrested Newman after seeing a car that matched the description broadcast by Drennan.

San Franciscans Facing 'Desperate' Water Crisis

By TONY LEDWELL
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Surrounded by drought-stricken counties already rationing water, San Franciscans now will have to cut their use to face what the mayor calls "the most desperate matter facing this city since World War II."

Car washings and full swimming pools are banned in the regulations passed Tuesday by the Public Utilities Commission. The rationing "will be very demanding" for this city's 665,000 residents, Mayor George Moscone said at a commission hearing. The water conservation policy, which goes into effect April 1, is designed to cut overall consumption by 25 per cent.

The plan allows each dwelling unit — single home or apartment — to use up to 70 per cent of the amount used in the same period last year. Industrial customers, however, will be required to reduce consumption only 10 per cent from what they used a year ago, to avoid what water department manager Ken Boyd called "a can of worms leading to personnel layoffs." The average four-person family in San Francisco last year used a daily average of 221 to 331 gallons, making a bi-monthly average of as much as 19,860 gallons.

A few households will use more than that, but once their consumption exceeds 22,500 gallons bi-monthly, they will be forced to cut back to just 50 per cent of what they consumed a year ago, Boyd said. Consumers will be allowed one minor infraction and a second infraction will result in a written warning.

But if the customer exceeds the limit a third time, a device will be installed on his pipes to limit how much water he can get. And he'll have to pay for the punishment: a minimum of $25 to install and another $25 to remove.

State Paying For 'Blank Check'?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan is being forced to foot the bill for a "judicially decreed blank check" to the Detroit school system, state Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley told the U.S. Supreme Court Tuesday, and that is unconstitutional.

Kelley argued Tuesday that a federal court went beyond its power in ordering Michigan to pay 50 per cent of the cost of revising four educational programs in Detroit schools as part of a desegregation order.

In urging the nation's highest court to overturn the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that a federal judge was authorized to order the state to share costs, Kelley said: "The Detroit board of education doesn't need a federal court order to expand education."

Michigan claims that the order, handed down last August by U.S. District Judge Robert DeMascio, will cost $5.8 million during the first year.

High Court Ruling Okays Sexual Bias -- Sometimes

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has told Congress it can pass laws that treat women differently from men — sometimes.

The test, the nation's highest court said in a pair of recent rulings on Social Security laws, is what purpose Congress has in mind.

Here's how a slim majority of the court's nine members sees it:

If the differing treatment is rendered to help compensate for past discrimination suffered by working women, it's constitutional.

If it is ordered "with no more substantial justification than the archaic and overbroad generalizations or old notions" about women's role in the family and on the job, it's unconstitutional.

The distinction is more than just words. It has meant and will continue to mean billions of dollars to millions of people.

Three weeks ago, the court struck down amendments to the Social Security Act that require a widower and the husband of a retired woman to prove he was dependent on his wife in order to collect benefits accrued during her working career.

No such requirement faced widows or wives of retired men. The court voted 5 to 4 that Congress couldn't justify the difference.

"To withstand constitutional challenge ... classifications by gender must serve important governmental objectives," the court's majority said. Women's right to equal protection under the law was violated because although they paid as much Social Security taxes as men, their taxes weren't buying as much protection for their spouses, the majority said.

However, in an unsigned unanimous decision handed down Monday, the court looked at another discrepancy in how Social Security laws treat the sexes and gave its blessing.

The court upheld a part of the law in effect from 1956 to 1972 that allowed retired women to collect slightly higher benefits than men with the same earnings record.

"The legislative history is clear that the differing treatment of men and women was not the accidental byproduct of a traditional way of thinking about families, but rather was deliberately enacted to compensate for particular disabilities suffered by women," the court said.

The old provision was challenged by a retired New York man who is still receiving less money each month than if he were a woman. He said that when Congress equalized the payments in 1972, it should have made them retroactive. Lower federal courts agreed with him.

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court Tuesday set aside the death sentence of a condemned Florida murderer, ruling that prisoners who face a possible death penalty must be given all facts that play a part in the sentencing decision.

The justices voted 8 to 1 that the due process rights of convicted murderer Daniel Wilbur Gardner of Homosassa, Fla., were violated when his sentencing judge withheld part of a presentence report after ruling that it was confidential.

Voters To Fill Vacancies

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Voters in two state senate districts went to the polls today in special elections to fill vacancies in the state legislature. Republicans were trying to cut into the large Democratic majority in the Senate by taking both posts. One was previously held by a Democrat and one by a Republican.

Democrats now hold a 22-13 edge in the Senate, with three vacancies. When the present Senate was elected in 1974, the makeup was 24-14 Democratic. The third Senate vacancy will be filled in another special election next month. Today's elections are in the 29th district, and in the 14th district, both on the eastern side of the state.

The third Senate vacancy is the seat of former Sen. John Bowman, a Roseville Democrat, who resigned to become a lobbyist. There will be a primary election next week and a general election April 19 to fill that slot.

Crim Says It Again

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan needs to make sure it has enough state funds for necessary services before it starts saving money "for a rainy day," House Speaker Bobby Crim said Tuesday. And, Crim said, Gov. William Milliken's proposed 1977-78 budget doesn't do the job in meeting the state's needs. In testimony before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, Crim reiterated his endorsement of the budget stabilization fund concept and said the state should put aside $20 million to $40 million in the first year. Such a fund would be used to save money in good times to use when revenues drop, to avoid spending cutbacks and tax increases. Milliken has proposed a $128.8 million stabilization fund for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. He would use $96 million of that to begin paying the state's bills on time, using the rest to begin a rainy day fund. Budget Director Gerald Miller also appeared before the committee to plug Milliken's plan.

More Carpools Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Energy Administration is calling for a statewide energy conservation plan, including new building standards, more carpools and tougher enforcement of the 55 m.p.h. speed limit. Under the plan, the agency said, Michigan energy use could be 6.9 per cent lower in 1980 than without such a program. Combined with federal programs, such as mileage standards for cars, it would save over 10 per cent of energy consumption in Michigan. The plan, revealed by Energy Administration Director Michael Dively, will be aired at three public hearings. The final plan will be submitted to the Federal Energy Administration by April 28, making the state eligible for $812,000 in federal aid in 1977 and more in 1978. Meanwhile, the state House Economic Development Committee approved legislation establishing the state Energy Administration under law.

Gotta Get Permission

DETROIT (AP) — Specific court approval must be obtained by federal agents before they can make surreptitious entries when installing electronic listening devices, a federal judge has ruled in Detroit. This must be done even though the agents already have a court order for the "bugging," U.S. District Court Judge Damon J. Keith ruled. Keith ruled that "forfeiture, unconsented and surreptitious entry" should be "subjected to prior judicial scrutiny" and not left to the discretion of the investigative agency. Attorneys for both the government and the defense predicted the ruling would be appealed all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. The ruling came in a case involving two reputed Detroit-area organized crime figures whose conversations were monitored by an electronic system in 1973.

Pressing For Recall

BESSEMER, Mich. (AP) — The Bessemer City Council, split 2-2 since the death of its fifth member in December, is awaiting word from the state attorney general's office whether a recall election should be on a ward or city-wide basis. A group is pressing for the recall of Mayor William Maccani and Councilman Richard Matrella. The Gogebic County election committee set April 26 for the Matrella vote and May 3 for the mayor.

City Attorney Anders Tingstad, who also is Gogebic County prosecutor, ruled recently the recall elections should be held on a ward basis rather than at-large, but the matter was carried to the attorney general's office. The council has deadlocked on every major issue since Councilman Charles Eppolite died in December.

Carmaker Gets Go-Ahead

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state panel has given General Motors the go-ahead to expand its Lansing Fisher Body plant, despite warnings from state and federal officials the plant will violate new federal air pollution rules. The Air Pollution Control Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to permit GM to begin construction of new paint, body and trim shops to replace its present plants. But the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has told state air quality officials that the Fisher Body expansion would violate an EPA pollution rule written last December.

Kelley: Don't Abandon It

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Tuesday he has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission not to allow the Grand Trunk Western Railroad Co. to abandon its line from Inlay City to Caseville. Kelley said witnesses at a hearing held in Cass City in late January and early February testified on the public need for the line. Grand Trunk Western has said the rural line from Inlay City to Caseville needs rehabilitation and operates at an annual loss of more than $200,000. A witness called by Kelley, however, contended the line operates at a net income of about $125,000 a year, and said GTW's annual estimated loss includes an annual maintenance estimate twice what the company had ever spent.

Saginaw Mulls Compromise

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has offered a compromise that would let the Saginaw school district develop a partial desegregation plan and avoid losing up to $6 million in federal funds. Under the proposal, if the district immediately comes up with an acceptable plan to desegregate faculty and high schools, HEW will wait until later for a similar plan for elementary schools. The proposal would free the district from pending HEW charges of racial discrimination and from the immediate risk of losing federal funding. School Supt. Donald J. Steele Jr. said the district will study the compromise offer while continuing with HEW administrative hearings until a decision is reached.

Some Place To Forget

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — A juror in a murder trial who left the trial last week and was discovered in Las Vegas says "I forgot" the judge's orders not to leave town. That wasn't a good enough excuse and Edward Neirnick was sentenced to 30 days in jail Monday by Circuit Judge Walter Cyner, who said Neirnick "caused the taxpayers, defendant and others ... needless expense." Neirnick said plans for his trip to Nevada had been made in advance of the trial.

Voters in two state senate districts went to the polls today in special elections to fill vacancies in the state legislature. Republicans were trying to cut into the large Democratic majority in the Senate by taking both posts. One was previously held by a Democrat and one by a Republican.

Democrats now hold a 22-13 edge in the Senate, with three vacancies. When the present Senate was elected in 1974, the makeup was 24-14 Democratic. The third Senate vacancy will be filled in another special election next month. Today's elections are in the 29th district, and in the 14th district, both on the eastern side of the state.

The third Senate vacancy is the seat of former Sen. John Bowman, a Roseville Democrat, who resigned to become a lobbyist. There will be a primary election next week and a general election April 19 to fill that slot.

Crim Says It Again

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan needs to make sure it has enough state funds for necessary services before it starts saving money "for a rainy day," House Speaker Bobby Crim said Tuesday. And, Crim said, Gov. William Milliken's proposed 1977-78 budget doesn't do the job in meeting the state's needs. In testimony before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, Crim reiterated his endorsement of the budget stabilization fund concept and said the state should put aside $20 million to $40 million in the first year. Such a fund would be used to save money in good times to use when revenues drop, to avoid spending cutbacks and tax increases. Milliken has proposed a $128.8 million stabilization fund for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. He would use $95 million of that to begin paying the state's bills on time, using the rest to begin a rainy day fund. Budget Director Gerald Miller also appeared before the committee to plug Milliken's plan.

More Carpools Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Energy Administration is calling for a statewide energy conservation plan, including new building standards, more carpools and tougher enforcement of the 55 m.p.h. speed limit. Under the plan, the agency said, Michigan energy use could be 6.9 per cent lower in 1980 than without such a program. Combined with federal programs, such as mileage standards for cars, it would save over 10 per cent of energy consumption in Michigan. The plan, revealed by Energy Administration Director Michael Divoky, will be aired at three public hearings. The final plan will be submitted to the Federal Energy Administration by April 28, making the state eligible for $812,000 in federal aid in 1977 and more in 1978. Meanwhile, the state House Economic Development Committee approved legislation establishing the state Energy Administration under law.

Gotta Get Permission

DETROIT (AP) — Specific court approval must be obtained by federal agents before they can make surreptitious entries when installing electronic listening devices, a federal judge has ruled in Detroit. This must be done even though the agents already have a court order for the "bugging," U.S. District Court Judge Damon J. Keith ruled. Keith ruled that "forefence, unconsented and surreptitious entry" should be "subjected to prior judicial scrutiny" and not left to the discretion of the investigative agency. Attorneys for both the government and the defense predicted the ruling would be appealed all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. The ruling came in a case involving two reputed Detroit-area organized crime figures whose conversations were monitored by an electronic system in 1973.

Pressing For Recall

BESSEMER, Mich. (AP) — The Bessemer City Council, split 2-2 since the death of its fifth member in December, is awaiting word from the state attorney general's office whether a recall election should be on a ward or city-wide basis. A group is pressing for the recall of Mayor William Macaroni and Councilman Richard Matrella. The Gogebic County election committee set April 26 for the Matrella vote and May 3 for the mayor.

City Attorney Anders Tingstad, who also is Gogebic County prosecutor, ruled recently the recall elections should be held on a ward basis rather than at-large, but the matter was carried to the attorney general's office. The council has deadlocked on every major issue since Councilman Charles Eppolite died in December.

Carmaker Gets Go-Ahead

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state panel has given General Motors the go-ahead to expand its Lansing Fisher Body plant, despite warnings from state and federal officials the plant will violate new federal air pollution rules. The Air Pollution Control Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to permit GM to begin construction of new paint, body and trim shops to replace its present plants. But the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has told state air quality officials that the Fisher Body expansion would violate an EPA pollution rule written last December.

Kelley: Don't Abandon It

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Tuesday he has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission not to allow the Grand Trunk Western Railroad Co. to abandon its line from Inlay City to Caseville. Kelley said witnesses at a hearing held in Cass City in late January and early February testified on the public need for the line. Grand Trunk Western has said the rural line from Inlay City to Caseville needs rehabilitation and operates at an annual loss of more than $200,000. A witness called by Kelley, however, contended the line operates at a net income of about $125,000 a year, and said GTW's annual estimated loss includes an annual maintenance estimate twice what the company had ever spent.

Saginaw Mulls Compromise

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has offered a compromise that would let the Saginaw school district develop a partial desegregation plan and avoid losing up to $6 million in federal funds. Under the proposal, if the district immediately comes up with an acceptable plan to desegregate faculty and high schools, HEW will wait until later for a similar plan for elementary schools. The proposal would free the district from pending HEW charges of racial discrimination and from the immediate risk of losing federal funding. School Supt. Donald J. Steele Jr. said the district will study the compromise offer while continuing with HEW administrative hearings until a decision is reached.

Some Place To Foreget

MOUNT-CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — A juror in a murder trial who left the trial last week and was discovered in Las Vegas says "I forgot" the judge's orders not to leave town. That wasn't a good enough excuse and Edward Neirnick was sentenced to 30 days in jail Monday by Circuit Judge Walter Cymar, who said Neirnick "caused the taxpayers, defendant and others ... needless expense." Neirnick said plans for his trip to Nevada had been made in advance of the trial.

Prison Protest At Holland Draws 500

HOLLAND — An estimated 500 people attended another rally here in protest of the state's proposal to locate a prison at St. Augustine seminary near Saugatuck in Allegan county.

The rally, called by the Prison Action Committee (PAC), followed a similar meeting held in Saugatuck and attended by some 1,400 people a week ago. The PAC was formed in an effort to prevent the state corrections department from purchasing the 600-acre Catholic seminary and prep school, located along Lake Michigan, just north of Saugatuck, and turning it into a medium and minimum security prison.

Indictments Hit By Niles Board

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — Capt. Paul Winquist, Niles police detective, was back on the job this morning. Winquist, 48, was reinstated to the force with back-pay during a special meeting of the Niles Safety board last night at which the board voiced criticism of a series of grand jury indictments against Niles police officers. The board's action followed the officer's acquittal last Thursday in Berrien Circuit court on a charge of perjury before a county citizens grand jury in March, 1976.

Contacted this morning, safety board member Arthur Pears, said that during the meeting he and other board members leveled criticism at the Berrien county prosecutor's office and a series of grand jury indictments against Niles policemen. A 19-year veteran of the force, Winquist was one of eight present or former Niles policemen indicted on charges of perjury, larceny, and breaking and entering. Only one of the officers, William Raabe, was convicted.

Raabe was sentenced on Monday to six months in jail on a perjury charge. Noting that only one conviction has been made to date, Pears said he felt Winquist suffered "disgrace and harassment." He said he wondered "...how well the prosecutor looked at the whole case," in referring to the series of indictments. Winquist will retain his rank of captain, Pears said.

Lawrence Okays Sports Bus Trips

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence school board in a special session last night approved making a bus available for transporting two junior varsity sports teams to away games this spring.

The board said it would provide the bus and pay gasoline costs for transporting the junior varsity girls softball and boys baseball teams to away games, according to school Supt. Richard Stoll.

The action came at request of the Lawrence booster club. The club has been providing funds for other costs of the sports since December when the board voted to drop them because of a money pinch.

In other action, the board approved a one-year leave of absence for fifth grade teacher David Pries to allow him to teach at a Seventh-day Adventist school in Miami, Fla.

The board discussed a move approved at its meeting earlier this month that switched two basketball coaches. Junior varsity coach Dave Able will be freshman basketball coach and freshman basketball coach Lenne Streffling will take over the junior varsity assignment. The change was based on the two-year coaching performance of the coaches, Stoll said.

BH Man Stabbing Victim

Benton Harbor police said a man was stabbed in the chest early today and a woman sustained a cut over her eye in a fight which allegedly developed over the use of a car.

Benton Harbor patrolman Greg Platts said no arrests were made after police were summoned to Halliburton's about 2 a.m. A pocket knife was found in a three-inch blade was confiscated as evidence, police said. The case remains under investigation.

Two tires and rims valued at $330 were reported stolen from a station wagon parked on the lot of Ashley Ford Sales, 1074 East Napier avenue, Tuesday, Benton township police said.

The state had originally planned to locate a minimum security prison in the Allegan State Game area, near Allegan, but an outcry by residents there forced the state corrections department to change its mind. Last night's meeting at Holland Christian high school was held to organize a PAC group in Holland, according to Mrs. Susan Rutledge, one of the original PAC founders. She said such a group was formed last night.

Mrs. Rutledge said area residents will continue to pressure the governor's office and state corrections department to locate the facility elsewhere. Lou Hallasy, Holland mayor, told the audience that if the medium security prison is located at St. Augustine seminary, the city would be surrounded by medium security prisons. Such facilities are also located at Muskegon and Ionia now, he said. The proposed facility would be south of the city.

Other spokesmen said medium security prisons simply handle the overflow from the state's maximum security prisons and have many walk-aways (escapes). The state plans to purchase the seminary for an amount not to exceed $4.2 million. The prison would house 400 medium security prisoners and 80 minimum security prisoners.

man also may be responsible for the abduction and slayings of at least three other south Oakland County youngsters.

Authorities have compiled a psychological profile and an artist's sketch of the suspect they seek. The profile says the kidnaper is a white male, 20 to 35 years old, well educated and intelligent. He is a white collar worker who lives or works in Oakland County and has a job that gives him freedom of movement.

The first disappearance occurred Jan. 15, 1976, when 14-year-old Cynthia Cadieux vanished as she left a girlfriend's house to walk to her Roseville home. Her nude body was found Jan. 16. She died of a skull fracture from a blow to the head and had been raped.

The next killing took place four days later, when 14-year-old Sheila Srock of Birmingham was raped and shot three times while babysitting for her sister.

Twelve-year-old Mark Stebbins of Ferndale left Feb. 2, 1976, to go home and watch television. His body was found four days later in nearby Southfield. He had been suffocated and sexually assaulted.

Jane Louise Allen, 13, of Royal Oak, was hitchhiking home on Aug. 7, 1976 along Interstate 75 in Pontiac Township. Her body was found Aug. 11, 1976, near I-75 in Miamisburg, Ohio. She died of carbon monoxide poisoning. It was not certain if she had been sexually assaulted.

Jill Robinson, 12, also of Royal Oak, disappeared Dec. 12, 1976, after she ran away from home. She was found four days later in neighboring Troy, dead of a shotgun blast to the head. She had not been sexually molested.

Ten-year-old Kristine Mihelich of Berkley vanished Jan. 2, 1977, on her way home from a neighborhood store. Her body was found in a snowbank on a rural Oakland County road. She also was suffocated and it was not certain if she had been sexually assaulted.

Califano Aide Certainly Has Important Job

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a new job in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that pays $12,763 a year and sounds pretty important. "The nature of the assignment requires a continuing day-to-day association with the secretary and other high-level executives during high-level policy discussions involving plans and objectives," the official job description says.

But in plain language, he is Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.'s personal cook.

The holder of the newly coined title of Personal Assistant to the Secretary (Special Activities) is Wiley Barnes, who recently retired from the U.S. Marine Corps where he managed the personal quarters of the commandant.

The job description that appeared recently in the Federal Register never came right out and said Barnes cooks Califano's lunch. It said he managed "the food supply service of the secretary's dining room."

It also said that the job demands "the utmost in personal discretion ... the nature of some of the incumbent's duties requires personal participation with the ongoing special activities and programs, thereby necessitating the need for an extremely confidential relationship with the secretary."

"He does much more than cook for the secretary," a spokesman for the department insisted Tuesday. "He manages the secretary's mess, handles the accounting and supervises the kitchen."

Barnes also plans meals for special groups, such as governors or members of Congress whom Califano invites over for working breakfasts or lunches, the spokesman said. In his first two weeks on the job, Barnes served meals to three VIP groups.

Califano and Hale Champion, HEW's undersecretary-designate, normally dine together in the secretary's dining room, which adjoins Califano's office, a special meeting room and kitchen.

When they aren't entertaining outsiders, the two pay out of their own pockets for the ingredients Barnes uses to cook their meals, the spokesman said. For official functions, Barnes is authorized to use the

'Recall Milliken' Drive Hunting 664,255 Signers

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Organizers of a drive to recall Gov. William Milliken because of his handling of the PBB contamination don't know how many signatures they have, but their effort is undaunted.

More than 3,500 petitions for the recall election have been circulated by the PBB Action Committee, a farm group sponsoring the movement which claims 1,000 members.

But each petition holds only 20 signatures. It will take 664,255 registered voters to force a recall election.

Patricia Miller, executive secretary of the committee, said she has no idea how many signatures have actually been collected so far, since none have yet been returned to her post office box.

But she said people are being urged to photocopy the petitions, and one Detroit area man has personally paid for printing 1,000.

State law counts as valid signatures collected within 90 days prior to the date of filing with the secretary of state.

The group has been at work since the beginning of March. It has set a target filing date of May 2 but may delay that date if only a few signatures are collected in the first weeks of the drive.

To obtain enough signatures, the group would have to average 7,380 signatures daily during the 90-day period to meet the requirements.

The committee, based in Chase, believes Milliken failed through inaction to protect Michigan residents from polychlorinated biphenyl (PBB), a fire retardant chemical accidentally mixed with livestock feed in 1973. Thousands of cattle were slaughtered because they were contaminated and farm residents have complained of related illnesses.

Louis Trombley, a leader in the recall movement who lost 300 dairy cows after they ate the PBB-laced feed, said the first 1,500 petitions were quickly exhausted after the campaign started and the committee had to have 2,000 more petitions printed.

If the necessary signatures are obtained and verified by local clerks, the committee would submit them to the secretary of state's office and a special election would then be scheduled.

Trombley said he is encouraged by requests for petitions.

"The response in the Detroit area has been tremendous," he

It was not known whether any other Cabinet members have personal cooks. But Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Patricia R. Harris recently turned her private dining room into a conference room. She eats in HUD's cafeteria.

At the White House, where President Carter's second cousin Hugh is in charge of cutting off frills, there was little discernable reaction to the Barnes appointment. "I don't know anything about it," said Press Secretary Jody Powell.

Hugh Carter, who could not be reached Tuesday, said recently that top White House aides no longer can have butlers deliver lunch to their desks. The White House dining room has been opened to more employees.

"We just don't want the staff cradled by too many luxuries and frills. We want to keep them a little more used to ordinary life," said Carter, who added that the White House should be "a symbol for other government agencies."

said. "People all over the Detroit area — suburbs and inner city — want Milliken out so much that they went to the trouble of getting our telephone numbers to get the petitions."

Trombley estimated the number of petitions sent to the Detroit area was in the hundreds. "I don't think we're going to have any trouble getting the signatures," he said.

But an official in the secretary of state's office said Tuesday the group will get a lot of organization to get all the signatures, verify them locally, forward them to Chase, then submit them to the state within the required time.

Prison Protest At Holland Draws 500

HOLLAND — An estimated 500 people attended another rally here in protest of the state's proposal to locate a prison at St. Augustine seminary near Saugatuck in Allegan county.

The rally, called by the Prison Action Committee (PAC), followed a similar meeting held in Saugatuck and attended by some 1,400 people a week ago. The PAC was formed in an effort to prevent the state corrections department from purchasing the 600-acre Catholic seminary and prep school, located along Lake Michigan, just north of Saugatuck, and turning it into a medium and minimum security prison.

Indictments Hit By Niles Board

South Berrien Bureau

NILES — Capt. Paul Winquist, Niles police detective, was back on the job this morning. Winquist, 48, was reinstated to the force with back-pay during a special meeting of the Niles Safety board last night at which the board voiced criticism of a series of grand jury indictments against Niles police officers. The board's action followed the officer's acquittal last Thursday in Berrien Circuit court on a charge of perjury before a county citizens grand jury in March, 1976.

Contacted this morning, safety board member Arthur Pears, said that during the meeting he and other board members leveled criticism at the Berrien county prosecutor's office and a series of grand jury indictments against Niles policemen. A 19-year veteran of the force, Winquist was one of eight present or former Niles policemen indicted on charges of perjury, larceny, and breaking and entering. Only one of the officers, William Raabe, was convicted.

Raabe was sentenced on Monday to six months in jail on a perjury charge. Noting that only one conviction has been made to date, Pears said he felt Winquist suffered "disgrace and harassment." He said he wondered "...how well the prosecutor looked at the whole case," in referring to the series of indictments. Winquist will retain his rank of captain, Pears said.

Lawrence Okays Sports Bus Trips

The board said it would provide the bus and pay gasoline costs for transporting the junior varsity girls softball and boys' baseball teams to away games, according to school Supt. Richard Stoll.

The state had originally planned to locate a minimum security prison in the Allegan State Game area, near Allegan, but an outcry by residents there forced the state corrections department to change its mind. Last night's meeting at Holland Christian high school was held to organize a PAC group in Holland, according to Mrs. Susan Rutledge, one of the original PAC founders. She said such a group was formed last night.

Mrs. Rutledge said area residents will continue to pressure the governor's office and state corrections department to locate the facility elsewhere. Lou Hallagy, Holland mayor, told the audience that if the medium security prison is located at St. Augustine seminary, the city would be surrounded by medium security prisons. Such facilities are also located at Muskegon and Ionia now, he said. The proposed facility would be south of the city.

Other spokesmen said medium security prisons simply handle the overflow from the state's maximum security prisons and have many walk-aways (escapes). The state plans to purchase the seminary for an amount not to exceed $4.2 million. The prison would house 400 medium security prisoners and 80 minimum security prisoners.

man also may be responsible for the abduction and slayings of at least three other south Oakland County youngsters.

Authorities have compiled a psychological profile and an artist's sketch of the suspect they seek. The profile says the kidnaper is a white male, 20 to 35 years old, well educated and intelligent. He is a white collar worker who lives or works in Oakland County and has a job that gives him freedom of movement.

The first disappearance occurred Jan. 15, 1976, when 16-year-old Cynthia Cadieux vanished as she left a girlfriend's house to walk to her Roseville home. Her nude body was found Jan. 16. She died of a skull fracture from a blow to the head and had been raped.

The next killing took place four days later, when 14-year-old Sheila Brock of Birmingham was raped and shot three times while babysitting for her sister.

Twelve-year-old Mark Stebbins of Ferndale left an American Legion hall Feb. 2, 1976, to go home and watch television. His body was found four days later in nearby Southfield. He had been suffocated and sexually assaulted.

Jane Louise Allen, 13, of Royal Oak, was hitchhiking home on Aug. 7, 1976 along Interstate 75 in Pontiac Township. Her body was found Aug. 11, 1976, near I-75 in Miamisburg, Ohio. She died of carbon monoxide poisoning. It was not certain if she had been sexually assaulted.

Jill Robinson, 12, also of Royal Oak, disappeared Dec. 12, 1976, after she ran away from home. She was found four days later in neighboring Troy, dead of a shotgun blast to the head. She had not been sexually molested.

Ten-year-old Kristine Mitchell of Berkley vanished Jan. 2, 1977, on her way home from a neighborhood store. Her body was found in a snowbank on a rural Oakland County road. She also was suffocated and it was not certain if she had been sexually assaulted.

Califano Aide Certainly Has Important Job

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a new job in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that pays $12,763 a year and sounds pretty important. "The nature of the assignment requires a continuing day-to-day association with the secretary and other high-level executives during high-level policy discussions involving plans and objectives," the official job description says.

But in plain language, he is Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.'s personal cook.

The holder of the newly coined title of Personal Assistant to the Secretary (Special Activities) is Wiley Barnes, who recently retired from the U.S. Marine Corps where he managed the personal quarters of the commandant.

The job description that appeared recently in the Federal Register never came right out and said Barnes cooks Califano's lunch. It said he managed "the food supply service of the secretary's dining room."

It also said that the job demands "the utmost in personal discretion ... the nature of some of the incumbent's duties requires personal participation with the ongoing special activities and programs, thereby necessitating the need for an extremely confidential relationship with the secretary."

"He does much more than cook for the secretary," a spokesman for the department insisted Tuesday. "He manages the secretary's mess, handles the accounting and supervises the kitchen."

Barnes also plans meals for special groups, such as governors or members of Congress whom Califano invites over for working breakfasts or lunches, the spokesman said. In his first two weeks on the job, Barnes served meals to three VIP groups.

Califano and Hale Champion, HEW's undersecretary-designate, normally dine together in the secretary's dining room, which adjoins Califano's office, a special meeting room and kitchen.

Lake Huron's Storm Of 1913 Worst Ever

In Violent 16-Hour Blow

By GEORGE VARGO
There are times when the casual bad-weather greeting of the Great Lakes region — "God help the sailors on a night like this" — becomes an earnest and fearful prayer.

The second week in November, 1913, is marked on the calendar as one of the fateful times. It is generally agreed that Lake Huron's 1913 storm was the most severe ever to strike the Lakes.

Beyond all argument it must be called the worst in loss of life and in loss of shipping. No storm in Lake history even begins to compare with its toll of 264 lives and 40 shipwrecks. No less than eight modern giant freighters went to the bottom of Lake Huron, with all hands. Not one survivor reached shore to tell what happened to any of the ships. Those who experienced the ships. The newspapers of Monday morning, Nov. 10, were full of the damage done by the storm on land, and concern that some Lake vessels might have been caught out

While the storm was battering the shore line and the harbor cities, causing millions of dollars worth of damage, the violence on Lake Huron was best summed up in the report made by the Lake Carriers Association in the wake of the hurricane:

No lake master can recall in all his experience a storm of such unprecedented violence, with such rapid changes in the direction of the wind and its gusts of such fearful speed. Storms ordinarily of that velocity do not last over four or five hours, but this storm raged for 16 hours continuously at an average velocity of 60 miles per hour, with frequent gusts of 70 and over.

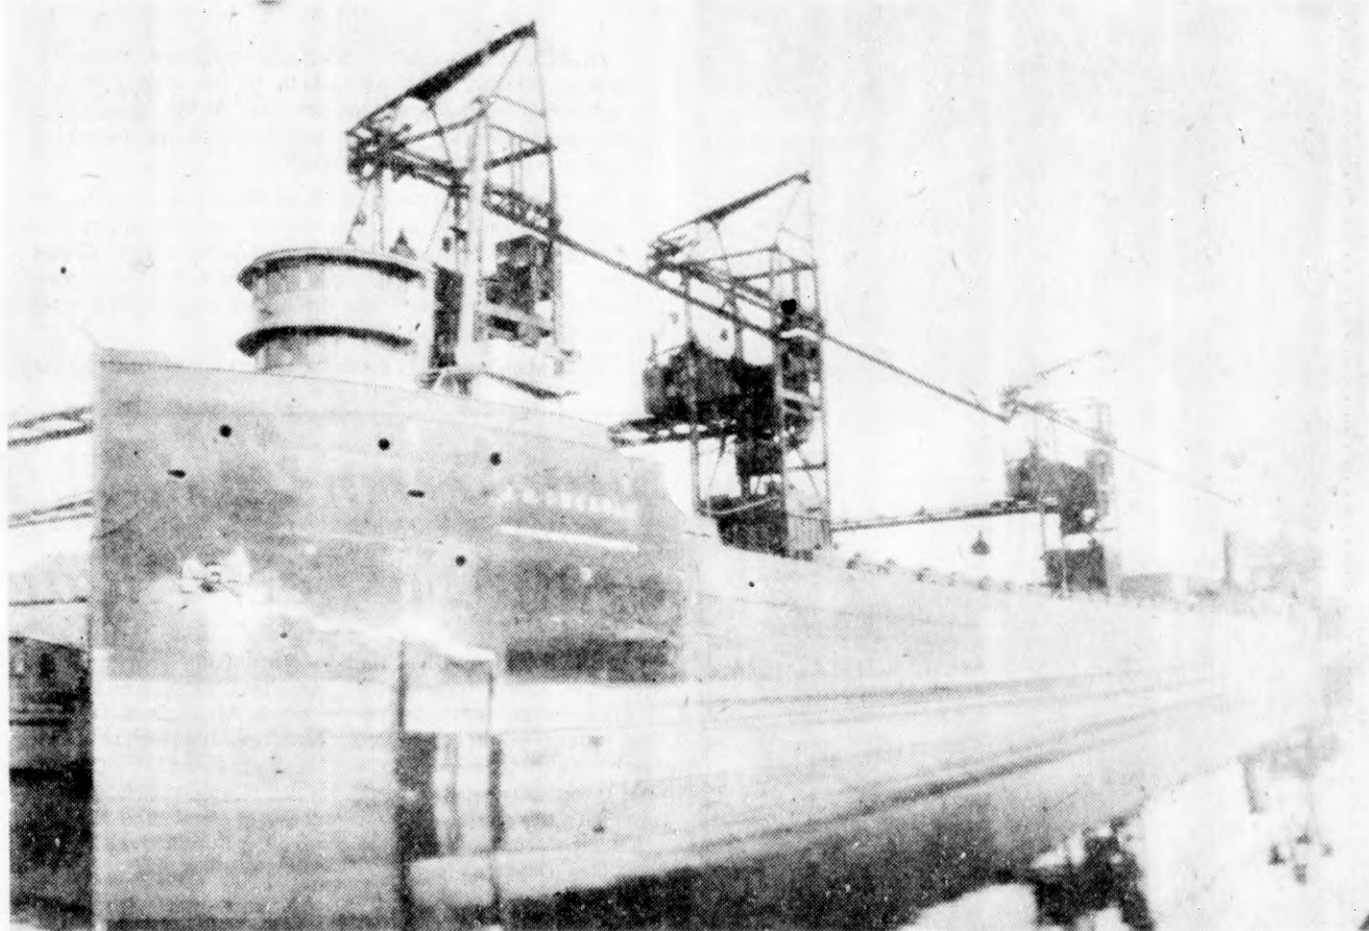

Lucky indeed were the sailors who brought their battered ships into port.

On Nov. 7, a number of ships were in port at Ft. William, at the head of Lake Superior. Two captains met in the office of the grain elevator, Captain Lyons of the steamer J.H. Sheadle and Captain Wright, of the new Canadian steamer James Carruthers, launched in May and on her third trip, loaded with 375,000 bushels of wheat. Captain Lyons congratulated Captain Wright upon his new command. Although both skippers were ready to leave the docks, the Carruthers was delayed for an hour.

The Sheadle already had left when the Carruthers departed from her dock. Later, on into the storm, the two ships were being tossed like toys, and with the wind and seas that rolled like mountains came the snow — snow like no shipmaster could ever recall. With spray over the bow, and snow sticking to the pilothouse windows, it was impossible to tell where they were.

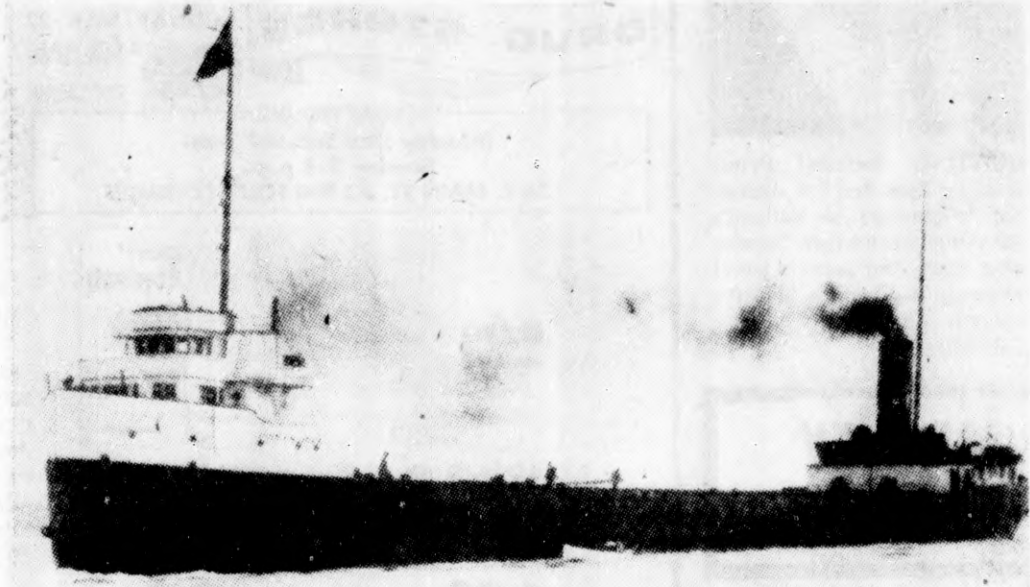

For hours many vessels could do nothing but guess where they were. The Leaflet had vanished and the Henry B. Smith met the same fate. The L.C. Waldo was wrecked near Manitou Island. The Turret Chief rammed ashore on Keweenaw Point five miles east of Copper Harbor, not far from the L.C. Waldo's bed of rocks. The Captain, by his own admission, hadn't the slightest idea where his vessel was after being slammed around for many hours. There was plenty of food left for the crew after she struck on the rocks.

The Sheadle, with the ore-carrying Hydruis and the Carruthers steamed down the St. Mary's River toward Lake Huron. The Carruthers, at 12:55 a.m. on Sunday, stopped at the fuel dock at Detour, to take on LUCKY ONE: The steamer J.H. Sheadle was one of fortunate ones to survive Lake Huron storm of November, 1913 — a storm generally acknowledged as the worst ever to strike the Great Lakes. The Sheadle is shown here at the Milwaukee harbor in 1918.

VANISHED IN STORM: The John A. McGean, after only nine years of service, vanished in Lake Huron during storm of 1913. She was carrying crew of 23 and 5,500 tons of coal.

LUCKLESS GIANT: The steamer Scott was responsible for sinking the John B. Cowle in 1909 and then was lost in Lake Huron storm of 1913 with crew of 28. She was carrying load of coal bound for Milwaukee.

Drunks Bill Is 'Flawed'

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A new state law to decriminalize public intoxication is flawed because it contains no provision for protective custody, says a Kalamazoo County study committee.

The committee submitted a 154-page report Monday summarizing its six-month study of the law, due to take effect Oct. 1. It said without such a provision, a police officer will be powerless to do anything if an intoxicated person refuses to seek treatment or be taken home.

The Kalamazoo County Public Act 339 Task Force conducted its look at the new law under a $86,000 grant from the Michigan Office of Substance Abuse Services.

When the new law takes effect, a person who is stopped for being drunk and disorderly will be asked by a police officer if he wants to be taken home, to an emergency medical service center or to an approved detoxification center.

The major aim of the new law is to treat alcoholism as an illness. Spokesmen said that during the pilot program, it was found a significant majority of public drunks were cooperative but about 20 per cent of all drunks were uncooperative.

Wilbur Courter, substance abuse coordinator for Kalamazoo County, said because of that 20 per cent problem group, the study committee recommended the law be amended to allow for some type of protective custody or detainment by law enforcement personnel.

coal bunkers. Storm signals were up for a big blow on Lake Huron. They were disregarded by the Wexford, which followed a few miles behind the Carruthers, the Sheadle and the Hydruis.

The Sheadle passed the McGean and Scott — the two vanished after that — and later on passed the Price bottom side up not far from Pt. Huron. The Hydruis vanished also, as well as the Carruthers in Lake Huron.

Obviously, with a wind of such long duration, the seas that were made were such that the lakes are not ordinarily acquainted with. The testimony of masters is that the waves were at least 35 feet high and followed each other in quick succession, three waves ordinarily coming one right after the other.

Lake Huron's Storm Of 1913 Worst Ever

In Violent 16-Hour Blow

By GEORGE VARGO

There are times when the casual bad-weather greeting of the Great Lakes region — "God help the sailors on a night like this" — becomes an earnest and fearful prayer.

The second week in November, 1913, is marked on the calendar as one of the fateful times. It is generally agreed that Lake Huron's 1913 storm was the most severe ever to strike the Lakes.

Beyond all argument it must be called the worst in loss of life and in loss of shipping. No storm in Lake history even begins to compare with its toll of 264 lives and 40 shipwrecks. No less than eight modern giant freighters went to the bottom of Lake Huron, with all hands. Not one survivor reached shore to tell what happened to any of the ships.

Those who experienced the ships. The newspapers of Monday morning, Nov. 10, were full of the damage done by the storm on land, and concern that some Lake vessels might have been caught out

While the storm was battering the shore line and the harbor cities, causing millions of dollars worth of damage, the violence on Lake Huron was best summed up in the report made by the Lake Carriers Association in the wake of the hurricane:

No lake master can recall in all his experience a storm of such unprecedented violence, with such rapid changes in the direction of the wind and its gusts of such fearful speed. Storms ordinarily of that velocity do not last over four or five hours, but this storm raged for 16 hours continuously at an average velocity of 60 miles per hour, with frequent gusts of 70 and over.

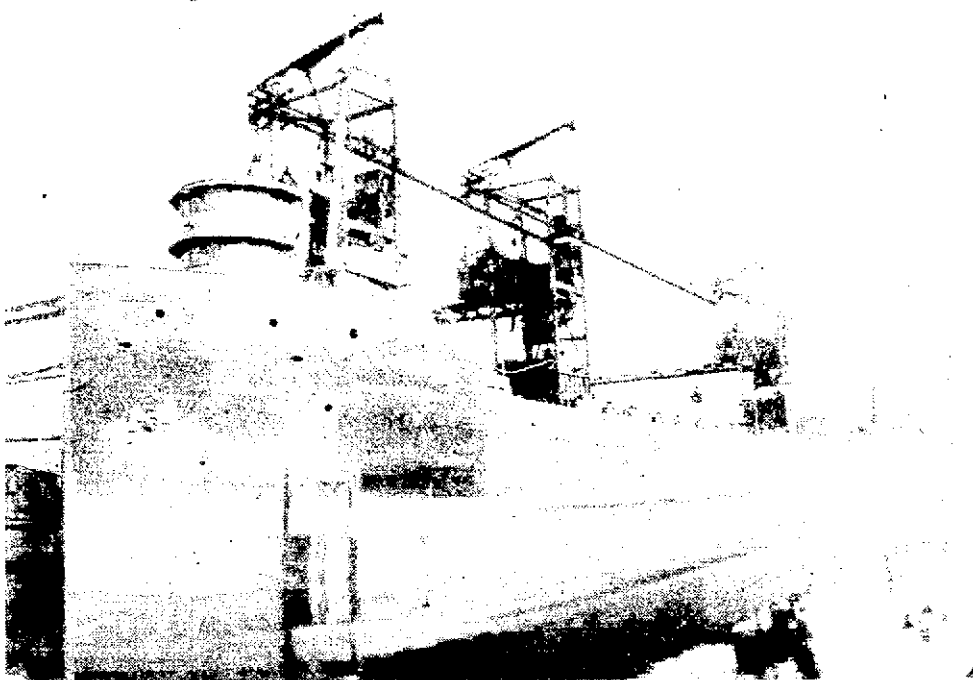

Lucky indeed were the sailors who brought their battered ships into port.

Sick Cow Halted PBB Production

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Chemical Co. was forced out of the PBB manufacturing business by an ailing cow eight miles downriver from its St. Louis, Mich. plant.

Patrick Lincoln, pollution control manager for the St. Louis plant, gave that testimony Tuesday in Michigan's first PBB contamination triad despite a series of defense objections.

Lincoln said the firm halted its production of polybrominated biphenyl (PBB) within weeks after he learned on Nov. 8, 1974 about the sick cow on a farm near the Pine River.

Employees of the Michigan Water Resources Commission telephoned him with information about the animal, Lincoln said. Defense objections prevented Lincoln from elaborating much on that conversation. But a question by attorney Fritz Hunting indicated the cow contained 22 parts per billion of PBB.

Hunting, one of the lawyers for Missaukee County farmer Roy Tacoma who filed the lawsuit being heard in Wexford County Circuit Court, argued strenuously for the right to talk about that one sick cow.

"This is probably as clear-cut evidence as may be found regarding the toxic properties of this material (PBB)," Hunting insisted.

Although Hunting lost that argument, he was allowed to ask Lincoln what happened once he learned about the sick cow.

"We met with the Water Resources Commission and ceased operations as soon as it was possible and the plant has not run since then on PBB," Lincoln replied.

Earlier Tuesday, Lincoln testified that as early as the summer of 1972 his samples showed PBB being discharged into the Pine River.

Those samples showed quantities ranging from 100 to 500 parts per billion, Lincoln said. The discovery led the firm to place temporary shields on the machinery which seemed to be allowing the discharge of the chemical, he said. Nearly a year later the entire PBB production area was sealed to prevent discharges into the river, he said.

Throughout the day, defense attorneys for Michigan Chemical objected to several questions, claiming they bore no relevance to the trial. A ruling by Judge William Peterson last week has blocked testimony about most events prior to the quarantine of Tacoma's herd in 1975.

The only exceptions are his claims that Michigan Chemical products other than an animal feed supplement were contaminated, and a contention that there was a conspiracy between the chemical company and Michigan Farm Bureau Services, the other major defendant.

Lincoln said he sought tests of the discharge for PBB because if any was there, "I figured it was my responsibility to get it out ... There should not have been any in the water."

Milliken Widens Appeal For PCP Aid

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's governor broadened his appeal Tuesday for federal help in the state's new pentachlorophenol contamination problem. At the same time, the state health director said there is no cause to fear human health problems from the wood preservative.

Gov. William Milliken wrote the Environmental Protection Agency on Tuesday, asking it to help the state determine the extent of contamination by the wood preservative, known as penta or PCP. Milliken urged the agency to set tolerance guidelines for penta, or for the highly toxic dioxins it often contains as a manufacturing byproduct.

Eight Michigan dairy herds have been quarantined for penta contamination. One of them been found to contain dioxins. The state Department of Agriculture, meanwhile, told Milliken it has not yet received an analysis of milk samples from the quarantined herds which were sent to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and Dow Chemical Co.

A report on penta and dioxins is due from the EPA April 19, Milliken said. Meanwhile, Michigan State University scientists are designing a research proposal to determine how much penta is toxic to cattle. State Health Director Maurice Reizen, meanwhile, said Tuesday penta poses no apparent health problem. It has been around for decades, he said, and has caused no ill effects except in massive exposure and in industry. Reizen said almost everyone has a natural level of penta regardless of exposure. Low levels are thought to be due to normal body metabolism, he said. In addition, penta is excreted rapidly so there is no buildup in the body. Reizen acknowledged that dioxins can be very poisonous. But he said there is no evidence that humans have been exposed to significant amounts of dioxins in food.

Milliken also sent a telegram to Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland, detailing the penta problem and urging rapid federal subsidy payments to farmers who have been barred from selling the milk of quarantined cattle. Last week Milliken asked President Carter for federal help in gauging the extent of penta contamination and determining what other products could contain dioxins.

State Firms Asked To Stop Using Suspect Algae Killer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has asked some 2,100 Michigan companies to stop using a water treatment chemical which is closely related to a wood preservative suspected of poisoning dairy cattle.

In a letter sent Monday to the firms, the Department of Natural Resources asked for the voluntary action as a precaution until tests are completed to determine if the chemical contains highly toxic contaminants.

The firms, all of which have large industrial water cooling systems, were asked to stop using the compound called pentachlorophenolate to kill algae in the water.

The water treatment compound is chemically very similar to pentachlorophenol (PCP or penta), the wood preservative which has been found to contain byproducts called dioxins. Scientists say some dioxins are among the most toxic substances known.

Eight Michigan dairy herds have been quarantined because they were found to contain PCP, which is widely used to prevent decay of wood used in barns, park furniture and other items.

The state agriculture department last week temporarily banned the sale of PCP-containing wood preservatives after dioxin traces were found in cattle on the George LeMunyon farm in Cedar Springs, Mich., the first herd quarantined.

DNR officials said there is a possibility that the water treatment chemical also contains dioxins. John Hesse, director of the DNR office of toxic materials control, said the Michigan Agriculture Department is testing the water treatment chemical to find out for sure if it contains any dioxins.

If it does, DNR officials fear the toxic byproducts might be finding their way into drinking water supplies, since many industrial cooling systems discharge water into lakes and rivers.

Pentachlorophenolate has been used for years as a water additive for large cooling systems to keep them free of algae.

Animal Burial Grounds Reopen

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Kalamazoo County burial site that already holds about 30,000 PBB-tainted carcasses was to be reopened today and Thursday to any farmers who want to bury dead animals.

But this time, Michigan farmers can bury animals that died for any one of several reasons, not just from PBB poisoning.

State Department of Natural Resources officials estimate that about 100 more dead animals will be buried at the site in the next two days. But farmers across the state have been notified that the site will be open, and officials concede their 100-animal estimate may be low.

Burial costs will be paid by the state, but farmers must transport the carcasses at their own expense.

Officials said the animals will be buried in a trench parallel to one in which the 30,000 or so PBB-tainted animals were buried. Michigan Farm Bureau Services, which accidentally mixed the toxic polychlorinated biphenyl with livestock feed in 1973, paid for the slaughter and burial of animals that contained PBB at levels exceeding the federal guideline.

But Farm Bureau Services stopped burying animals last November, said B. P. Shaw, a state geologist.

A new state law allows Michigan to pay for burial of animals that farmers want to dispose of for a variety of reasons. But the farmers must first sign a release absolving the state from all liability for the animals.

It's not known whether any newly quarantined farmers will try to bury dead cattle possibly tainted with highly poisonous dioxins, said Gary Gunther of the DNR. But Gunther said the state would have no objections to that.

Dioxins are a contaminant of the wood preservative pentachlorophenol or penta, which has been found in eight Michigan dairy herds. One of those herds definitely contains dioxins, but tests are continuing on the others.

In a related development, state agriculture officials said Tuesday that 3,000 gallons of milk collected daily from animals on the penta-quarantined farms would be stored in two unused milk silos at the former Twin Pines dairy plant in Detroit.

Tankers provided by the state hold the milk on the quarantined farms, but when those tankers become full the milk will be transferred to the Detroit facility, now called Burger Creamery, officials said.

Ken Feighner, assistant chief of the dairy division, said that because the milk will sour in a few days, officials hope to have test results soon to show whether it contains dioxins, a highly poisonous byproduct of penta manufacture.

If tests show no dioxins in the milk, it will be fed to animals if it has not soured first, Feighner said. If dioxins are present, it will be incinerated, he said.

Tests are being done not only by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in out-of-state labs, but also by the Dow Chemical Co. of Midland, Feighner said. Earlier, state officials said no labs in the state were able to test for dioxins, but Dow notified the state that it could do the tests.

Dow is the only one of four manufacturers of the penta preservative who claim to produce a dioxin-free brand.

Supporter Disgusted

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Rep. John M. Maynard Tuesday said he will push for approval of a resolution to keep the Seafarer issue alive in the Michigan Legislature.

The St. Clair Shores Democrat said he is "disgusted" by the actions of groups opposed to the U.S. Navy project.

Meanwhile, Rep. Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, said he will back legislation to kill the controversial project permanently in Michigan.

The two will fight for their opposing resolutions Thursday at a meeting of the House Policy Committee.

GM Ordered To Recall 135,000 Cadillac Cars

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 135,000 Cadillacs have been ordered recalled by Environmental Protection Administrator Douglas M. Costle because they may be violating air pollution standards.

In making the announcement Tuesday, Costle said every 1975 Cadillac tested by the EPA violated standards and "the average emissions were nearly three times the allowable federal limits."

He said the automaker itself tested eight vehicles and all of them flunked the carbon monoxide test.

Costle, who took office less than two weeks ago, said the violations were caused by defective carburetor design, but he could not yet explain how sample models of the same vehicles were able to pass EPA testing and win approval for production and sale of these models.

GM spokesmen in Detroit said the firm submitted its own proposal last month to the EPA for recall of the Cadillacs for carburetor adjustments.

The automaker said it has proposed carburetor modifications which must be approved by EPA, and owners will be notified by letter of any further developments.

Meanwhile, Costle also announced the start of "a serious examination by EPA" of 15 types of chemicals which appear hazardous to human health or the environment.

Costle said he was very concerned about chemical hazards and was moving to implement the Toxic Substances Control Act passed last year.

He said EPA will assess the hazards of each chemical, its sources, and the availability of possible substitutes and control measures.

Explaining the auto recall, Costle said the Cadillacs involved are those with 500-cubicinch displacement engines and four-barrel carburetors produced early in the model year.

They include Sedan de Ville, Coupe de Ville, Eldorado, Calais, Brougham and Fleetwood models.

CARTER'S ELECTION LAW PLANS Republicans Set To Fight

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic majority in Congress is gearing for swift and favorable action on President Carter's election law package, but some Republicans are ready to fight Carter's plan for public financing of congressional campaigns.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., coined the phrase "kept congressmen" in voicing his opposition to public financing of campaigns and that phrase was echoed Tuesday by other GOP members of Congress.

The public financing provision, one of four major elements of the Carter package, drew the most criticism from the GOP.

But the votes on all elements of the package are likely to reflect the partisan assessments of the elected members of Congress.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, complained bitterly about Carter's voter registration proposal to allow persons to vote in federal elections simply by showing up on election day with proof of identity and residence.

Tower charged the proposal "opens the door to abuse." He cited "possibilities of voting tombstones, livestock and aliens."

Surveys show that Republicans, although outnumbered, are more likely to register and turn out to vote than Democrats. Some Republicans fear that most of the new voters the President wants to get to the polls will be Democrats.

Tower also had harsh words for public financing, which he said "perpetrates a hoax on the American people."

Tower contends that public financing gives people the impression that pressure groups would be kept out of political campaigns because they couldn't contribute money.

But Tower said the kind of manpower assistance that organized labor gives Democratic candidates is more valuable than money.

Although Carter's package did not suggest dollar amounts, a bill introduced in the House last week would provide taxpayer funding of up to $150,000 for congressional election races.

The other two elements of the Carter package were a constitutional amendment to eliminate the Electoral College and allow direct election of presidents, and a plan to amend the Hatch Act to permit greater participation in partisan politics by federal employees.

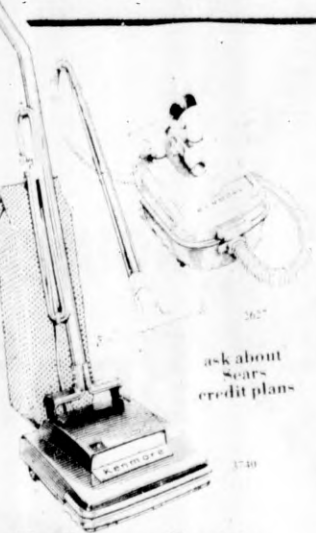

At this early stage of the debate, Tower was one of the few lawmakers willing to speak out against most of the Carter package.

Bill Brock, Republican National Chairman, said, "expanding the opportunity for citizens to vote is a Republican concept and I am pleased that President Carter has embraced it. This legislation has merit, but safeguards clearly are necessary to prevent voter fraud."

Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee said, "I favor the abolition of the Electoral College. I do not favor federal (campaign) financing."

Many lawmakers believe the end is near for the Electoral College. Debate on the Hatch Act revision is likely to follow the same party line with a few Democrat defections that occurred when similar proposals were before Congress last year. Strong opposition by then-President Gerald R. Ford blocked their enactment.

CARTER'S ELECTION LAW PLANS Republicans Set To Fight

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic majority in Congress is gearing for swift and favorable action on President Carter's election law package, but some Republicans are ready to fight Carter's plan for public financing of congressional campaigns.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., coined the phrase "kept congressmen" in voicing his opposition to public financing of campaigns and that phrase was echoed Tuesday by other GOP members of Congress.

The public financing provision, one of four major elements of the Carter package, drew the most criticism from the GOP.

But the votes on all elements of the package are likely to reflect the partisan assessments of the elected members of Congress.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, complained bitterly about Carter's voter registration proposal to allow persons to vote in federal elections simply by showing up on election day with proof of identity and residence.

Tower charged the proposal "opens the door to abuse." He cited "possibilities of voting tombstones, livestock and aliens."

Surveys show that Republicans, although outnumbered, are more likely to register and turn out to vote than Democrats. Some Republicans fear that most of the new voters the President wants to get to the polls will be Democrats.

Tower also had harsh words for public financing, which he said "perpetrates a hoax on the American people."

Tower contends that public financing gives people the impression that pressure groups would be kept out of political campaigns because they couldn't contribute money.

But Tower said the kind of manpower assistance that organized labor gives Democratic candidates is more valuable than money.

Although Carter's package did not suggest dollar amounts, a bill introduced in the House last week would provide taxpayer funding of up to $150,000 for congressional election races.

The other two elements of the Carter package were a constitutional amendment to eliminate the Electoral College and allow direct election of presidents, and a plan to amend the Hatch Act to permit greater participation in partisan politics by federal employees.

At this early stage of the debate, Tower was one of the few lawmakers willing to speak out against most of the Carter package.

Bill Brock, Republican National Chairman, said, "expanding the opportunity for citizens to vote is a Republican concept and I am pleased that President Carter has embraced it. This legislation has merit, but safeguards clearly are necessary to prevent voter fraud."

Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee said, "I favor the abolition of the Electoral College I do not favor federal (campaign) financing."

Many lawmakers believe the end is near for the Electoral College. Debate on the Hatch Act revision is likely to follow the same party line with a few Democrat defections that occurred when similar proposals were before Congress last year. Strong opposition by then-President Gerald R. Ford blocked their enactment.

Heart Transplant Patient Had Eight 'Extra' Years

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Betty Anick, the world's longest surviving heart transplant recipient before her death, used her "second life" to encourage and inspire others, especially heart patients.

"I want to make people understand that transplant people are normal people," she said last October on the eighth anniversary of her transplant. "I think heart people who have survived feel God has given them another chance."

Mrs. Anick, 57, died Tuesday in Nokomis, Fla., where she and her husband had recently moved. Her surgeon here said she probably suffered a "sudden abnormal rhythm" of the heart. An autopsy was scheduled.

Dr. Derward Lepley Jr., who headed the medical team that performed the Oct. 21, 1968, transplant surgery, said Mrs. Anick had lived a vigorous "second life."

"Betty had eight years and five months, and there are a lot of our patients with coronary disease that can't have that," he said. "Betty was an outstanding person, who did an awful lot of good for a lot of people who were very fearful about their heart problems."

After recovering from the operation, Mrs. Anick spent much of her time visiting hospitals to encourage other heart surgery patients and helping to raise funds for cardiac research.

She also helped found the Concerned Hearts Club for persons who have undergone open heart surgery. It now has about 900 members worldwide.

"I have work to do. This is why God spared me," she said. "My work is visitation and talking to other heart people. They're scared. They're afraid of dying. But when I talk to them they seem to calm down."

If I could get well, so can they."

Mrs. Anick received the heart of Robert Buelow, 30, a Milwaukee man who had suffered irreparable brain damage in a fight. She had been disabled by myocarditis — inflammation of the middle muscular layer of the heart wall — for about 10 years and had been a patient at St. Luke's Hospital here for about five weeks waiting for a donor.

Judy Riden of Caledonia, Wis., sister of the heart donor, met Mrs. Anick before approving the transplant.

"I wanted to see that it was going to a person and not just for an experiment," she recalled Tuesday. "I can remember that day so well. We didn't say a word, and then she took my hand and said, 'God be with you.'"

The women became good friends, Mrs. Riden said. Mrs. Anick "was super special and an inspiration to everyone."

"When she would walk into the room, a patient would light up like you wouldn't believe," she said.

Mrs. Anick's husband John said he and Betty had a normal breakfast and that she appeared perfectly healthy when he left Tuesday morning for a 10-minute shopping trip.

When he returned to their mobile home, he found his wife dead on a bed. Efforts to revive her were unsuccessful.

With the death, Emmanuel Vitria, 56, of Marseille, France, became the world's longest surviving transplant patient. He received his heart about a month after Mrs. Anick.

HEART RECIPIENT DEAD: Betty Anick, world's longest surviving heart transplant recipient until her death Tuesday at age 57, sat with her husband John last October on the eighth anniversary of her transplant surgery. The couple recently moved from Milwaukee, where the surgery was performed, to Nokomis, Fla., where Mrs. Anick died. (AP Wirephoto)

VA Jury Almost Set

DETROIT (AP) — Jury selection was expected to conclude today in the Ann Arbor Veterans' Hospital murder case, and attorneys speculated the trial might begin next Monday.

Federal prosecutors on Tuesday exhausted their quota of challenges to dismiss prospective jurors without giving a reason. Attorneys for the two Filipina nurses accused in the crimes had two peremptory challenges left by which they could remove potential jurors for no stated reason.

A total of 134 potential jurors had been questioned by the end of Tuesday's session. Most were dismissed or excused for reasons ranging from poor health to possible biased attitudes.

Filipina Narciso, 30, of Ypsilanti and Leonora Perez, 32, of Ann Arbor, are charged with using Pavulon — a powerful paralyzing drug — to murder two patients and poison seven others at the VA hospital during the summer of 1975.

The trial is expected to last at least four months once testimony gets underway.

Meanwhile Tuesday, lawyers for the University of Michigan submitted written arguments to support their refusal to disclose psychiatric records of a former VA Hospital nursing supervisor who allegedly claimed responsibility for the murders before committing suicide last month.

'Semifinal' List Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is ready to announce a new "semifinal" list of up to 32 water projects in danger of cancellation, say members of Congress with advance word. The list, expected to be released today by the White House, includes many carryovers from an earlier, controversial list of 19 projects that Carter deleted from his fiscal 1978 budget recommendations last month. But some water projects, including the large Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway in Alabama and Mississippi, are new.

Kidney Hunter Is Waiting For People To Die

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Donald Denny is a messenger between life and death. He is one of maybe two dozen people in the United States who search for acceptable kidney donors — the dying who can provide a normal life to those stricken with kidney disease.

Denny, a 42-year-old former social worker, works for five Philadelphia hospitals under a federal grant. "I don't chase ambulances. Mine is a very ethical business," he said during an interview at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital.

He was waiting for surgeons to remove the kidneys from a 17-year-old girl who died of head injuries after an auto crash. Denny usually approaches the family of a prospective donor as they wait in the hospital for death to come.

"We don't go out and try to seduce people or families into giving kidneys," he said. "The kidneys we recover are from people referred to us by their attending physician."

In three years, Denny said, he has been able to secure kidneys from 175 donors, enough for transplants to 350 patients. "It's a race against time in many instances," he said. "Sometimes a person has a mass injury and he can be kept on a respirator only for a few hours. The donor is brain-dead but the machine keeps his heart pumping artificially, maybe only for a few hours."

"We also have to move quickly once the kidneys come out. We have at most 48 hours to transplant them, and many surgeons like to do it within 24 hours."

Denny said there is a desperate shortage of kidneys, that an estimated 60,000 persons die every year from some form of kidney disease, and that 5,000 men, women and children are candidates every year for a transplant operation.

"We've got people who have been waiting for kidneys for three or four years," he said. "And the longer they are on dialysis the more difficult it is to match them with donors. Dialysis builds up antibodies which prevents accepting kidneys from around 80 per cent of the population."

Last year donors — the best are between ages 5 and 50 — supplied 3,000 kidneys and another 700 were transplanted to patients from relatives who gave up one of their own good ones.

Over the past 20 years in the United States there have been more than 17,000 kidney transplants, nearly all successful. This compares with 350 heart transplants and 280 liver transplants.

Denny said the families of donors often are comforted to know someone will benefit from their loss.

"The humanitarian aspect provides great solace to the family," he said. "Wives, brothers and sisters of a dying person take a great deal of comfort in knowing that death has some positive meaning, and that's why they say yes."

Speed Lid Cuts Down On Donors

SEATTLE (AP) — The 55 mile-per-hour speed limit has reduced the highway death toll and in the process made the search for organ donors harder, state health officials here say. "Since the 55-mile limit has been the rule, fewer people are dying in (traffic) accidents and we must work harder to locate kidney donors and make sure the hospitals maintain organs until we can use them in transplant patients," said Mary Ann Farnsworth, director of the University of Oregon's organ donor program. "Of course it's marvelous that fewer people are dying on the highways, but the decrease in accidents has reduced the number of eligible kidney donors," she said Tuesday.

Dr. Christopher Blagg, director of the Northwest Kidney Center in Seattle, agreed but said there was some help from increased awareness. "Even though the total number of deaths may have dropped, there is more public awareness of the kidney centers and their needs and there is a higher referral rate from all deaths," Blagg said.

Italian Mayor Granted Visa

DETROIT (AP) — A small-scale international rift was healed Tuesday when Mayor Elio Gabbuggiani was granted a visa in Florence, Italy.

The Communist mayor of Florence thus will be able to attend dedication ceremonies next month for Detroit's Renaissance Center. Detroit Mayor Coleman extended the invitation in February.

The visa was the first given to a high-ranking member of the Italian Communist Party by the Carter administration. Officials had earlier told Young that a visit from an Italian Communist official was politically undesirable.

Young wanted to invite Gabbuggiani to Detroit last year when the two cities began a cultural, educational and economic exchange program called Renaissance Cities. The European Renaissance emerged in Florence some 600 years ago.

The Detroit mayor did not offer the invitation at that time, however, because State Department officials told him they feared such a visit could help the Communists in the Italian elections.

Silvio Fagiolo, the Italian consul in Detroit, said the Florentine mayor will bring to Detroit a large picture exhibit depicting the Renaissance in Florence and life in that city. The art work will be lent to Detroit for several weeks, Fagiolo said.

Total Berrien Income Tax Estimated At $239 Million

(Special to The Herald-Palladium)

NEW YORK — How much will Berrien county residents be contributing to Uncle Sam next month in income taxes? What part of the $255 billion in personal income and employment taxes that Washington is expecting to collect will come from them?

Preliminary figures indicate that the total will be considerably greater than in the past year, when they turned in close to $205,212,000, including the amount withheld via payroll deductions.

That is approximately what was collected locally by the government, based upon an unofficial breakdown of the statewide figures released by the Internal Revenue Service.

The returns from the State of Michigan as a whole came to $12,215,000,000, according to the IRS. Of this total, residents of Berrien county contributed an estimated 1.68 percent.

Government expectations are for bigger receipts this year than last, even though there were more people out of work in most sections of the country during the taxable period.

That is because overall income was greater, due to the wage gains obtained by those who were employed. It is attributed, also, to "bracket creep," which is the movement of people into higher brackets, where tax rates are correspondingly higher.

As a result, the budget submitted to Congress calls for personal income and employment taxes to yield nearly $37 billion more than the $218 billion collected last April.

Berrien county taxpayers will be shouldering their full share of this increase, it is expected, reflecting the higher total income locally.

It is estimated, on that basis, that collections in the area this year will come to approximately $239,688,000.

As for the forthcoming fiscal year, just how big the tax burden will be is uncertain at this time. The executive budget, now being examined by Congress, anticipates personal taxes of $296 billion, as compared with this year's $255 billion.

The total income of the local population would have to increase proportionately for the area to carry its commensurate share of that rise.

He'd Restore 'Ability To Pay' Theory

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Behind the simple maxim that "wages are limited by the ability to pay and the ability to produce" there is an interesting history, and maybe a lesson for today also.

It is closely identified with the years of President John F. Kennedy, when wage increases were tied to increases in productivity, and with the union movement.

The "ability to pay" philosophy has since become lost in a jungle of verbiage, of charges and countercharges and misinformation and ignorance, says John Q. Jennings, who headed federal mediation in Michigan at the time. Now a labor economic consultant, he would bring it into the open again and nourish it.

"I would restore and activate the ability to pay concept to collective bargaining," he said. He would seek cooperation rather than confrontation.

Jennings, who has an international following, would restore the concept not through law but by an appeal to reason and understanding.

"Most people don't know the simple arithmetic of business," he said. "They add it up all wrong. Even economists forget that 2 and 2 equals 4."

Business, which is directly affected by these shortcomings, hasn't done its share to educate, he feels.

"Even today they're reluctant to show the real figures," he said. Nobody, he believes is willing to state the facts.

Among the simple facts Jennings stresses is that most people believe the majority of national income goes to owners. The truth, he says, is that employees get about 75 percent of it.

Of the divisible corporate income, 90.1 percent in 1975 went to employees, said Jennings, but in almost any survey of employees the great majority believe they are receiving only a fraction of that percentage.

No wonder, he says, that strikes in support of high demands proliferate. No wonder we have high prices that eat up those increases, he says, when mass production industries simply pass on wage costs as higher prices.

While Michigan mediator, Jennings said, he found the Auto Workers also suffering from misinformation or none at all, but GM wouldn't provide a breakdown of the corporate financial pie. When it did, UAW Chief Walter Reuther lowered his demands, said Jennings.

Launch Capsizes

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — High winds capsized a motor launch on a lake in the southern Philippines, and 30 persons are believed to have drowned, a Manila newspaper reported today.

The Times Journal said 47 persons were aboard the boat Monday night when it left Marawi, on Lake Lanao, 520 miles southeast of Manila. The paper said 13 survivors had been found, and four others reportedly swam to the shore.

(Special to The Herald-Palladium)

NEW YORK — How much will Berrien county residents be contributing to Uncle Sam next month in income taxes? What part of the $255 billion in personal income and employment taxes that Washington is expected to collect will come from them?

Preliminary figures indicate that the total will be considerably greater than in the past year, when they turned in close to $205,212,000, including the amount withheld via payroll deductions.

That is approximately what was collected locally by the government, based upon an unofficial breakdown of the statewide figures released by the Internal Revenue Service.

The returns from the State of Michigan as a whole came to $12,215,000,000, according to the IRS. Of this total, residents of Berrien county contributed an estimated 1.68 percent.

Government expectations are for bigger receipts this year than last, even though there were more people out of work in most sections of the country during the taxable period.

That is because overall income was greater, due to the wage gains obtained by those who were employed. It is attributed, also, to "bracket creep," which is the movement of people into higher brackets, where tax rates are correspondingly higher.

As a result, the budget submitted to Congress calls for personal income and employment taxes to yield nearly $7 billion more than the $218 billion collected last April.

Berrien county taxpayers will be shouldering their full share of this increase, it is expected, reflecting the higher total income locally.

It is estimated, on that basis, that collections in the area this year will come to approximately $239,688,000.

As for the forthcoming fiscal year, just how big the tax burden will be is uncertain at this time. The executive budget, now being examined by Congress, anticipates personal taxes of $296 billion, as compared with this year's $255 billion.

The total income of the local population would have to increase proportionately for the area to carry its commensurate share of that rise.

He'd Restore 'Ability To Pay' Theory

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Behind the simple maxim that "wages are limited by the ability to pay and the ability to produce" there is an interesting history, and maybe a lesson for today also.

It is closely identified with the years of President John F. Kennedy, when wage increases were tied to increases in productivity, and with the union movement.

The "ability to pay" philosophy has since become lost in a jungle of verbiage, of charges and countercharges and misinformation and ignorance, says John Q. Jennings, who headed federal mediation in Michigan at the time. Now a labor economic consultant, he would bring it into the open again and murmur it.

"I would restore and activate the ability to pay concept to collective bargaining," he said. He would seek cooperation rather than confrontation.

Jennings, who has an international following, would restore the concept not through law but by an appeal to reason and understanding.

"Most people don't know the simple arithmetic of business," he said. "They add it up all wrong. Even economists forget that 2 and 2 equals 4."

Business, which is directly affected by these shortcomings, hasn't done its share to educate, he feels.

"Even today they're reluctant to show the real figures," he said. Nobody, he believes is willing to state the facts.

Among the simple facts Jennings stresses is that most people believe the majority of national income goes to owners. The truth, he says, is that employees get about 75 per cent of it.

Of the divisible corporate income, 80.1 per cent in 1975 went to employees, said Jennings, but in almost any survey of employees the great majority believe they are receiving only a fraction of that percentage.

No wonder, he says, that strikes in support of high demands proliferate. No wonder we have high prices that eat up those increases, he says, when mass production industries simply pass on wage costs as

Believes In Doing Things In Big Way

Bucks' Busby 'C' All-Stater

By JACK WALKDEN

Staff Sports Writer

Gerald Busby believes in doing things in a big way. And that flashy brilliance helped make the 6-4 junior a unanimous selection on the Associated Press Class C All-State basketball team announced today by sportswriters and broadcasters statewide.

"Gerald's not happy doing things in a small way,"

Buchanan coach Jon Bohannon says. "He'll take the difficult shot or try the difficult play and make it go."

"We know what kind of thing he's going to do. We just never know when it'll come or exactly how it'll come."

Busby's flashiness helped him to a school-record 688 points this season and a 25.5 average. He poured in a Buck record 52 points against New Buffalo. In two years with Buchanan, Busby has scored 1,004 points while becoming only the second player in southwestern Michigan history to crack the 1,000-point barrier as a junior.

For Busby, basketball is a 24-hour-a-day project. He talks basketball, sleeps basketball, and eats basketball.

"To me, basketball is the most exciting sport there is," Busby says. "There are so many things you can do. In football and baseball, a player can only do certain things."

Busby is always looking for things to catch the fan's eye, especially in rebounding and the dunk shot.

"When you see a player grab a rebound, he's jumping so high and coming down so strong that it catches your eye," Busby says. "And I want to be one of those players that catches other people's eyes."

Busby's idol is Philadelphia's Dr. J, Julius Erving. And the Buck standout tries to imitate the Doctor's many dunk shots.

"The dunk wasn't too much to me until I saw Dr. J," he explains. "He can do so many things when he dunks the ball."

That's where I get my ideas."

And though humble, Busby has that quiet self-confidence which makes those ideas become reality.

"Gerald will work on one particular move until he perfects it," Bohannon says. "He's a perfectionist and sets high goals for himself."

"You have to know him to appreciate what a good-natured man he is," Bohannon says. "He is always trying to mask his good-naturedness so that the opposition will fear him. But he is a pleasure to be around."

"He leads by example with his play on the floor. He is able to inspire others to extend themselves. Some people have an optimistic look on life and he's one of them. He thinks he controls his own destiny and I think he does. I think he'll make whatever he wants out of his life."

Busby believes basketball will be his vehicle to go to college. And he may just be right.

"I think about my future in basketball a lot," he says. "A lot of people have told me that I'm good enough to play pro ball. But there are times when I wonder if I will even be able to play in college."

"I need more work on the fundamentals because that will be the key to any progress I make."

But with Busby's desire, that progress is well within reach.

Busby was one of four unanimous picks for the Class C team. Heading the list is Rich Brauer from Detroit Lutheran West. A Class B All-Stater last season, the 6-5 senior forward is considered to be one of the top 10 players in the metropolitan Detroit area by some coaches.

Brauer averaged 25.9 points and snared 13.7 rebounds per game. He scored a total of 1,569 points in his career to break the old school record held by Dave Baxter, now at the University of Michigan.

The other unanimous choice was Jeff Szczepanski of Bay City All Saints.

Rounding out the all-State squad are Duane Glenn of Detroit St. Andrew, Kalamazoo Hackett's Mark Mindeman, Calvin Johnson of Muskegon Oakridge, Anthony Barnard of Pontiac Catholic, Center Line St. Clement's Jeff Jaworski and Jim Cassel of Lansing Catholic.

Injured Lanier May Miss Playoffs

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons received some discouraging news Tuesday: center Bob Lanier may not be recovered in time to play in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Pistons were counting on Lanier as soon as his broken hand healed. After the surgical stitches were removed and the hand was examined by Dr. Eugene Horrell on Tuesday, however, Lanier was unsure if he'll be ready for post-season play.

"I can't say I won't, but I can't say I will either," Lanier explained.

A club spokesman said the doctor's report indicated that the hand is "stable" and "looking good," but that it will be another "17 or 18 days" before the star center is able to play.

A delay of 18 days would mean Lanier could be ready for the regular season finale April 10.

"The situation (he Horrell) talked to me about today...if it got messed up again, it would be a more difficult operation and it would jeopardize myself," Lanier said. "If my future is in danger, I ain't going to mess around. When it is right, I'll know it and the doctor will know it."

Lanier, who had been averaging 25 points and 11 rebounds a game, said he doesn't like the prospect of sitting out the rest of the season.

"You can't even judge how it bothers me," he said. "It tears me up to sit down there and watch them. I hate it. I hate it with a passion, sitting around and not being able to do anything."

Lanier's injury is one factor in the Pistons' three-game losing streak, which has endangered their playoff berth with just 11 games remaining.

The Detroit club is plagued with other problems, however. Ralph Simpson is playing with tendonitis in his right knee. Leon Douglas has a sore ankle and Al Eberhard is playing with a twisted knee.

To top things off, Marvin Barnes — who says he might choose to begin his one-year prison sentence for probation violation rather than remain with the Pistons for the playoffs — skipped Tuesday's practice for undetermined reasons

Chicago's Amazing Streak
Sparked By Early Failure

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls continue their amazing surge, and part of the reason for their recent success is their early season failure.

"We're not playing any differently now, except that we're a little more mature and the shots are starting to fall in," said Chicago Coach Ed Badger, whose Bulls beat the Los Angeles Lakers 102-86 Tuesday night for their sixth victory in a row and 17th in the last 18 National Basketball Association games.

"We have so much confidence now, it's hard to believe we lost so many games," said captain Norm Van Lier of the Bulls, who got off to a 2-14 start this season. "I think the difference is that we know what we want to do and if we goof up a play, we don't suddenly fall apart."

The Bulls did not goof up many plays against the Lakers, sending the crowd of 21,046 — the biggest pro basketball attendance in Chicago history — home happy.

Chicago pulled away in the third period when Wilbur Holland, Mickey Johnson and Scott May combined for 21 points, putting the Bulls ahead 76-63. Los Angeles closed the gap to 10 points, but Holland scored six points and Artis Gilmore added two stuffs, putting the game out of reach.

Holland led the Bulls with 24 points, while Johnson grabbed 21 rebounds. Kareem Abdul Jabbar and Earl Tatum each scored 18 points for the Lakers.

Despite the victory, Chicago failed to gain in its bid to overtake Kansas City for the sixth and final playoff berth in the Western Conference as the Kings beat the Golden State Warriors 126-113. The Seattle SuperSonics, also in the scramble, were beaten by the Cleveland Cavaliers 108-104.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday night, the Boston Celtics defeated the San Antonio Spurs 108-104, the New York Knicks topped the Milwaukee Bucks 123-115, the Houston Rockets stopped the Indiana Pacers 106-99, the Atlanta Hawks nipped the Buffalo Braves 86-84 and the New Orleans Jazz beat the Portland Trail Blazers 106-95.

Brian Taylor's 33 points and four steals helped the Kings beat Golden State.

Seattle took the lead in the fourth quarter with a 15-2 burst, but Cleveland climbed ahead 89-88 on a basket by Jim Brewer midway through the period and the Sonics never were able to get back in front.

Boston remained four games ahead of New York in the battle for the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference by erasing a nine-point deficit in the final period and stopping the Spurs. Jo Jo White led Boston with 27 points.

The Knicks scored the first six points of the game, grabbed a 37-21 lead after one period and never were in trouble against Milwaukee. Bob McAdoo led the way with 29 points and 15 rebounds as the Knicks equalled their longest winning streak of the season with their third victory in a row.

Houston moved into a tie with Denver and Los Angeles for the best record in the NBA at 44-27 by outscoring the Pacers 14-6 in the final five minutes for its 10th victory in the last 11 games.

Rudy Tomjanovich led the Rockets with 26 points while Moses Malone set an NBA record for offensive rebounding when he grabbed his fourth in the fourth quarter, giving him 366 for the season. The old oneseaon mark was 365, set by Paul Silas of Boston last year.

Len Robinson, who has averaged 22.2 points per game since joining the Hawks in mid-season, sank a 20-footer with one second remaining to beat the Braves. Robinson led all scorers with 32 points.

Pete Maravich scored 31 points and reserve center Otto Moore grabbed 16 rebounds for New Orleans, which broke open the game in the third period by outscoring Portland 36-19.

Cassopolis' Kevin Loder and Kurt Wiese of Decatur were given Special Honor recognition on the Associated Press Class C All-State basketball team announced today.

Loder, a three-year regular for Cass, scored 403 points this year for a 20.2 per game average. The 6-5 senior also pulled down 300 rebounds (15.0).

Wiese, who was picked to the United Press International Class C All-State first team, finished with 1,179 career points.

Injured Lanier May Miss Playoffs

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons received some discouraging news Tuesday: center Bob Lanier may not be recovered in time to play in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Pistons were counting on Lanier as soon as his broken hand healed. After the surgical stitches were removed and the hand was examined by Dr. Eugene Horrell on Tuesday, however, Lanier was unsure if he'll be ready for post-season play.

"I can't say I won't, but I can't say I will either," Lanier explained.

A club spokesman said the doctor's report indicated that the hand is "stable" and "looking good," but that it will be another "17 or 18 days" before the star center is able to play.

A delay of 18 days would mean Lanier could be ready for the regular season finale April 10.

"The situation he (Horrell) talked to me about today...if it got messed up again, it would be a more difficult operation and it would jeopardize myself," Lanier said. "If my future is in danger, I ain't going to mess around. When it is right, I'll know it and the doctor will know it."

Lanier, who had been averaging 25 points and 11 rebounds a game, said he doesn't like the prospect of sitting out the rest of the season.

"You can't even judge how it bothers me," he said. "It tears me up to sit down there and watch them. I hate it. I hate it with a passion, sitting around and not being able to do anything."

Lanier's injury is one factor in the Pistons' three-game losing streak, which has endangered their playoff berth with just 11 games remaining.

The Detroit club is plagued with other problems, however. Ralph Simpson is playing with tendonitis in his right knee, Leon Douglas has a sore ankle and Al Eberhard is playing with a twisted knee.

To top things off, Marvin Barnes — who says he might choose to begin his one-year prison sentence for probation violation rather than remain with the Pistons for the playoffs — skipped Tuesday's practice for undetermined reasons.

Chicago's Amazing Streak

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls continue their amazing surge, and part of the reason for their recent success is their early season failure.

"We're not playing any differently now, except that we're a little more mature and the shots are starting to fall in," said Chicago Coach Ed Badger, whose Bulls beat the Los Angeles Lakers 102-86 Tuesday night for their sixth victory in a row and 17th in the last 18 National Basketball Association games.

"We have so much confidence now, it's hard to believe we lost so many games," said captain Norm Van Lier of the Bulls, who got off to a 2-14 start this season. "I think the difference is that we know what we want to do and if we goof up a play, we don't suddenly fall apart."

The Bulls did not goof up many plays against the Lakers, sending the crowd of 21,048 — the biggest pro basketball attendance in Chicago history — home happy.

Chicago pulled away in the third period when Wilbur Holland, Mickey Johnson and Scott May combined for 21 points, putting the Bulls ahead 76-63. Los Angeles closed the gap to 10 points, but Holland scored six points and Artis Gilmore added two stufts, putting the game out of reach.

Holland led the Bulls with 24 points, while Johnson grabbed 21 rebounds. Kareem Abdul Jabbar and Earl Tatum each scored 18 points for the Lakers.

Despite the victory, Chicago failed to gain in its bid to overtake Kansas City for the sixth and final playoff berth in the Western Conference as the Kings beat the Golden State Warriors 126-113. The Seattle SuperSonics, also in the scramble, were beaten by the Cleveland Cavaliers 108-104.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday night, the Boston Celtics defeated the San Antonio Spurs 108-104, the New York Knicks topped the Milwaukee Bucks 123-115, the Houston Rockets stopped the Indiana Pacers 106-99, the Atlanta Hawks nipped the Buffalo Braves 86-84 and the New Orleans Jazz beat the Portland Trail Blazers 106-95.

Brian Taylor's 33 points and four steals helped the Kings beat Golden State.

Seattle took the lead in the fourth quarter with a 15-2 burst, but Cleveland climbed ahead 89-88 on a basket by Jim Brewer midway through the period and the Sonics never were able to get back in front.

Boston remained four games ahead of New York in the battle for the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference by erasing a nine-point deficit in the final period and stopping the Spurs. Jo Jo White led Boston with 27 points.

The Knicks scored the first six points of the game, grabbed a 37-21 lead after one period and never were in trouble against Milwaukee. Bob McAdoo led the way with 29 points and 15 rebounds as the Knicks equalled their longest winning streak of the season with their third victory in a row.

Houston moved into a tie with Denver and Los Angeles for the best record in the NBA at 44-27 by outscoring the Pacers 144 in the final five minutes for its 10th victory in the last 11 games.

Rudy Tomjanovich led the Rockets with 26 points while Moses Malone set an NBA record for offensive rebounding when he grabbed his fourth in the fourth quarter, giving him 366 for the season. The old onesoason mark was 365, set by Paul Silas of Boston last year.

Len Robinson, who has averaged 22.2 points per game since joining the Hawks in mid-season, sank a 20-footer with one second remaining to beat the Braves. Robinson led all scorers with 32 points.

Pete Maravich scored 31 points and reserve center Otto Moore grabbed 16 rebounds for New Orleans, which broke open the game in the third period by outscoring Portland 36-19.

Kuhn, Finley Targets At Owners' Meeting

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Baseball's biggest combatants, Bowie Kuhn and Charles O. Finley, may become targets at Thursday's meeting of the major league owners.

Commissioner Kuhn may face an owners' scheme to restrict his powers — powers that a judge recently ruled were near-dictatorial. Finley, the Oakland A's owner who just lost his $3.5 million law suit against Kuhn, could succumb to pressure to sell his franchise.

The backroom talk of several owners is that some of Kuhn's powers should be shifted to a special board composed of owners. "No one man should have to shoulder that much responsibility or have that much power," said George Steinbrenner, principal owner of the New York Yankees. "My point is that this is just too much responsibility for one man to carry on his back. It's unfair to him.

"Also, the license to take any action he deems 'in the best interests of baseball' is much too broad to be in one man's hands."

Talk of diluting Kuhn's powers is not on the owners' agenda. But Finley's situation, termed "franchise relocation" on the agenda, is expected to be part of the talks.

One report has club owners from the American and National leagues teaming to purchase the A's from Finley. If Finley sells, then the franchise would be shifted to Washington, D.C., as a National League team for the 1978 season.

That would give baseball a pair of 13-team leagues — the second item on the owners' meeting agenda. Presently, the American League has 14 teams while the National League has 12.

According to the report, Finley was cautious about the proposal, indicating he would prefer to stay in baseball, but that he would listen to offers. Later, he said he wouldn't go along with the plan, which reportedly was proposed to him on March 10 by AL President Lee MacPhail.

"It's true I've spoken with Finley from time to time about his selling the club," said MacPhail, "but I have no authority from the American League to make him an offer."

Kuhn hasn't said publicly whether he supports the plan as the means of bringing a franchise to Washington, a move he has favored for some time.

"The critical fact is that Mr. Finley was trying to sell his club to baseball several years ago and has been continuing this effort ever since, including recently," Kuhn said. "Whether baseball will entertain his offer I really can't tell you right now."

The other matters on Thursday's agenda, under the heading of "Scheduling," are: limited interleague play, three divisions within each league and schedules for the league championships, and World Series.

The last item is the only one that contemplates changes for 1977. Kuhn, criticized last season for delaying the start of the playoffs until a Saturday, is considering starting the 1977 season on a Tuesday. Television, however, favors a weekend start.

Tigers' Fidrych Injured

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Call the Mayo Clinic, Marcus Welby, Joe Gannon, Emergency One, Christian Barnard — even Oral Roberts.

Get Dr. Kildare and Ben Casey out of retirement.

How about the spirit of Albert Schweitzer, too?

The Detroit Tigers need every available resource to heal their franchise — Mark Fidrych is injured.

"The Bird" sprained his left knee shagging a fly ball Monday at Marchant Stadium. X-rays were taken Tuesday at Watson Clinic and doctors said the star pitcher must rest and be re-examined Friday. The seriousness of the injury will probably be known then.

"If it's just a knee strain, I'd keep him out at least a week, anyway," said Manager Ralph Houk, after Detroit's 6-2 exhibition baseball victory Tuesday night over the Boston Red Sox.

"His arm is in shape already," Houk said. "I wouldn't take any chances with that kid at all."

Fidrych, who won 19 games and was the 1976 American League Rookie of the Year, apparently twisted the knee in an awkward landing after jumping to catch a ball.

"He did all his running and it didn't bother him at all," Houk said. "...They (doctors) aren't really concerned. I think, or they'd fly him somewhere. My experience is that if something is torn you feel a sharp pain. If it's a torn tendon or cartilage you can't go running around."

"Naturally, it's of great concern because of his importance to the ball club."

Fidrych was supposed to start Thursday night's game against Houston. Instead, rookies Bob Sykes and George Cappuzzello are scheduled to pitch.

Word of the injury clouded Tuesday's victory. Detroit's third straight in a 9-5 record. It came before a near-record crowd of 5,288.

STEVE MCNUTT

BH's McNutt Cops All-LMAC Honors

Benton Harbor's Steve McNutt was one of four unanimous picks on the All-LMAC basketball team announced today by league coaches.

McNutt, a 6-3 senior guard, was the league scoring champion with 189 points, edging Grand Haven's Mark Hosper. Hosper, a forward who was also a unanimous first-team selection, finished with 188 points.

McNutt posted an 18.9 league average, while Hosper, who missed two games with an illness, had a 23.5 mark.

The two were joined by a pair of Muskegon Catholic standouts as unanimous selections. Ron Wolff and Vernell Adams, who finished with respective 16.6 and 16.0 scoring averages, received first team votes from all of the league coaches.

Rounding out the first team were Tom Raymond (11.4) and Dave Mahn (13.1) of Traverse City. Muskegon stars Robert Allen (13.7), John Brown (13.2) and Len Hairston and Grand Haven's Brad Koster (14.5). Koster had the best individual game in the LMCA this year, scoring 40 against Benton Harbor.

Benton Harbor, which finished in a four-way tie with Muskegon, Muskegon Catholic and Traverse City for the league title, boasted guard Ronald Page, center Keith Taylor and freshman Tyrone Hampton as honorable mention picks.

Namath, Ashe, Ali Should Leave Careers In Dignity

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Say it ain't so, Joe. Hang 'em up, Ali.

C'm on, Arthur, grab that brief case instead of a racket.

Three of America's most imposing sports figures of the last decade — Jets' quarterback Joe Namath, heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and tennis star Arthur Ashe — have reached the fork in their remarkable careers and must make a decision: carry on or leave the stage in dignity.

All apparently have chosen the ego trip. More's the pity.

Namath, 33, with knees held together by safety pins and adhesive tape, is flirting with a last hurrah as a member of the Los Angeles Rams. If he goes West — and every indication is he will — then he will go with helmet in hand, at a reduced salary and in the role of a football "designated pitcher."

The 35-year-old Ali, his old fighting skills tarnished, his speed slowed but his mind and mouth keen as ever, has committed himself to take on some obscure Italian punching bag named Lorenzo "Rocky" Zanon in Korea next month.

It's another humpty-dumpty outing for "The Greatest."

Ashe, 33, the black policeman's son who fought the battles of racial injustice while winning highest honors on the court, has undergone an operation for a heel injury that hobbled him for years and has ended his long bachelorhood.

Now he plans to resume big time tournament tennis. It is a laudable gesture but, in our mind, a foolish one. He should make periodic appearances in the big ones — Wimbledon, the U.S. Open and even the Davis Cup — and turn his talents in another direction, perhaps as an aide to United Nations ambassador Andrew Young, his good friend.

There is something tragic about a great sports hero striving to keep alive fading glories. It is depressing to see a once mighty champion reduced to a battered, humiliated victim because he failed to heed the red signal which said, "Stop."

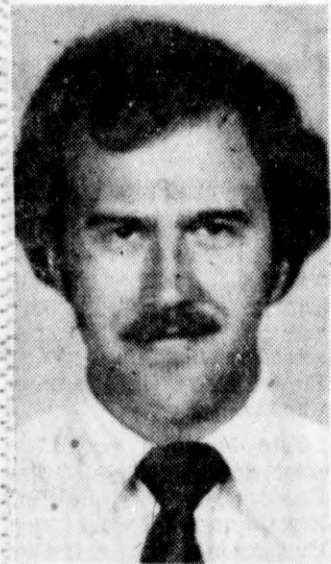

This was particularly true in the case of Joe Louis, the revered Brown Bomber, one of the greatest fighting machines who ever lived. He was beaten by Ezzard Charles after emerging from retirement in 1950 and then crushed in eight brutal rounds by a young Rocky Marciano in 1951.

"I didn't want to fight," Louis was to say later. "I needed the money."

Marciano went on to win the title in September, 1952, run up a record of 49 victories without defeat and retire, virtually unmarked, in April, 1956, at age 32. He died in a plane accident three years later.

Marciano, nevertheless, as did Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams and others, left his admirers an unforgettable legacy.

GARRY BENKO

Coaching Honor To Benko

Deerfield basketball coach Garry Benko, a former Bridgman athlete, has been named coach of the year in the Tri-County Conference.

Benko, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Benko of Bridgman (his father is the New Buffalo postmaster), guided Deerfield to a 20-3 record this past season and the No. 10 ranking in the final Class D Associated Press poll.

Benko, 24, played football, baseball and basketball at Bridgman before going on to get his degree at Western Michigan University.

Benko, who would like to return to southwestern Michigan as a teacher and coach, guided Deerfield to a 9-13 record in his first season, before following with the 20-3 campaign.

The record made the team the winningest ever in Deerfield history. Deerfield also took the conference championship with an 11-1 mark — the first title for the school since 1961.

Benko is married, and his wife, Geri, is a teacher in the Blissfield system.

Return To Cuba Thrilled Fuentes

LAKELAND, Fla. — The abortive Bay of Pigs Invasion and the Cuban missile crisis had recently become history.

John F. Kennedy was President of the United States and Marxist revolutionary Fidel Castro had become dictator of Cuba.

And Rigoberto "Tito" Fuentes left his Cuban home to become a professional baseball player in the United States. The year was 1962.

This winter Fuentes went home — for the first time in 14 years.

"I surprised my mother and father," the new Detroit Tiger second baseman said during a spring training breather. "I hadn't seen them in 14 years. They knew I had permission to come, but they didn't know the day. It was a big thrill."

Visiting one's parents seems a simple enough gesture. But not for Fuentes. Because of the political conflicts between the United States and Cuba, what should have been easy was instead very complicated.

Fuentes said he first sought permission to return to Cuba in 1973. It took three years and reams of correspondence to fulfill his dream. Final paper work took two months, he said, and he did it all himself.

"Who's going to help me with that?" the 33-year-old veteran of 11 years in the major leagues asked.

Because of travel restrictions to Cuba, Fuentes had to first go to Mexico. And before he went anywhere: "I needed permission from the U.S. — not to leave, but to come back. I'm not a U.S. citizen. Then I had to get permission to get in and out of Mexico. Then I had to get permission to get in and out of Cuba."

"I had to do all that by letter. You can't do it by telephone calls."

Fuentes said he spent 25 days in Cuba and his parents, "said they hope I come back more frequently. I hope so."

"I managed to see almost all my relatives," he said, "and I have a lot of relatives."

Fuentes refused to talk about U.S.-Cuban relations or say if he favors recent efforts to send American baseball players to Cuba for an exhibition tour as part of a political thaw between the countries.

But he did say Cuban ballplayers are outstanding and, "There's not much you can teach those guys. They know everything."

The lifetime .263 hitter was one of the free agents available last fall in the first dispersal draft. Eight teams picked him, but it was only last month that the Tigers signed him to a one-year, $90,000 contract — giving him the option to become a free agent after the season.

Several teams eyed Fuentes as a third baseman. He said one of the reasons he signed with the Tigers was that they needed him at his usual second base position.

Also drafting him were Philadelphia, Oakland, Montreal, Baltimore, the Chicago White Sox, San Francisco and San Diego.

His first farm club was Lakeland of the Florida State League in 1962 — now a Tiger affiliate. Fuentes made it to the big leagues in 1965 with the Giants and was traded to San Diego after the 1974 season.

Fuentes has never been to Detroit, "not even at the airport," he said. "All I hear is it's a dangerous city. I know I'm going to live outside Detroit."

Smythe Squads Can Be Tough

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Hockey League's Smythe Division is without a winning team. But don't tell that to Bob Pulford.

Pulford, the coach of the Norris Division's Los Angeles Kings, watched his team lose to the St. Louis Blues 4-2 Tuesday night.

"The difference between teams in this league is really very small," said Pulford, whose club has a 3-9-2 record against the Smythe Division.

"Earlier in the season I don't think we prepared well enough for the Smythe Division teams," he said. "But I can assure you that tonight we wanted this game as badly if not more than they did."

Red Berenson and Brian Sutter gave St. Louis a 2-0 edge before Vic Venasky scored for Los Angeles. But St. Louis came back with a clinching goal by Bob MacMillan with 9:59 left.

In other NHL games Tuesday night, it was the New York Islanders 9, Colorado 2; Buffalo 6, Atlanta 3; Pittsburgh 4, Minnesota 2, and Philadelphia 4, Vancouver 4.

St. Louis' victory boosted the Blues' lead in the Smythe Division to 10 points over the idle Black Hawks despite their unspectacular record of 30-35-9. Los Angeles fell five points back of the Pittsburgh Penguins in their battle for the runner-up spot in the Norris Division behind the Montreal Canadiens.

Gary McAdam scored two goals and had two assists as Buffalo beat the Flames.

Brian Trottier, Bobby Bourne and Dennis Potvin scored two goals apiece for the Islanders, who skated to a 5-0 lead in routing the Rockies.

Third-period goals by Ron Stackhouse, Rick Kehoe and Don Awrey lifted Pittsburgh to its victory over Minnesota.

After the Flyers pulled goalie Bernie Parent for a sixth attacker, Reggie Leach scored from the slot with 18 seconds remaining, giving Philadelphia a 4-4 tie with the Canucks.

Bobby Clarke, who also scored a goal, had a hand in all of the Philadelphia scoring as he handed out three assists.

The tie gave Philadelphia 102 points and a three-point lead over the Islanders in the Patrick Division race.

Then I had to get permission to get in and out of Mexico. Then I had to get permission to get in and out of Cuba."

"I had to do all that by letter. You can't do it by telephone calls."

Fuentes said he spent 25 days in Cuba and his parents, "said they hope I come back more frequently. I hope so."

"I managed to see almost all my relatives," he said, "and I have a lot of relatives."

Fuentes refused to talk about U.S.-Cuban relations or say if he favors recent efforts to send American baseball players to Cuba for an exhibition tour as part of a political thaw between the countries.

But he did say Cuban ballplayers are outstanding and, "There's not much you can teach those guys. They know everything."

The lifetime .283 hitter was one of the free agents available last fall in the first dispersal draft. Eight teams picked him, but it was only last month that the Tigers signed him to a one-year, $90,000 contract — giving him the option to become a free agent after the season.

Several teams eyed Fuentes as a third baseman. He said one of the reasons he signed with the Tigers was that they needed him at his usual second base position.

Also drafting him were Philadelphia, Oakland, Montreal, Baltimore, the Chicago White Sox, San Francisco and San Diego.

His first farm club was Lakeland of the Florida State League in 1962 — now a Tiger affiliate. Fuentes made it to the big leagues in 1965 with the Giants and was traded to San Diego after the 1974 season.

Fuentes has never been to Detroit, "not even at the airport," he said. "All I hear is it's a dangerous city. I know I'm going to live outside Detroit."

END OF TRAIL: Rick Swenson of Manley, Alaska, stops to show his appreciation to dog team that pulled him in first on the 1,049-mile Iditarod Trail sled dog race from Anchorage to Nome. Swenson made the trek in 16 days, 16 hours and 27 minutes. The 26-year-old's mustache is crusted with icicles which formed when his breath condensed in the 24 degree below zero temperature coming into Nome. Three teams came in within 20 minutes for the closest finish in the trek's five-year history. (AP Wirephoto)

Smythe Squads Can Be Tough

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Hockey League's Smythe Division is without a winning team. But don't tell that to Bob Pulford.

Pulford, the coach of the Norris Division's Los Angeles Kings, watched his team lose to the St. Louis Blues 4-2 Tuesday night.

"The difference between teams in this league is really very small," said Pulford, whose club has a 3-9-2 record against the Smythe Division.

"Earlier in the season I don't think we prepared well enough for the Smythe Division teams," he said. "But I can assure you that tonight we wanted this game as badly if not more than they did."

After the Flyers pulled goalie Bernie Parent for a sixth attacker, Reggie Leach scored from the slot in 18 seconds remaining, giving Philadelphia a 4-4 tie with the Canucks.

Bobby Clarke, who also scored a goal, had a hand in all of the Philadelphia scoring as he handed out three assists.

Coaching Honor To Benko

Deerfield basketball coach Garry Benko, a former Bridgman athlete, has been named coach of the year in the Tri-County Conference.

Benko, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Benko of Bridgman (his father is the New Buffalo postmaster), guided Deerfield to a 20-3 record this past season and the No. 19 ranking in the final Class D Associated Press poll.

Benko, 24, played football, basketball and basketball at Bridgman before going on to get his degree at Western Michigan University.

Benko, who would like to return to southwestern Michigan as a teacher and coach, guided Deerfield to a 4-13 record in his first season, before following with the 20-3 campaign.

The record made the team the winningest ever in Deerfield history. Deerfield also took the conference championship with an 11-1 mark — the first title for the school since 1961.

Benko is married, and his wife, Geri, is a teacher in the Blissfield system.

Talk Helped Toone

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Al McGuire made it clear he wouldn't have done it with just any player. But then, Marquette University's non-conformist basketball coach doesn't consider Bernard Toone just any player.

"I never get personally involved with a player who's not great," said McGuire, who would cap his coaching career if his Warriors, 23-7, compete in the NCAA finals. They are to meet North Carolina-Charlotte, 28-3, at the semifinals Saturday in Atlanta.

"I don't take my ball players aside," McGuire said. "I don't talk. I dictate. But I wanted to talk to Bernard last week. I made an exception."

Toone, a sophomore averaging only 4.3 points a game despite immense potential, and McGuire had their private discussion before the Marquette-

Wake Forest game last Saturday. Toone responded with 18 points, 16 in the second half, as the Warriors won 82-68 for the NCAA Midwest Regional title.

McGuire and Toone have quarreled almost constantly since Marquette won a major recruiting battle and signed the 6-foot-9 Yonkers, N.Y., high school star two years ago. Toone believes he should be starting, but McGuire maintains Toone first must improve his defense. Toone plays behind Bill Neary, who has no shot but plays defense, rebounds and sets picks well.

"Wake Forest maybe would have been my last game, so I wanted to talk to Bernard about the whole situation," McGuire said. "I told him three things. I won't say what they are, but if he learns these three things he could become a combination Maurice Lucas and Dean Meminger. His world would be a merry-go-round."

Lucas, a center-forward, and Meminger, a guard, are former Marquette stars now playing in the National Basketball Association. McGuire long has maintained that Toone has more talent than any player he has coached, but must develop and channel that talent.

"I don't get involved with a player with limited talent," McGuire said. "Hey, you never see me yelling at Bill Neary or Craig Butryn. But with Bernard, I've got to yell, bring it out of him. When a guy has the God-given ability that Bernard has, it would be a mortal sin for a coach not to get it out of him."

Toone, who earlier this season broke into tears on the bench after a mid-game spat with McGuire, said he finally has come to understand why

McGuire verbally — and sometimes physically — abuses him.

"I understand him now," Toone said. "That's just his way. He does it every year. When Butch Lee was a freshman, he always yelled at Butch. People talked about how maybe I was going to change schools because of him (McGuire), but it never got to that."

Toone said his understanding of McGuire's tactics has made him a more relaxed player, which he said was responsible for his scoring explosion against Wake Forest.

Toone's playing time has increased lately, but only because of a shoulder injury to reserve forward Ulice Payne. And despite Toone's brilliant play last week, McGuire has no plans to make more use of him against North Carolina-Charlotte.

Rebels Reach Big Time

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Nevada-Las Vegas Coach Jerry Tarkanian, one of the winningest active coaches in college basketball today, has never been accused of being unemotional or of underestimating an opponent.

It's no different this week. What is different is that after five disappointing losses in regional play over the past seven years, Tarkanian will finally take a team to the big time: the NCAA semifinals in Atlanta Saturday and a date with fifth-ranked North Carolina.

The fourth-ranked Runnin'

Rebels have been accused of putting the ball up from the locker room or the arena's mezzanine, but the team shoots nearly 50 per cent from the floor, and has six men averaging in double figures. Two of them are substitutes.

Meanwhile Tarkanian, a stubby, balding Armenian, prowls the sidelines, growls at his players and chews on towels and his fingernails.

If UNLV and semifinalist Marquette meet in the NCAA finals, Tarkanian and Warriors Coach Al McGuire will be competing for the ranting and fidgeting title on the sidelines.

But Marquette will have to get past North Carolina-Charlotte, and Nevada-Las Vegas will have to defeat the ever-tough Tar Heels of North Carolina to produce the colorful coach matchup next Monday night.

Preparing for the Western sub-regionals two weeks ago, Tarkanian said the Rebels, 28-2, would have to play their best game of the season against the University of San Francisco. The Dons sat atop the ratings most of the year.

The Rebels responded with a 121-95 triumph.

The answer was the same last week as Tarkanian prepared his team for what he thought would be UCLA. The Bruins got upset and after a slow start, the Rebels blew away Idaho State 107-90, to earn the trip to Atlanta.

Tarkanian again insists his squad will have to play its absolute best to beat Dean Smith's Tar Heels, who sport a 27-4 record.

Complimentary? One would think Tarkanian was planning his strategy for the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

"They (the Tar Heels) do so many things so well," Tarkanian said.

Talk Helped Toone

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Al McGuire made it clear he wouldn't have done it with just any player. But then, Marquette University's non-conformist basketball coach doesn't consider Bernard Toone just any player.

"I never get personally involved with a player who's not great," said McGuire, who would cap his coaching career if his Warriors, 23-7, compete in the NCAA finals. They are to meet North Carolina-Charlotte, 28-3, at the semifinals Saturday in Atlanta.

"I don't take my ball players aside," McGuire said. "I don't talk. I dictate. But I wanted to talk to Bernard last week. I made an exception."

Toone, a sophomore averaging only 4.3 points a game despite immense potential, and McGuire had their private discussion before the Marquette-

Wake Forest game last Saturday. Toone responded with 18 points, 16 in the second half, as the Warriors won 82-68 for the NCAA Midwest Regional title.

McGuire and Toone have quarreled almost constantly since Marquette won 4 major recruiting battle and signed the 6-foot-9 Yonkers, N.Y., high school star two years ago. Toone believes he should be starting, but McGuire maintains Toone first must improve his defense. Toone plays behind Bill Neary, who has no shot but plays defense, rebounds and sets picks well.

"Wake Forest maybe would have been my last game, so I wanted to talk to Bernard about the whole situation," McGuire said. "I told him three things. I won't say what they are, but if he learns these three things he could become a combination Maurice Lucas

Lucas, a center-forward, and Meminger, a guard, are former Marquette stars now playing in the National Basketball Association. McGuire long has maintained that Toone has more talent than any player he has coached, but must develop and channel that talent.

"I don't get involved with a player with limited talent," McGuire said. "Hey, you never see me yelling at Bill Neary or Craig Butryn. But with Bernard, I've got to yell, bring it out of him. When a guy has the God-given ability that Bernard has, it would be a mortal sin for a coach not to get it out of him."

Toone, who earlier this season broke into tears on the bench after a mid-game spat with McGuire, said he finally has come to understand why

McGuire verbally — and sometimes physically — abuses him.

"I understand him now," Toone said. "That's just his way. He does it every year. When Butch Lee was a freshman, he always yelled at Butch. People talked about how maybe I was going to change schools because of him (McGuire), but it never got to that."

Toone said his understanding of McGuire's tactics has made him a more relaxed player, which he said was responsible for his scoring explosion against Wake Forest.

Toone's playing time has increased lately, but only because of a shoulder injury to reserve forward Ulice Payne. And despite Toone's brilliant play last week, McGuire has no plans to make more use of him against North Carolina-Charlotte.

Rebels Reach Big Time

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Nevada-Las Vegas Coach Jerry Tarkanian, one of the winningest active coaches in college basketball today, has never been accused of being unemotional or of underestimating an opponent.

It's no different this week.

What is different is that after five disappointing losses in regional play over the past seven years, Tarkanian will finally take a team to the big time: the NCAA semifinals in Atlanta Saturday and a date with fifth-ranked North Carolina.

The fourth-ranked Runnin'

Rebels have been accused of putting the ball up from the locker room or the arena's mezzanine, but the team shoots nearly 50 per cent from the floor, and has six men averaging in double figures. Two of them are substitutes.

Meanwhile Tarkanian, a stubby, balding Armenian, prowls the sidelines, growls at his players and chews on towels and his fingernails.

If UNLV and semifinalist Marquette meet in the NCAA finals, Tarkanian and Warriors Coach Al McGuire will be competing for the ranting and fidgeting title on the sidelines.

But Marquette will have to get past North Carolina-Charlotte, and Nevada-Las Vegas will have to defeat the ever-tough Tar Heels of North Carolina to produce the colorful coach matchup next Monday night.

Preparing for the Western sub-regionals two weeks ago, Tarkanian said the Rebels, 28-2, would have to play their best game of the season against the University of San Francisco. The Dons sat atop the ratings most of the year.

The Rebels responded with a 121-95 trumph.

The answer was the same last week as Tarkanian prepared his team for what he thought would be UCLA. The Bruins got upset, and after a slow start, the Rebels blew away Idaho State 107-90, to earn the trip to Atlanta.

Tarkanian again insists his squad will have to play its absolute best to beat Dean Smith's Tar Heels, who sport a 27-4 record.

Complimentary? One would think Tarkanian was planning his strategy for the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

"They (the Tar Heels) do so many things so well," Tarkanian said.

Mike's Case Over

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Four misdemeanor charges against Atlanta Braves relief pitcher Mike Marshall have been dropped by the state.

Ingham County Prosecutor Peter Houk said today it "doesn't make a lot of sense" to prosecute Marshall on charges stemming from a run-in he had with Michigan State University officials when more important cases are pending.

The 34-year-old pitcher said today he would leave Friday to spend the remainder of spring training with the Braves. He had received permission to remain in East Lansing until the court cases against him were resolved.

Charges against Marshall, who is working on a doctorate degree in physiology at MSU, concerned his use of a baseball practice area. He was charged with disrupting a scheduled MSU activity — a nearby tennis game — and later with trespassing and two counts of destruction of property when he cut a chain to enter the batting cage.

A five-day trial earlier this year on the first charge ended in a hung jury.

"That would lead us to believe they're not good solid cases," Houk acknowledged.

Marshall has complied with all university regulations since his arrest in February, 1975, Houk said.

Milliken In Arena Case

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has asked the Michigan Supreme Court to rule quickly on a lower court case which threatens the loss of $5 million in federal funds for construction of a Detroit sports arena.

In an executive message,

Milliken asked the high court to take jurisdiction over a Wayne County Circuit Court case involving a sports complex to be built on the Detroit River.

The principle issue to be resolved is whether the city's notice that it will sell general obligation bonds March 30 for the stadium complied with legal requirements.

Unless the city undertakes development of the facility before April 6, it will lose the federal public works money, Milliken said.

The Wayne County case was filed March 14 by an opponent of the project to determine whether the city gave taxpayers appropriate notice of the bond referendum. Milliken wants the Supreme Court to decide whether publication of the notice in a Detroit newspaper was sufficient.

Milliken, stressing the "magnitude and importance of this matter and the necessity to have a timely resolve of the legal issue," asked the court to consider the matter immediately.

The arena, to be built at a cost of more than $20 million, would be used primarily by the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association. The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have said they don't want to play in the arena.

K-Wings Tie In Home Finale

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toledo's Brian McKenzie single-handedly stopped Port Huron Tuesday night, scoring two goals and two assists in an 8-0 International Hockey League victory that eliminated the hapless Flags from the playoffs.

In other IHL action Tuesday, the Columbus Owls and Kalamazoo Wings both disappointed large crowds in their last regular season home starts. The Owls lost a 4-2 decision to Saginaw and the Wings settled for a 2-2 tie with the Muskegon Mohawks.

McKenzie and the Goal-diggers were a likely choice to keep Port Huron's Flags out of the Turner Cup playoffs. Toledo, which wrapped up first place in the IHL's South Division last week, now owns a 38-30-7 record. The Flags, at 27-41-7, own by far the worst record in the IHL and are hopelessly mired in the league's North Division cellar.

The Ohio Expositions Center Tuesday held a crowd of 5,950 — the largest number of Owls' fans to see Columbus play during the club's nine-year history. They went home unhappy.

The Gears got second-period goals from Paul Evans, Dave Westner and Rick Chinnick. After John Flesch and Tom Cassidy scored in the third to bring the Owls within a point, Evans added another goal to clinch the victory.

Columbus, third in the South, is now 28-33-14. Saginaw moved into first in the North with their 38-27-10 record.

Muskegon's Neil Hawryliw should get some credit for putting the Gears into the North lead. It was Hawryliw's 17th goal of the season early in the second period which brought the tie with Kalamazoo — and now the Wings find themselves one point out first place.

Dwight Schofield scored first for Kalamazoo at 11:00 of the first period, but Muskegon's Bob MacGuigan tied the score seven minutes later. The Wings regained the lead on a Yvon Dupuis goal with two minutes gone in the second, but Hawryliw soon retaliated.

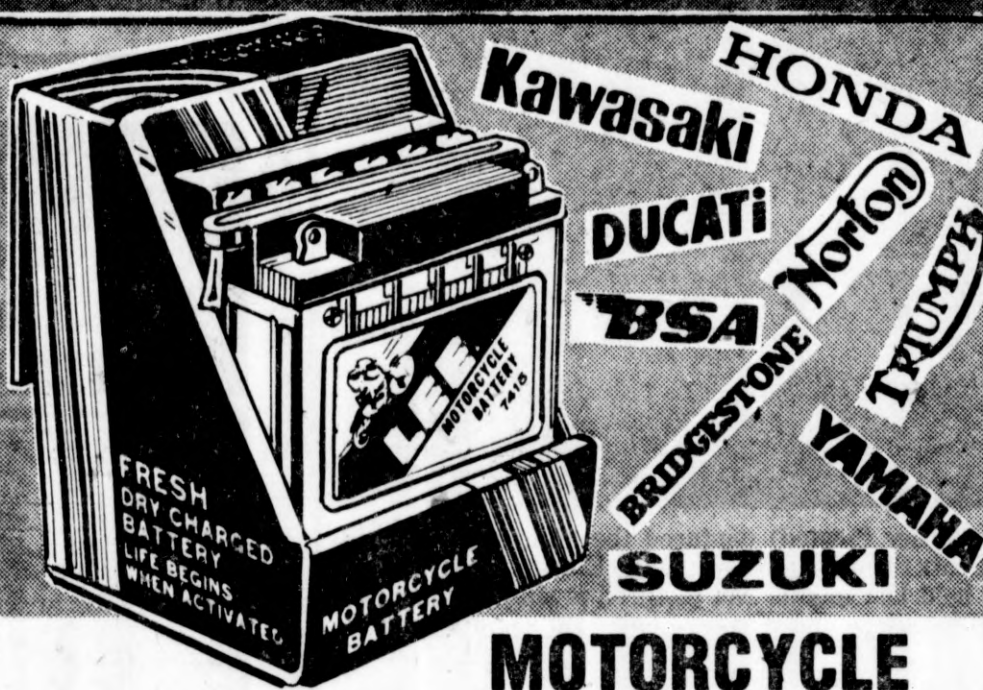

The Wings, now 36-26-13, outshot Muskegon 43-24. The Mohawks own a 30-35-11 record.

Mike's Case Over

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Four misdemeanor charges against Atlanta Braves relief pitcher Mike Marshall have been dropped by the state.

Ingham County Prosecutor Peter Houk said today it "doesn't make a lot of sense" to prosecute Marshall on charges stemming from a run-in he had with Michigan State University officials when more important cases are pending.

The 34-year-old pitcher said today he would leave Friday to spend the remainder of spring training with the Braves. He had received permission to remain in East Lansing until the court cases against him were resolved.

Charges against Marshall, who is working on a doctorate degree in physiology at MSU, concerned his use of a baseball practice area. He was charged with disrupting a scheduled MSU activity — a nearby tennis game — and later with trespassing and two counts of destruction of property when he cut a chain to enter the batting cage.

A five-day trial earlier this year on the first charge ended in a hung jury.

"That would lead us to believe they're not good solid cases," Houk acknowledged.

Marshall has complied with all university regulations since his arrest in February, 1975, Houk said.

Milliken In Arena Case

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has asked the Michigan Supreme Court to rule quickly on a lower court case which threatens the loss of $5 million in federal funds for construction of a Detroit sports arena.

In an executive message,

Milliken asked the high court to take jurisdiction over a Wayne County Circuit Court case involving a sports complex he built on the Detroit River.

The principle issue to be resolved is whether the city's notice that it will sell general obligation bonds March 30 for the stadium complied with legal requirements.

Unless the city undertakes development of the facility before April 6, it will lose the federal public works money, Milliken said.

The Wayne County case was filed March 14 by an opponent of the project to determine whether the city gave taxpayers appropriate notice of the bond referendum. Milliken wants the Supreme Court to decide whether publication of the notice in a Detroit newspaper was sufficient.

Milliken, stressing the "magnitude and importance of this matter and the necessity to have a timely resolve of the legal issue," asked the court to consider the matter immediately.

"The arena, to be built at a cost of more than $20 million, would be used primarily by the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association. The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have said they don't want to play in the arena."

K-Wings Tie In Home Finale

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toledo's Brian McKenzie single-handedly stopped Port Huron Tuesday night, scoring two goals and two assists in an 8-0 International Hockey League victory that eliminated the hapless Flags from the playoffs.

In other IHL action Tuesday, the Columbus Owls and Kalamazoo Wings both disappointed large crowds in their last regular season home starts. The Owls lost a 4-2 decision to Saginaw and the Wings settled for a 2-2 tie with the Muskegon Mohawks.

Mckenzie and the Goal-diggers were a likely choice to keep Port Huron's Flags out of the Turner Cup playoffs. Toledo, which wrapped up first place in the IHL's South Division last week, now owns a 38-30-7 record. The Flags, at 27-41-7, own by far the worst record in the IHL and are hopelessly mired in the league's North Division cellar.

The Ohio Expositions Center Tuesday held a crowd of 3,950 — the largest number of Owls' fans to see Columbus play during the club's nine-year history. They went home unhappy.

The Gears got second-period goals from Paul Evans, Dave Westner and Rick Chinnick. After John Flesch and Tom Cassidy scored in the third to bring the Owls within a point, Evans added another goal to clinch the victory.

Columbus, third in the South, is now 28-33-14. Saginaw moved into first in the North with their 38-27-10 record.

Muskegon's Neil Hawryliw should get some credit for putting the Gears into the North lead. It was Hawryliw's 17th goal of the season early in the second period which brought the tie with Kalamazoo — and now the Wings find themselves one point out first place.

Dwight Schofield scored first for Kalamazoo at 11:00 of the first period, but Muskegon's Bob MacGuigan tied the score seven minutes later. The Wings regained the lead on a Yvon Dupuis goal with two minutes gone in the second, but Hawryliw soon retaliated.

The Wings, now 38-26-13, outshot Muskegon 43-24. The Mohawks own a 30-35-11 record.

Oakland's Confident Page Showing Hot Bat

from ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mitchell Page is a realist. He knows that the gaudy .610 batting average he now has will not last a whole season.

But the Oakland A's rookie outfielder-first baseman feels he can hit at least half that during the 1977 baseball season. "If I play, I know I can hit," Page said after driving in one run with a triple and scoring the winning run as Oakland edged the San Diego Padres 3-2 in an exhibition game Tuesday.

Acquired from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a trade last week, Page has 11 hits in 18 at-bats this spring. Five of his hits have been for extra bases.

In other exhibition games Tuesday, the Montreal Expos defeated the Minnesota Twins 12-8, the Philadelphia Phillies blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0, the Detroit Tigers stopped the Boston Red Sox 6-2, the Milwaukee Brewers crushed the Cleveland Indians 15-4, the Baltimore Orioles trounced the Chicago White Sox 12-4, the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Cincinnati Reds 10-2, the Seattle Mariners defeated the California Angels 10-5, the Houston Astros nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5, the New York Mets downed the Toronto Blue Jays 6-4, the Atlanta Braves beat the New York Yankees 7-5, the San Francisco Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-5 and the Texas Rangers topped the Kansas City Royals 8-5.

Rookie Randy Lerch combined for a three-hitter as Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh. Carlton gave up two hits in five innings, while Lerch struck out six in four innings. A one-out double by Sandy Alomar in the ninth inning snapped a 5-5 tie and led Texas to its victory over Kansas City. Biff Pocoroba slammed a pinch-hit double in the seventh and scored the winning run on Barry Bonnell's single as Atlanta won its fourth straight game.

John Montefusco hurled four hitless innings and scored San Francisco's first run after walking to lead off the Giants' three-run third. A triple by John Milner in the fifth drove in Lee Mazzilli with a tie-breaking run and leading the Mets to their first victory in three games against the American League expansion Blue Jays.

Jose Cruz drove in four runs with a homer and a triple, leading Houston over Los Angeles. Rookie Juan Benhardi homered and tripled twice as Seattle pounded 15 hits in snapping a four-game losing streak. A three-run homer by Roger Freed and John Denny's one-hit pitching over the first five innings led St. Louis to its victory over the defending world champion Reds.

Lee May pounded out a pair of homers, driving in five runs and pacing Baltimore's victory over the White Sox. Former Lakeshore standout Chris Knapp hurled the first three innings for Chicago, giving up five runs on five hits. Knapp walked two and struck out one. Sixto Lezcano's grand slam homer led an 18-hit Milwaukee attack that buried Cleveland. Tom Verzer followed Aurelio Rodriguez' three-run homer with a solo homer as Detroit exploded for six runs in the fourth inning. Gary Carter and Pete Mackanin smacked home runs in Montreal's 19-hit attack against Minnesota.

Florists Mark 30th Year; First Week Was Worst

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

In 1947, the Siegert brothers' first venture into the floral shop business at 1475 Pipestone road in Benton township almost ended in disaster.

The entire shipment of cut flowers scheduled to arrive the day before Easter was delayed because the railroad tracks between Chicago and Benton Harbor were flooded.

But, Gerhard and Mr. and Mrs. Guenther Siegart, the owners of Crystal Springs florist shop for only a week at the time, survived their first crisis and on March 29 will observe their 30th anniversary in business.

"We were kind of green when we first started out," Gerhard recalled. "And not especially smart for starting a flower business the week before Easter."

The flowers arrived by truck a day later, early Easter morning, and the Siegerts managed to avoid a calamity by delivering each order door-to-door in the early morning hours of Easter.

"I can still remember running around trying to get those flowers delivered," Guenther said. "We worked all through the night, with the dogs barking and the delivery truck breaking down. Somehow, everything worked out."

The Siegerts started with only a 32 by 60-foot greenhouse for their plants. Today, they have 34,000 square feet of growing space located in 10 greenhouses on four acres at their floral shop on Pipestone road.

And the volume of business the Siegerts manage today has also increased substantially, according to Guenther. The Siegerts annually grow 24 types of plants including 24,000 geraniums, 20,000 poinsettias, and 2,000 lilies. The Siegert brothers came to Benton Harbor from Germany in 1931, where they had worked as apprentices learning the greenhouse and estate gardening culture. They worked for several years as estate gardeners for Benton Harbor industrialists J.N. Klock and Will Godfrey.

Although the floral business has expanded since the first years of business, the two brothers say the business sometimes doesn't seem any easier than when they first started out.

"You have to be right on time with the plants or you're shot,"

Gerhard said. "If the flowers bloom a day early or a day late they're worthless." Gerhard said the amount of light and heat the flowers receive during their growing period has to be controlled right down to the hour.

Besides personnel, one of the greatest expenses for the florists is the heat bill for the greenhouses. Guenther said the fuel bill for January and February this year ran up to $6,000.

Gerhard, a bachelor, takes care of the growing work in the greenhouses, while Guenther is in charge of buying some of the cut flowers and designing floral arrangements. Mrs. (Mary) Siegart takes orders and handles the business end of the flower operation.

GREENHOUSES GROW: Guenther, Gerhard and Mrs. Guenther (Mary) Siegart have almost an acre of growing space in 10 greenhouses at Crystal Springs floral shop they own at 1475 Pipestone road, Benton township. Siegerts started out 30 years ago at same site with only one 32 by 60-foot greenhouse. Some 2,000 lilies in this greenhouse are getting ready to bloom for Easter. (Staff photo)

CQ Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending March 18 were:

HOUSE

Amnesty program — By a 220-187 vote, the House approved an amendment to a $27.9-billion supplemental appropriations bill, prohibiting President Carter from using any of the funds to finance his Vietnam amnesty program.

Supporters of the amendment contended that while it was the President's right to issue the pardon, the vote would possibly be the only chance for House members to express their disapproval.

Opponents of the amendment prohibiting amnesty program funding claimed there was little chance that Carter would back down from his position, and warned that approval of the amendment would create chaos in the administration of the amnesty program.

Voting for amendment to prohibit funding of amnesty program: Brown (R), Stockman (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader). Voting against amendment to prohibit funding of amnesty program: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), Wright (Majority Leader).

Not voting: Vander Jagt (R), Rhodesian Chrome — By a 250-146 vote, the House passed a bill giving the President the authority to halt imports of chrome from Rhodesia, an African nation ruled by a white minority.

The bill placed the United States in compliance with trade sanctions against Rhodesia approved by the United Nations in 1966. These sanctions were honored by the United States until Congress adopted the "Byrd amendment" in 1971.

Proponents of the bill ending importation of Rhodesian chrome argued that a trade ban against Rhodesia should be imposed because the United States was committed to majority rule in Rhodesia and that American industry was no longer dependent on Rhodesian chrome supplies as it once had been.

Opponents contended that chrome prices would increase because of the trade embargo and the United States economic policies should be pegged to free trade and open markets.

Not voting: Vander Jagt (R).

SENATE

Rhodesian Chrome — The Senate also passed a bill banning importation of Rhodesian chrome. The vote was 66-26. The bill is expected to be signed by the President.

Cher Seeking

New Separation

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Singer Cher Bono has filed suit for legal separation from her husband rock singer Gregg Allman.

The Superior Court petition filed Tuesday marks the second time she has gone to court over marital problems with Allman. Cher, 30, requested custody of their 8-month-old son, Elijah Blue, and asked that the 28-year-old Allman not be granted alimony payments.

The couple was married June 30, 1975, three days after Cher divorced her husband of 11 years, Sonny Bono. Cher filed for divorce from Allman nine days later, then asked to have the suit dismissed.

Speedy Payoff For Crime

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Bill Davidson has learned that small crimes can pay big dividends. He became the beneficiary of a $200,000 check from LaGrande, Ore., last week — for speeding. Davidson was ticketed several weeks ago for speeding in the eastern Oregon community and paid a $17 fine. The original fine was reduced when it went through Oregon's court system and he should have been reimbursed $7. But last Thursday, when his wife picked up the mail, she found a check for $200,000 from Oregon. "We just laughed when we saw it," Mrs. Davidson said Monday. "We never thought of trying to cash it. My husband took it right down to our bank manager, who also thought it was pretty funny." The county clerk in Oregon was not aware of the error until a reporter brought it to her attention. "Oh, my God," the clerk said. "We may be a small town of 1,000, but we sure make big goofy."

Speedy Payoff For Crime

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Bill Davidson has learned that small crimes can pay big dividends. He became the beneficiary of a $200,000 check from LaGrande, Ore., last week — for speeding. Davidson was ticketed several weeks ago for speeding in the eastern Oregon community and paid a $17 fine. The original fine was reduced when it went through Oregon's court system and he should have been reimbursed $7. But last Thursday, when his wife picked up the mail, she found a check for $200,000 from Oregon. "We just laughed when we saw it," Mrs. Davidson said Monday. "We never thought of trying to cash it. My husband took it right down to our bank manager, who also thought it was pretty funny." The county clerk in Oregon was not aware of the error until a reporter brought it to her attention. "Oh, my God," the clerk said. "We may be a small town of 1,000, but we sure make big goofs."

Once-Proud Ghana On Downhill Slide

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Once a rising star in black Africa, Ghana has been plunged into what is described here as its worst economic crisis since Britain granted independence 20 years ago.

The nation is visibly crippled by critical food shortages, industrial stagnation and soaring inflation amid widespread charges of corruption and mismanagement in government.

Accra, the once bouyant seaside capital, has become a rundown city of shabby buildings, broken down public services, water shortages and bare shop shelves surrounded by slums and a growing army of unemployed.

"The standard of living for the average Ghanaian is worse now than it has ever been since independence," said one close observer of the economic scene. It will take years to get the country back on its feet.

Bankers, businessmen, academics and other informed observers blame it on the military government of 44-year-old

Gen. Ignatius Kutu Acheampong.

In 1972, he toppled one of the few remaining parliamentary democracies still functioning in black Africa.

He is now chairman of the Supreme Military Council, critically viewed by one political observer as a "collection of military officers with no background whatsoever in running a government."

The result, they say, has been a proliferating but paralyzed bureaucracy, ill-conceived tampering with market forces and a fear to impose harsh reforms.

"Acheampong cannot bring himself to sharply devalue the currency because a big devaluation in 1972 by the previous government was one of the reasons he gave for justifying his coup," said one businessman.

The nation's downhill slide has been a hard blow for Ghanaians proud of being citizens of the first colony in black Africa to win independence.

The lowering of the Union Jack here on March 6, 1957, pioneered the wave of decolonization that swept the continent in the 1960s. Ghana took a leading role in African affairs.

"There was a time we could hold our heads high around the world," reflected an elderly Ghanaian observing the muted 20th independence celebrations civilians and soldiers to oust him since he came to power.

He works by day from "The Castle," an ancient Danish-built fortress overlooking the sea but he retires at night to the security of an army compound called Burma Camp. Ghanaians and foreign observers here note mixed military-civilian government without elections or political parties.

His critics, including the Ghana Bar Association, have demanded a return to civilian government, a lifting of the ban on political activity and free elections by next year.

Acheampong is opposed to party politics which he says are responsible for dividing the nation on tribal, ideological and class lines.

His opponents say they suspect "union government" is an attempt to perpetuate military rule behind a facade of civilians who will serve as scapegoats for the nation's problems.

The economic crisis is not just affecting Accra and other urban areas but has spread deep into the countryside of this largely rural country.

Because of food shortages, "there is a serious nutrition problem in Ghana that has not existed before," said an expert in the field.

Foreign diplomatic missions and businessmen have been forced to import food from abroad or make frequent visits to the Togolese capital of Lome to stock up.

The irony is that Ghana is essentially not a poor country and is endowed with considerably more mineral wealth than the Ivory Coast, its economically thriving neighbor.

Ghanaians cannot buy toilet paper, toothpaste, soap, canned fish, milk or other goods in Accra but these and other Ghanaian-made products are all available in the markets of Togo, Ivory Coast and Upper Volta.

Traders smuggle them across the borders and sell them for hard currency in all three neighboring countries. Then they exchange their hard currency earnings on the black market here for five times their official rate.

The official rate of the dollar is 1.5 cedis, but one dollar can buy up to five cedis and more on the black market.

As a result, tens of thousands of tons of cocoa, Ghana's chief export and foreign currency earner, are also being smuggled for sale outside the country.

"While not oppressive, this government is much worse than any regime we have had since independence," says a Ghanaian academic. "Acheampong is not a tyrant — you could even call him a nice fellow — but he is incapable and corrupt."

Acheampong has so far survived at least five attempts by

New Find Hints At Easy Tooth Decay-Stopper

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (AP) — A dental researcher has isolated a substance in human saliva that could mean you could have your cake — and eat it, too.

The discovery by Dr. Israel Kleinberg suggests a new and natural approach to the control and prevention of cavities "might be within reach," according to an announcement from the State University of New York here.

The substance has been named Sialin.

"Basically, Sialin is a small molecule called a peptide comprised of only a few amino acids," Kleinberg said. "It is a component of saliva that counteracts the acid produced by the bacteria in the mouth, the culprit in tooth decay."

The substance is the body's mechanism to protect the teeth, but Kleinberg said it is overwhelmed by an excess of sugar in the diet.

Kleinberg, chairman of the department of oral biology and pathology at the School of Dental Medicine, and his coworkers have synthesized the substance in the laboratory so it can be commercially produced.

"We now have to find the most appropriate vehicle for raising the level of Sialin in the saliva," the researcher said. "The possibilities include a rinse, chewing gum, toothpaste or candies since Sialin takes care of the sugar problem."

Clinical tests to prove safety and effectiveness would require about five years, Kleinberg said, although the anti-acid properties of the substance could be proved sooner.

Too Much Milk Tied To Anemia

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mothers who feed their infants too much milk — a practice in some low-income urban areas — risk causing severe anemia that could be prevented by proper nutrition education, says a study by three pediatricians in a low-income area.

Mild to severe anemia — a lack of the oxygen-carrying substance in the blood caused by too little dietary iron — was found in nearly one-third of children aged 2 or younger who came to the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, the doctors reported.

Causes of the disease, which is rare among middle-class families, were frequently found to be overfeeding of milk and the prolonged use of bottle feeding. Milk provides almost no iron.

Dr. Charles Pegelow, one of the authors of the report in the Western Journal of Medicine, said the main problem is that the people served by the large county hospital don't come in regularly for pre-natal and post-natal treatment.

The mothers are lacking in public health education, move frequently, and often are not part of a cohesive family unit, he said.

Instead of giving the child solid, iron-rich food beginning four to six months after birth, he said, "the mother finds it is much easier to feed the child out of a bottle than to sit down and feed him with a spoon."

The study involved 60 babies, mainly black and Mexican-

American, who came to the hospital for a variety of problems but who were all diagnosed as anemic.

None of them died, although 11 were admitted with heart failure.

Now--Protein From Tobacco

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A process to extract protein from tobacco leaves that could supplement the human diet while making the tobacco's smoking flavor milder has been discovered, says a government researcher.

Dr. Donald W. De Jong, a research chemist with the U.S. Agriculture Department's Tobacco Research Lab, said Monday that the process involves separating edible "white" proteins from the "green" proteins present in the tobacco's chlorophyll, the food-producing agent that gives green leaves their color.

The result is a dry solid that, when crushed, is a white powder.

No one's actually eaten the stuff.

The process makes about 100 pounds of protein per acre — not much, but "substantial when you realize that one million acres of tobacco are grown in the United States alone," De Jong said.

The flavor improvement would be small in domestic cigarettes — which are cured by a method that removes protein — but would be significant in tobacco grown in areas such as Europe, where protein content is high, he said.

"Protein burns with a rather bad aroma. If you have ever smelled burning hair or rubber you will know what I mean," De Jong said after giving a paper to the American Chemical Society convention.

You Sleep Like A Baby?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — When you're in bed, do you pound pillows, grind your teeth or literally sleep like a baby? A psychiatrist who has studied sleep habits says your bedroom behavior says a lot about your personality.

"We are all poets in the dark," Dr. Samuel Dunkell said in a telephone interview Monday. "We may have hum-drum lives during the day, but cloaked in the blackness of night we allow ourselves to let go and really be ourselves."

Dunkell, the associate medical director of the Postgraduate Center for Mental Health in New York City, has spent 20 years researching sleep positions to support his theory that they mirror the daytime personality.

He says some of the most common positions are:

—Royal. A person who sleeps on his back with his arms at his side feels himself to be the king of his sleep world. "They are very self confident or absorbed in themselves and are used to being the center of attention," Dunkell said.

—Prone. The sleeper is flat on his stomach with his arms extended above the head. Dunkell says it shows a person who likes to know where he is. "These are the aggressive go-getters and you'll find business executives and journalists among them," Dunkell said.

—Semi-fetal. The most common position in which the sleeper lies on his side with the ankles crossed, knees slightly bent, with one arm stretched out and the other tucked under the chin. Dunkell says this position shows a person to be self-confident and one who has made a sensible adjustment to the world.

New Find Hints At Easy Tooth Decay-Stopper

He Draws Funny Faces On Bread

Stavros Cosmopoulos, a Boston advertising executive, puts his talents to an unusual hobby — he draws funny faces on bread and rolls in restaurants.

He's been doing it for years, but finally sold the idea to a bank for an advertising campaign. (AP Wirephoto)

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (AP) — A dental researcher has isolated a substance in human saliva that could mean you could have your cake — and eat it, too.

The discovery by Dr. Israel Kleinberg suggests a new and natural approach to the control and prevention of cavities "might be within reach," according to an announcement from the State University of New York here.

The substance has been named Sialin.

Basically, Sialin is a small molecule called a peptide comprised of only a few amino acids," Kleinberg said. "It is a component of saliva that counteracts the acid produced by the bacteria in the mouth, the culprit in tooth decay."

The substance is the body's mechanism to protect the teeth, but Kleinberg said it is overwhelmed by an excess of sugar in the diet.

Kleinberg, chairman of the department of oral biology and pathology at the School of Dental Medicine, and his coworkers have synthesized the substance in the laboratory so it can be commercially produced.

"We now have to find the most appropriate vehicle for raising the level of Sialin in the saliva," the researcher said. "The possibilities include a rinse, chewing gum, toothpaste or candies since Sialin takes care of the sugar problem."

Clinical tests to prove safety and effectiveness would require about five years, Kleinberg said, although the anti-acid properties of the substance could be proved sooner.

Too Much Milk Tied To Anemia

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mothers who feed their infants too much milk — a practice in some low-income urban areas — risk causing severe anemia that could be prevented by proper nutrition education, says a study by three pediatricians in a low-income area.

Mild to severe anemia — a lack of the oxygen-carrying substance in the blood caused by too little dietary iron — was found in nearly one-third of children aged 2 or younger who came to the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, the doctors reported.

Causes of the disease, which is rare among middle-class families, were frequently found to be overfeeding of milk and the prolonged use of bottle feeding. Milk provides almost no iron.

Dr. Charles Pegelow, one of the authors of the report in the Western Journal of Medicine, said the main problem is that the people served by the large county hospital don't come in regularly for pre-natal and post-natal treatment.

The mothers are lacking in public health education, move frequently, and often are not part of a cohesive family unit, he said.

Instead of giving the child solid, iron-rich food beginning four to six months after birth, he said, "the mother finds it is much easier to feed the child out of a bottle than to sit down and feed him with a spoon."

The study involved 60 babies, mainly black and Mexican-

American, who came to the hospital for a variety of problems but who were all diagnosed as anemic.

None of them died, although 11 were admitted with heart failure.

Now--Protein From Tobacco

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A process to extract protein from tobacco leaves that could supplement the human diet while making the tobacco's smoking flavor milder has been discovered, says a government researcher.

Dr. Donald W. De Jong, a research chemist with the U.S. Agriculture Department's Tobacco Research Lab, said Monday that the process involves separating edible "white" proteins from the "green" proteins present in the tobacco's chlorophyll, the food-producing agent that gives green leaves their color.

No one's actually eaten the stuff.

The process makes about 100 pounds of protein per acre — not much, but "substantial when you realize that one million acres of tobacco are grown in the United States alone," De Jong said.

The flavor improvement would be small in domestic cigarettes — which are cured by a method that removes protein — but would be significant in tobacco grown in areas such as Europe, where protein content is high, he said.

"Protein burns with a rather bad aroma. If you have ever smelled burning hair or rubber you will know what I mean," De Jong said after giving a paper to the American Chemical Society convention.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q: Yesterday I went to my dentist for a prophylaxis and x-ray examination, which I have done at least once a year. I paid my bill and when I got home I went through my receipts for the same work done by the same dentist during the past five years. His fee has gone from $18 to $27.

That's a 50 per cent increase according to my arithmetic, and even though most things have increased in cost since 1971, I think dental fees have increased more than almost anything else. It seems to me that you people are trying to get rich at your patient's expense, and I, for one, resent it.

Try to talk yourself and the dental profession out of this complaint if you can, Dr. Seyler. — P.G.

A: I'm afraid I can't "talk my way out" of your complaint, because the figures you quoted are quite accurate.

I think almost everybody realizes that "health costs" are still rising. Hospital costs have doubled since 1967; physicians' fees have increased almost 70 per cent, and when we go shopping we see again that the cost of foods has soared.

On my way to my office this morning I had my gas tank filled — at 60.9 cents per gallon. A couple of years ago I paid about half that much! And nowadays the gas station attendant seldom washes my windshield or rear view window.

Actually, the Consumer Price Index shows that dental fees have increased 61.9 per cent since 1967. During that time our own expenses — the cost to operate a dental practice — have more than doubled.

I realize that percentage figures don't impress our patients, because we do charge more for our services than we did several years ago. But I feel that we dentists have kept our fee increases within a limit that is fair to our patients and ourselves.

Q: My son is 19 years old. Due to a severe accident several years ago, he graduated at a later age than usual from high school. He would like to become a laboratory technician. Do you know of any good school that he might attend to learn the necessary skills? I understand that most laboratory technicians just learn the trade by starting out in a dental laboratory as a flunkie, but I have heard there are schools which teach students in a year or two, to be qualified technicians. Can you help us get some information? F.S.T.

Talking For History, TV...And Money Nixon Interviews Starting Today

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, silent until now about his career and the Watergate scandal that drove him from office in 1974, starts talking today for history, television and money.

And British talk show star David Frost, whose exclusive interviews with him will air in May, calls the talks he's taping with Nixon easily the toughest and most challenging task of his entire career.

"Particularly since Richard M. Nixon is renowned to be an incredibly private person, and we want to see the real Richard Nixon, find out the answer to that enigma," Frost said.

Among those who've helped Frost prepare for the Nixon meetings are Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward, the Washington Post reporters whose work broke open the Watergate story that led to Nixon's resignation.

Frost, whose company opened an office in Washington, D.C., last July to research the Nixon story, says Woodward and Bernstein "are but two of hundreds of people who've given us their help."

"We've literally talked to hundreds of people, had a full-time staff of four working since July, and they've talked to hundreds of people who participated in the Nixon saga — for, against and in the middle."

Starting today, Frost is to interview Nixon 12 times, two hours each time, with the last interview on April 20. He says they're working at a private home near Nixon's house in San Clemente.

Neither Frost nor his production company, Paradine Productions, will say what the 64-year-old former president is being paid for the interviews. But published reports put the fee at around $600,000.

At least 118 television stations in the United States will air the interviews, to be edited down to four 90-minute programs shown in sequence on May 4, 12, 19 and 25, says Syndicast Services, the company selling the show.

And, says Marvin Minoff, Frost's business partner, the Mutual Broadcasting System has brought radio rights to the Nixon interviews and will feed them to MBS affiliates for airing the same nights as the telecasts.

Frost, 37, met with Nixon two weeks ago to iron out technical details of the interview-taping. He described him as appearing "remarkably resilient," as he first found him on Aug. 9, 1975, when Nixon signed his contract with Frost, a year to the day after resigning from office.

"It was as if he went through that enormous emotional decompression and has come to terms with the most dramatic rise and fall in American political history," Frost said.

Asked to describe Nixon's mood, he said: "Composed, I suppose, is the best word, because he's about to embark on these 12 sessions of two-hour interviews, which are a tremendous undertaking, really."

"I'm a television man and I've never done 12 two-hour sessions."

For Frost, today marks the second time he's interviewed Nixon. The first, he said, was in 1968, when Nixon was one of a number of top Democrats and Republican presidential candidates he interviewed for a program called, "The Next President."

Then Nixon — as well as the other subjects — had no control over the questions asked or the content of the show or its editing. Frost said that agreement applies also to the coming interviews with Nixon.

"Mr. Nixon has no right to know any of the questions in advance, nor even to preview the edited program before it is broadcast," he said. "So he will see it when the rest of America, the rest of the world sees it."

Frost was asked if Nixon has told him in advance he won't answer certain questions because of legal reasons.

"Absolutely not," he replied. "The ground rules are that there are no ground rules." "The arrangement is once we'd completed it (the taping) then we will edit it and he will not preview it," he said.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q: Yesterday I went to my dentist for a prophylaxis and x-ray examination, which I have done at least once a year. I paid my bill and when I got home I went through my receipts for the same work done by the same dentist during the past five years. His fee has gone from $18 to $27.

That's a 50 per cent increase according to my arithmetic, and even though most things have increased in cost since 1971, I think dental fees have increased more than almost anything else. It seems to me that you people are trying to get rich at your patient's expense, and I, for one, resent it.

Try to talk yourself and the dental profession out of this complaint if you can, Dr. Seyler. — P.G.

A: I'm afraid I can't "talk my way out" of your complaint, because the figures you quoted are quite accurate.

I think almost everybody realizes that "health costs" are still rising. Hospital costs have doubled since 1967; physicians' fees have increased almost 70 per cent; and when we go shopping we see again that the cost of foods has soared.

On my way to my office this morning I had my gas tank filled — at 60.9 cents per gallon. A couple of years ago, I paid about half that much! And nowadays the gas station attendant seldom washes my windshield or rear view window.

Actually, the Consumer Price Index shows that dental fees have increased 61.9 per cent since 1967. During that time our own expenses — the cost to operate a dental practice — have more than doubled.

I realize that percentage figures don't impress our patients, because we do charge more for our services than we did several years ago. But I feel that we dentists have kept our fee increases within a limit that is fair to our patients and ourselves.

Q: My son is 19 years old. Due to a severe accident several years ago, he graduated at a later age than usual from high school. He would like to become a laboratory technician. Do you know of any good school that he might attend to learn the necessary skills? I understand that most laboratory technicians just learn the trade by starting out in a dental laboratory as a flunkie, but I have heard there are schools which teach students in a year or two, to be qualified technicians. Tough Drug Dealer Bill Has Support

Mandatory Prison Terms Are Proposed

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The cornerstone of tough new Michigan narcotics legislation appeared headed for smooth sailing in the House after backers handily defeated some 29 amendments intended to soften it.

But opponents on Tuesday predicted another proposal, to give police wiretap powers in narcotics probes, would be in trouble as floor debate on the six-bill package continues this week.

An aide to the House Judiciary Committee predicted "a five-day siege" by critics of the first major legislation to come before the full House this session.

The key bill of the package sets a mandatory life prison sentence without parole for anybody convicted of possessing more than 650 grams — about 1½ pounds — of heroin-based narcotics or cocaine.

It also sets mandatory prison terms of 10 years and up for possessing 50 or more grams, sets extra penalties for adults selling drugs to juveniles, and takes away judges' sentencing options in major narcotics cases.

Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, sponsor of the bills, succeeded Tuesday in heading off amendments that called for everything from reducing the jail sentences to making liquor a controlled substance.

"We'll make them deal with the damn issues, anyway," said Rep. Jeffrey Padden, D-Wyandotte, who offered 18 amendments that never got more than 30 votes from the 90 members present.

Padden and other critics call the bills a simplistic approach to the drug problem. One of his amendments would have attached the bills to pending measures that would provide rehabilitation for drug addicts.

But there appeared to be overwhelming support for the tough approach, which Rosenbaum says is aimed at big-time narcotics dealers and would affect "no more than 20 to 30 (dealers) in the entire state of Michigan."

Similar legislation passed the House last year but died in the Senate. An effort to bury the sentencing bill in the Appropriations Committee failed by a lopsided vote, even though Padden claimed it will require millions of dollars in court and prison costs.

The sentencing bill is due for a final House vote Wednesday. Debate on the wiretap bills is also due Wednesday, and several backers of the first measure indicated displeasure with the wiretap authorization.

It would authorize limited 30-

Social Services Addition Gets Okay In Van Buren

PAW PAW — The Van Buren county building authority was given the green light last night by county commissioners to proceed with plans for a 14,200 square foot addition to the county social services building.

Commissioners have previously indicated they plan to lease the addition, which is expected to cost over $600,000, to the state social services department which operates the service.

The social services building is located on CR-681, about a mile north of Red Arrow highway in Hartford township. In addition to storage, office, and conference rooms, plans call for an extra 113 parking spaces.

The board also gave the building authority authorization to seek funding of the social services addition and a proposed new Seventh district court building in South Haven.

through federal grants.

Additional federal money for public works programs is expected to be released this fall. Board chairman Edwin Twitchell said that if the county is not successful in securing a public works grant, the buildings would be financed with revenue sharing money.

The county's current lease on the district court building in South Haven expires Dec. 31, 1983. Finance Chairman Gerald Rendel said the board is now considering several options to shorten the lease in anticipation of constructing the new court building.

In other areas, the board unanimously rejected a proposed county ordinance which would have established a no wake zone in the channel of Lawrence township's Reynolds lake.

Commissioners indicated they were not opposed to the provisions of the ordinance as such, but rather the idea of setting a precedent of having county ordinances. Several commissioners said that any ordinance should be at the initiative of Lawrence township.

Covert township Supervisor Jerry Sarno reported that the state appeals court is expected to hear oral arguments on the three-year-old Palisades nuclear power plant tax case in May or June.

At issue is whether or not Consumers Power company should be granted a tax exemption on $37 million worth of anti-pollution equipment at the plant. Last June, Van Buren Circuit Court Judge Meyer Warshawsky upheld a ruling by the state tax commission which said the utility was entitled to the exemption. Sarno is appealing that ruling.

He said that so far $5,807 has been spent in attorney's fees on the appeal. The fees will be paid from a $17,670 joint legal fund established by the county.

Covert township, the Covert schools, Van Buren intermediate school district, Lake Michigan college, and South Haven Community hospital, all of which derive tax revenue from the plant.

Sarno also asked that the county assume the costs of printing addresses and property descriptions on cards used for tax assessments. The county currently charges townships at a rate of three cents per card for printing. Sarno said that since the county and schools receive the bulk of tax money from the assessments, townships are being forced to assume an unfair burden in paying for all the costs.

The matter was referred to committee.

Appointed to a committee to study the future direction taken by the county Transportation Task Force were Harry Otto, Ruth Lytle, Jerome Shumate, Victor Andersson, the Rev. Josephine Morgan, and Edwin Charles.

Commissioners also appointed Timothy Peters, James Crandall, Hazel Wilson, Philemon Mitchell, and Mae Lucas to a committee which will develop an overall county economic development plan.

The board also appointed Ivan Stein of South Haven as the county representative on the county tax allocation board, and authorized the expenditure of up to $5,000 for equipment for the printing department.

Sodus Township Okays Tax Exemption Requests

SODUS — The Sodus township board last night following a public hearing gave its approval to two applications from Jen's Inc. seeking property tax exemptions on an estimated $794,000 in improvements begun last year.

The applications, if approved by the state tax commission, would make the firm eligible to apply for tax exemptions over the next 12 years.

The applications from Jen's,

a food processing firm, ask for designation as a plant rehabilitation district for improvements costing $709,000 at its main plant and for designation as an industrial development district for construction of a building, just south of the main plant. Estimated cost of the new building was $85,000.

In other areas, the board instructed Mrs. Virginia Palis, township clerk, to send a letter to the Berrien county road commission requesting a traffic control sign (stop or yield) at the corner of Moore and Burkett streets. The township is also requesting the road commission gravel a portion of Dewey avenue, between Moore street and Townline road.

The board also indicated to a Community Emergency Service (CES) representative that it would have no objections to CES purchasing a new ambulance instead of a used one.

ASSOCIATION OFFICE DAMAGED: Estimated $10,000 in damage was caused to St. Joseph Savings and Loan association, Stevensville, when car slammed into it about 10:15 p.m. last night. Front window was shattered and front wall was pushed inward, causing damage inside. Stevensville police said car was found about 2 a.m. and that Richard L. Russell, 17, 2084 Acorn drive, Stevensville, was ticketed for leaving scene of accident and reckless driving. Police said driver told them he was reaching for article in car while driving in parking area near office when crash occurred. Association officials who estimated damage said office would be closed today and possibly rest of week. (Staff photo)

South Haven Sets New Blood Donation Record

SOUTH HAVEN — The two-day Red Cross bloodmobile visit here Monday and yesterday resulted in a new single year donor record for the local drive, according to chairman Mrs. Leona Weirbeky.

The two-day total of 384 pints plus the total of 386 pints last July gives the South Haven drive a fiscal year total of 770 pints. The previous one-year high was 737 pints in 1975.

The most recent drive gave particular emphasis to recruiting young donors and as a result brought 24 students from the South Haven high school biology class of Bradley Klow to the bloodmobile.

Recognized as four gallon donors were Thomas Spratt and Lawrence Mundt, both of South Haven. People whose donation raised their level to three gallon status were Yvonne Doffing, John Harben, Charles Bacher, Albert Bailey, Louis Rodenhouse and Edgar Olson, all of South Haven.

Curriculum Change Set For South Haven High

BY TOM RENNER

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven board of education during a special meeting last night endorsed a major change in the curriculum of the South Haven high school, but decided to wait one year before deciding if its course requirements would be mandatory for graduation.

The new curriculum requires that a student select either a college preparatory or vocational oriented course of study prior to the freshman year.

Presently all students have the same course requirements for graduation whether they are college-bound or headed for the job market.

The new curriculum is expected to assist the high school guidance department to realistically layout a four-year course of study, according to officials.

Board members decided to give it a one-year trial before determining exact graduation requirements. Current high school students would be exempt from some of the requirements.

The core for both the new college prep and vocational curriculums exceed current graduation requirements, according to school officials.

The board changed a proposed foreign language requirement for college prep students, allowing them to substitute the language with courses in their area of concentration.

In another matter, the board tabled for further study a proposed change in procedure for determining the difference between an excused and unexcused absence for high school students.

The new policy would require only that a parent verify the student's absence. Any reason for being absent would be accepted under the proposal as long as the student's total absences for the school year does not exceed 18 days. After the 18th day a student could be denied course credit.

School board members questioned the proposal as being too permissive.

Kelley Okays Tax Break For Repairs To Homes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A law that lets homeowners maintain and repair their houses without risking a tax increase has been upheld by the state attorney general. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Tuesday it was constitutional for the legislature to exclude the cost of normal repair and maintenance from the calculation of a home's cash value.

A homeowner thus may spend up to $4,000 a year for up to three years on such minor upkeep without risking a tax hike. The cash value is the figure on which property's tax assessment is calculated. Lawmakers said many homeowners were discouraged from repair and upkeep because they feared their taxes would rise when the assessor saw the improvements.

However, supporters of the new law accused the state Tax Commission of subverting it by telling local assessors they must consider such repair and maintenance in setting tax levies if a property value increase had resulted. Irate lawmakers said that undermined the intent of the law, and that the commission had in effect ruled it unconstitutional.

Board members decided to give it a one-year trial before determining exact graduation requirements. Current high school students would be exempt from some of the requirements.

The core for both the new college prep and vocational curriculum exceed current graduation requirements, according to school officials.

The board changed a proposed foreign language requirement for college prep students, allowing them to substitute the language with courses in their area of concentration.

In another matter, the board tabled for further study a proposed change in procedure for determining the difference between an excused and unexcused absence for high school students.

The new policy would require only that a parent verify the student's absence. Any reason for being absent would be accepted under the proposal as long as the student's total absences for the school year does not exceed 18 days. After the 18th day a student could be denied course credit.

School board members questioned the proposal as being too permissive.

Kelley Okays Tax Break For Repairs To Homes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A law that lets homeowners maintain and repair their houses without risking a tax increase has been upheld by the state attorney general. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Tuesday it was constitutional for the legislature to exclude the cost of normal repair and maintenance from the calculation of a home's cash value.

A homeowner thus may spend up to $4,000 a year for up to three years on such minor upkeep without risking a tax hike. The cash value is the figure on which property's tax assessment is calculated. Lawmakers said many homeowners were discouraged from repair and upkeep because they feared their taxes would rise when the assessor saw the improvements.

However, supporters of the new law accused the state Tax Commission of subverting it by telling local assessors they must consider such repair and maintenance in setting tax levies if a property value increase had resulted. Inate lawmakers said that undermined the intent of the law, and that the commission had in effect ruled it unconstitutional.

Social Services Addition Gets Okay In Van Buren

PAW PAW — The Van Buren county building authority was given the green light last night by county commissioners to proceed with plans for a 14,200 square foot addition to the county social services building.

Commissioners have previously indicated they plan to lease the addition, which is expected to cost over $600,000, to the state social services department which operates the service.

The social services building is located on CR-681, about a mile north of Red Arrow highway in Hartford township. In addition to storage, office, and conference rooms, plans call for an extra 113 parking spaces.

The board also gave the building authority authorization to seek funding of the social services addition and a proposed new Seventh district court building in South Haven.

Additional federal money for public works programs is expected to be released this fall. Board chairman Edwin Twitchell said that if the county is not successful in securing a public works grant, the buildings would be financed with revenue sharing money.

The county's current lease on the district court building in South Haven expires Dec. 31, 1983. Finance Chairman Gerald Rendel said the board is now considering several options to shorten the lease in anticipation of constructing the new court building.

In other areas, the board unanimously rejected a proposed county ordinance which would have established a no wake zone in the channel of Lawrence township's Reynolds lake.

Commissioners indicated they were not opposed to the provisions of the ordinance as such, but rather the idea of setting a precedent of having county ordinances. Several commissioners said that any ordinance should be at the initiation of Lawrence township.

Covert township Supervisor Jerry Sarno reported that the state appeals court is expected to hear oral arguments on the three-year-old Palisades nuclear power plant tax case in May or June.

At issue is whether or not Consumers Power company should be granted a tax exemption on $37 million worth of anti-pollution equipment at the plant. Last June, Van Buren Circuit Court Judge Meyer Warshawsky upheld a ruling by the state tax commission which said the utility was entitled to the exemption. Sarno is appealing that ruling.

He said that so far $5,897 has been spent in attorney's fees on the appeal. The fees will be paid from a $17,670 joint legal fund established by the county.

Covert township, the Covert schools, Van Buren intermediate school district, Lake Michigan college, and South Haven Community hospital, all of which derive tax revenue from the plant.

Sarno also asked that the county assume the costs of printing addresses and property descriptions on cards used for tax assessments. The county currently charges townships at a rate of three cents per card for printing. Sarno said that since the county and schools receive the bulk of tax money from the assessments, townships are being forced to assume an unfair burden in paying for all the costs.

The matter was referred to committee.

Appointed to a committee to study the future direction taken by the county Transportation Task Force were Harry Otto, Ruth Lytle, Jerome Shumate, Viktor Andersson, the Rev. Josephine Morgan, and Edwin Charles.

Commissioners also appointed Timothy Peters, James Crandall, Hazel Wilson, Philemon Mitchell, and Mac Lucas to a committee which will develop an overall county economic development plan.

The board also appointed Ivan Stein of South Haven as the county representative on the county tax allocation board, and authorized the expenditure of up to $5,000 for equipment for the printing department.

Sodus Township Okays Tax Exemption Requests

SODUS — The Sodus township board last night following a public hearing gave its approval to two applications from Jen's Inc. seeking property tax exemptions on an estimated $794,000 in improvements begun last year.

The applications, if approved by the state tax commission, would make the firm eligible to apply for tax exemptions over the next 12 years.

The applications from Jen's,

a food processing firm, ask for designation as a plant rehabilitation district for improvements costing $709,000 at its main plant and for designation as an industrial development district for construction of a building, just south of the main plant. Estimated cost of the new building was $85,000.

In other areas, the board instructed Mrs. Virginia Palis, township clerk, to send a letter to the Berrien county road commission requesting a traffic control sign (stop or yield) at the corner of Moore and Burkett streets. The township is also requesting the road commission gravel a portion of Dewey avenue, between Moore street and Townline road.

The board also indicated to a Community Emergency Service (CES) representative that it would have no objections to CES purchasing a new ambulance instead of a used one.

ASSOCIATION OFFICE DAMAGED: Estimated $10,000 in damage was caused to St. Joseph Savings and Loan association, Stevensville, when car slammed into it about 10:15 p.m. last night. Front window was shattered and front wall was pushed inward, causing damage inside. Stevensville police said car was found about 2 a.m. and that Richard L. Russell, 17, 2084 Acorn drive, Stevensville, was ticketed for leaving scene of accident and reckless driving. Police said driver told them he was reaching for article in car while driving in parking area near office when crash occurred. Association officials who estimated damage said office would be closed today and possibly rest of week. (Staff photo)

Jack Nicklaus is a perfectionist — a golf score of 65 is no sweat. And besides clearly being the most successful golfer around, Nicklaus heads a multimillion-dollar business with investments in everything from golf bags to cattle ranches and plays father to an active family of seven.

A Word Edgewise

From the number of television sets President Carter had hauled out of the White House, it sounded as though the Republicans turned the place into a motel. Who watched? When? Why? L.B.J. was famous for the three-set console on which he really could take in three network news programs simultaneously. But the only time I can recall watching the tube was during a presidential speech or, agony of agonies, news conference. However, if Mr. Carter really wants to improve efficiency and get his staff home to their families, his next step should be to eliminate about half the phones.

At the risk of blowing the gig, perhaps I should take the opportunity to explain to government "widows and orphans" that a substantial hunk of the time not spent at home by high government officials is dedicated to seeming important. In the White House this often takes the form of spending ungodly hours at your desk engaged in telephonics. In the various departments upwardly mobile bureaucrats engage in the same practice and desperately hope that the President will call at, say, 9:30 p.m. and find them at work.

If you assume, as I do, that normally the President of the United States is not a nut, hanging around the shop will hardly impress him. In emergency situations a number of staff people are on call and put in 36-hour days. But the President, who works at home, should understand that his aides can do the same thing. Moreover, he can call you at home on a secure line if he wants your counsel, or your hide.

Organized meetings provides another great ego ladder and a spectacular way to kill time. The scenario here is that a staff member learns the President is concerned, say, about the problems of nutrition in the Third World. Instantly he is on the phone to State, A.I.D., U.S.I.S., Agriculture, the Weather Bureau, the National Institute of Health, et al, calling a meeting in his office on the topic. Everybody sits around, pontificates and a "Memo for the President" is born.

The participants leave a bit mystified — for six months they have been on an inter-agency committee drafting an elaborate report on the topic. How did this guy get in the act? Maybe he's important? Maybe he'll give us a direct line! Anyway, we'd better spread the word to plug him in — it won't do us any harm to have a friend in the WH. Let's invite him to our next meeting.

What with telephonics, meetings, and sundry caballing, one can easily kill 12 hours a day in the White House.

A: This great Stephen Sondheim musical in film form, from all early reports, is a disaster. Money was hard to come by to finance the European-made production. Those select few who have seen the edited version in London say the film is a mess and that no American distributor will touch it in its current shape. Carhop's Spree Ends In Death

CHICAGO (AP) — Three persons died when an unemployed carhop, recently divorced, walked into a brokerage firm where his former wife was working as a clerk and went on a shooting spree.

Police said Roy Whitby, 32, entered the firm's teletype room Tuesday, fatally shot his ex-wife, Shirley, 28, then chased her friend into a supervisor's office, and shot her. Then he returned to his wife's body and shot himself.

The friend, Tamara Clark, 25, of Chicago, died later at a hospital of head and leg wounds.

"Roy was despondent, mostly about not seeing the children," said Whitby's brother, Otis. "He hadn't seen them in a long time. She had them," he added.

Authorities said Whitby apparently blamed Miss Clark and several other friends of his ex-wife for his marital problems. They said he received final divorce papers on March 10.

U.S. Elderly Live In Fear Of Crime

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bessie is so frightened she lives on tranquilizers.
Clara is so scared she sleeps time, many urban elderly are prisoners in their homes, foreigners in the neighborhoods they settled, old people in a young and threatening world. Out of fear, they break the

They forgo visits to children and grandchildren. They won't see doctors. They stop going to religious services.

"Crime leads to an unbelievable deprivation and reduction in the quality of life of older people who already have problems of fixed income, poor health, loss of loved ones and of their own role in life," says George Sunderland, coordinator of the Crime Prevention Program of the American Association of Retired Persons.

"An older person's sense of self can be very fragile, and crime is an invasion of that self. People die a little," says Alice M. Brophy, commissioner for the aging in New York City.

About 22 million Americans are over 65. Many live in cities where crime is high. Last year the U.S. Conference of Mayors said that for the urban elderly, crime is the No. 1 problem.

There are no comprehensive national statistics on crimes against the elderly. Police say that nationwide, senior citizens are victimized less than the general public.

But in terms of purse snatch, robbery and assault, especially in cities, they are a disproportionately large victim group.

The Midwest Research Institute found, for example, that persons over 60 living in certain neighborhoods of Kansas City, Mo., can be 10 times more vulnerable to crime than younger persons in safer neighborhoods.

It is the elderly who suffer most from crime.

Most are poor and live on fixed incomes. Younger victims can recoup losses through earnings; the elderly often cannot. Their savings often are the only thing keeping them independent of their children and out of nursing homes. They are also highly vulnerable to attack, less able to defend themselves and more likely to suffer serious and lasting injury, or death.

Every mugging, say police, is a potential murder.
Many older people also live alone and have few people to rely upon.

They often live in changing neighborhoods, where unemployed youths prey upon the core of elderly who cannot afford to move away.

All this makes the urban elderly a prime and easy target. Unable to resist, unable to identify their attackers and often unwilling to report crimes or press charges.

For this reason crimes against the elderly are called "crib jobs"—robbing an old person is like taking candy from a baby.

Everywhere, the elderly are being victimized: in the South Beach section of Miami Beach; in the 3rd, 4th and 5th wards of Houston; in the downtown area of San Diego.

But nowhere are the assaults more numerous or the fear more pervasive than in New York City's Bronx.

Hans and Emma Kabel killed themselves last October in their Bronx apartment where they had lived 50 years. Their home had been invaded and robbed twice and they had been attacked.

Finally, they laid out their funeral clothes, penned a note saying they could no longer live in fear and hanged themselves.

The kind violence that drove the Kabels to suicide is reflected in the city's crime figures. New York's latest statistics on crime and the elderly showed there were 3,208 muggings of people over 60 last year — a 16 per cent increase over 1975. The elderly represent 21 per of all purse snatching victims, 27 per cent of all pocketbook robberies (where force, fear or weapon is used) and 27 per cent of all stickups in apartments. The elderly comprise only about 17 per of the city's population.

The Kabels' solution to their worries about such statistics was extreme, but fear forces many elderly in the Bronx to take extreme measures. It frequently drives old people into lives of isolation. It drives still others to pay out their life's earnings for a feeble assurance of safety.

Police tell of one 75-year-old woman in the Bronx — let's call her Mary — who was so frightened after she was mugged that she never left her apartment. Her life shrank.

Mary never carried out the garbage. And so it piled up, and room by room was filled with refuse. And room by room was sealed off, as her life got smaller and smaller.

Nor would Mary venture out for food. She threw money out the window to kids who bought her candy bars. They, too, ripped her off, charging her double for candy.

Police learned of Mary when, letting down her guard, she was mugged as she mailed a letter.

The police tell of an elderly man — call him Ralph — one of the few elderly people of means, who thought money could insulate him. So he paid two brothers $1,000 in extortion money to protect him from the predators in his Bronx neighborhood. He was mugged anyway — and incensed that one set of predators didn't protect him from the other.

But most old people don't retreat from life because of fear. They live with it every day in hundreds of ways.

Take Bessie and Sarah (not

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Crime in the nation's cities has created a life of fear for many old people. They feel like walking targets — and they are. their real names; they say they are afraid to be identified).

"My life, my nerves are shot. What's to become of me?" asks Bessie, a 77-year-old widow who lives off the majestic, mugged-in Grand Concourse in the Bronx.

She has been burglarized three times and mugged twice in the last couple of years. A girl once held a knife to her throat and demanded a family ring from her finger.

When she said it was a dime store trinket, the girl shoved Bessie, a pale, blonde dumpling of a woman, against the wall and said: "Choke on it!"

Then someone threw a flare into Bessie's window and burned out one room.

She takes tranquilizers. Depressed and lonely, she seldom leaves her apartment, except to do some shopping or go to a senior citizens center where she played Goldie in "Fiddler on the Roof."

Bessie, who is arthritic and walks with a cane. "Kids who do this should be punished like an adult. They tell me they come from poor homes. That's no excuse. I'm poor, too."

"The least little noise and I can't sleep. Sometimes I wish I wouldn't wake up," Bessie cries.

Sometimes she talks to the picture.

Not as frightened as Bessie, Clara also lives in fear. At 64, she sits gray and huddled on a cot in her hallway. Ever since intruders broke into her bedroom and ransacked the house, she sleeps in the hallway.

If it happens again, she's ready to run for the front door, under the clutter of locks and escape.

"I've lived in this apartment 33 years and raised a beautiful family," Clara says. "I remember the park and the tulips. But we can't sit there now. The kids throw rocks and bottles at us."

She pays just $100 a month and asks "Where can I go?"

Sometimes her son visits her from Long Island. "I used to go see him on weekends," Clara says, "but now I'm afraid to leave my apartment."

"If I came back and found my apartment broken into again, I think I'd go crazy. Everything thrown about." She doesn't have the energy to put things back in her bedroom. She has shoved a folding chair against the window — a fragile, futile defense against intruders.

"They tell us another lock, more bars, something that costs $100, but they always get in," she says.

Clara has been robbed twice on the street, once thrown down, striking her head.

"I'm sorry to say it, but I'm scared of young people. Everybody is afraid. On the phone when we talk it's nothing but robbery. All we hear about is killing and robbery."

"What can you do? We are trapped."

South African Speaker For Economic Club

Lennox L.W. Sebe, chief minister and minister of finance of Ciskei, a native "Homeland" within the Union of South Africa, will be the principal speaker at the 189th dinner meeting of the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan.

The meeting will be at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, March 29, at Ramada Inn, off M-139, Benton township.

Club President John Paul Taylor said Sebe will be accompanied by John W. Burns, Ph.D., a faculty member of the University of Cape Town, who is Sebe's personal adviser. Burns, who also will speak, formerly taught part-time at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Lake Michigan college.

University of Notre Dame and Indiana University (South Bend campus).

Ciskei, which has a black population of half a million people, was declared in 1972 a self-governing territory within the Union of South Africa. Ciskei now has reached the final constitutional stage before full independence, according to a recently published Ciskei government journal.

Sebe entered politics in 1968 to become an elected tribal representative in the then re-constituted Ciskei Territorial Authority. In 1973, he became Ciskei's chief minister and top executive officer.

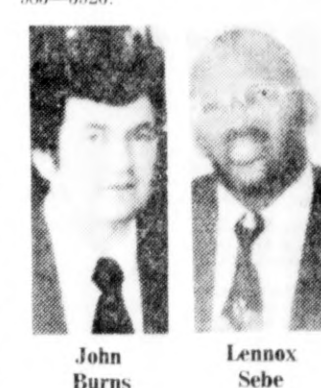

Sebe obtained his primary education at the Breidbach primary school and United higher primary school.

Taylor said Sebe will discuss "South Africa and the American Interests." Taylor added: "A great deal of the attention of this country is today focused on Africa—from Cairo in the north to Cape Town in the south—as evidenced by former secretary of state Henry Kissinger's diplomatic efforts there (where he met privately with Chief Minister Sebe) as well as the more recent visits to Africa by United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young."

Burns is responsible for the initiation of the University of Cape Town-Ciskei Project in which the university provides assistance to Ciskei.

Sebe and Burns will be introduced to Economic club members and guests by Berrien Probate Judge Donald J. Dick, who spearheaded arrangements for their appearance.

Economic Club Secretary John Runyan said members may make phone reservations through noon Tuesday, March 29, to the club office at 983-3926.

Girl Safe; Policeman Is Killed

CHICAGO (AP) — Six-year-old Patricia Dunne is safe at home. But Police Sgt. Michael Palese, 45, is dead, crushed by a train as he walked along a trestle looking for the girl.

Patricia was considered missing for 18 hours overnight from her home because she failed to tell her parents that she spent the night with a school friend.

Palese was hit by a Milwaukee Road passenger train along tracks where neighborhood children often play.

A snowstorm made visibility poor, and Palese apparently couldn't see the oncoming train until it was almost upon him. He was forced between the train and a four-foot concrete retaining wall separating north and southbound tracks.

The girl, who had gone to school Tuesday with her classmate, returned home safely hours after Palese's death.

Walled-In Terror Is Grim Reality For Local Woman

She's lived in her southside Benton Harbor home for 55 years and she isn't about to leave.

Several years ago, when the neighborhood kids became quarrelsome, she says she was "just annoyed." Now she sleeps alone in a locked bedroom with the outside doors chained and bolted and a loaded .32-caliber pistol under her pillow.

The woman, a widow in her 70s, living alone in a neighborhood she says used to be placid, has problems similar to other elderly residents in Benton Harbor and its suburbs. She consented to describe the problems only on condition she remain anonymous.

"The rock was an emotional turning point. I was never afraid before. I am now," she said. "The rock," she explained, bringing her fists together to show its size, was thrown through her living room window three years ago as she sat in a rocking chair watching television. She doesn't know if the stone was thrown at her or the television, but she said it almost hit both of them.

Since then she has stopped keeping her shades open at night, even though her home "reminds me of a prison that way." Her son, who lives an hour's drive away, covered the outside of her windows with tough screening and bolted expanded metal over the door glass. She has four working locks on her front door. The back door is barred closed and padlocked.

"I say I live in a fort," she said with a laugh.

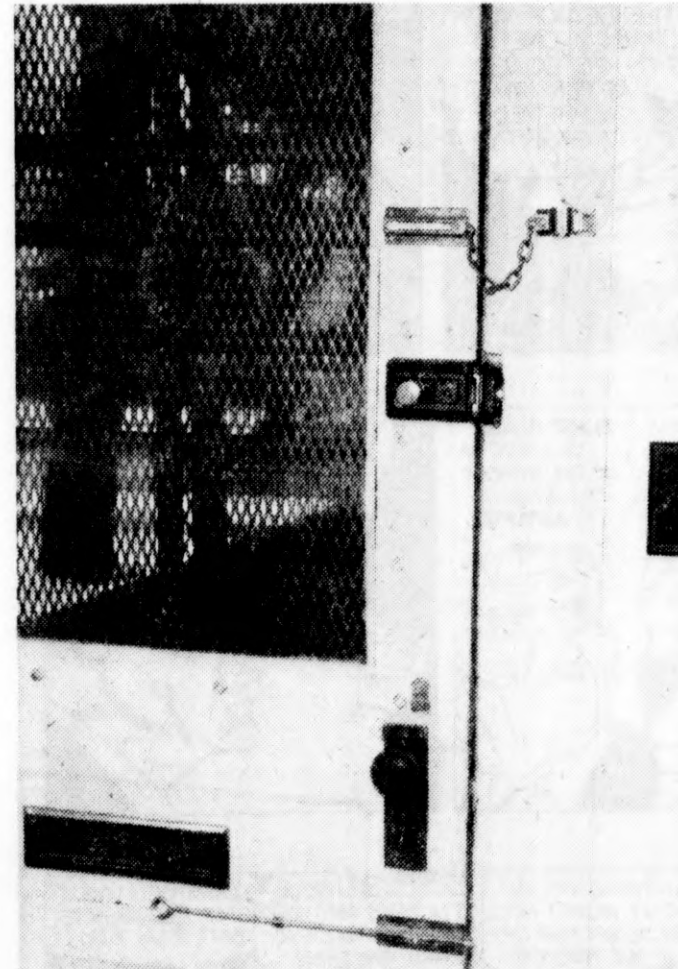

"I don't go out at night anymore. I'm afraid to come home" in the dark. Every time she drives into her driveway she remembers the morning five tall boys gave her a real scare when she returned home from a shopping trip.

The boys asked her for money just as she stepped out of her car. They left when she refused. She pulled the car door shut, locked the doors and "sat there for what seemed like two hours."

She thinks they could be the ones who stole her car battery, or who beat on her garage with clubs as they walk along the alley, or who nearly tore off the back door of her house in a break-in attempt. "They tried and pried," she said, "but they've never gotten inside the house."

She is financially able to move from the neighborhood. Or she could move into a home near her son and his family.

"I guess I don't like change," she says, explaining why she stays in a neighborhood where murders have occurred. "It's not in my temperament to buckle in. I was here first. My parents were here first!" she said.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED: Elderly widow who lives alone in this Benton Harbor house says she keeps all doors locked at all times, even if she only intends to do lawn work. She is afraid of burglars but believes that house is secure enough to withstand intruders long enough for police to arrive. The recent addition of two locks on door and expanded metal over the glass helps her peace of mind, she said. Woman asked that her name be withheld because some might think breaking into the house is a challenge. (Staff photo)

U.S. Elderly Live In Fear Of Crime

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bessie is so frightened she lives on tranquilizers.

time, many urban elderly are prisoners in their homes, foreigners in the neighborhoods they settled, old people in a young and threatening world.
Out of fear, they break the

They forgo visits to children and grandchildren. They won't see doctors. They stop going to religious services.

"Crime leads to an unbelievable deprivation and reduction in the quality of life of older people who already have problems of fixed income, poor health, loss of loved ones and of their own role in life," says George Sunderland, coordinator of the Crime Prevention Program of the American Association of Retired Persons.

"An older person's sense of self can be very fragile, and crime is an invasion of that self. People die a little," says Alice M. Brophy, commissioner for the aging in New York City.

About 22 million Americans are over 65. Many live in cities where crime is high. Last year the U.S. Conference of Mayors said that for the urban elderly, crime is the No. 1 problem.

There are no comprehensive national statistics on crimes against the elderly. Police say that nationwide, senior citizens are victimized less than the general public.

But in terms of purse snatch, robbery and assault, especially in cities, they are a disproportionately large victim group.

The Midwest Research Institute found, for example, that persons over 60 living in certain neighborhoods of Kansas City, Mo., can be 10 times more vulnerable to crime than younger persons in safer neighborhoods.

Most elderly victims are women, most are alone, most are attacked during the day in or near their homes.

It is the elderly who suffer most from crime.

Most are poor and live on fixed incomes. Younger victims can recoup losses through earnings; the elderly often cannot. Their savings often are the only thing keeping them independent of their children and out of nursing homes. They are also highly vulnerable to attack, less able to defend themselves and more likely to suffer serious and lasting injury, or death.

Every mugging, say police, is a potential murder.

Many old people also live alone and have few people to rely upon.

They often live in changing neighborhoods, where unemployed youths prey upon the core of elderly who cannot afford to move away.

All this makes the urban elderly a prime and easy target. Unable to resist, unable to identify their attackers and often unwilling to report crimes or press charges.

For this reason crimes against the elderly are called "crib jobs"—robbing an old person is like taking candy from a baby.

Everywhere, the elderly are being victimized: in the South Beach section of Miami Beach; in the 3rd, 4th and 5th wards of Houston; in the downtown area of San Diego.

But nowhere are the assaults more numerous or the fear more pervasive than in New York City's Bronx.

Hans and Emma Kabel killed themselves last October in their Bronx apartment where they had lived 50 years. Their home had been invaded and robbed twice and they had been attacked.

Finally, they laid out their funeral clothes, penned a note saying they could no longer live in fear and hanged themselves.

The kind violence that drove the Kabels to suicide is reflected in the city's crime figures. New York's latest statistics on crime and the elderly showed there were 3,208 muggings of people over 60 last year — a 16 per cent increase over 1975. The elderly represent 21 per of all purse snatching victims, 27 per cent of all pocketbook robberies (where force, fear or weapon is used) and 27 per cent of all stickups in apartments. The elderly comprise only about 17 per of the city's population.

The Kabels' solution to their worries about such statistics and their real life experiences was extreme, but fear forces many elderly in the Bronx to take extreme measures. It frequently drives old people into lives of isolation. It drives still others to pay out their life's earnings for a feeble assurance of safety.

Police tell of one 75-year-old woman in the Bronx — let's call her Mary — who was so frightened after she was mugged that she never left her apartment. Her life shriveled.

Mary never carried out the garbage. And so it piled up, and room by room was filled with refuse. And room by room was sealed off, as her life got smaller and smaller.

Nor would Mary venture out for food. She threw money out the window to kids who bought her candy bars. They, too, ripped her off, charging her double for candy.

Police learned of Mary when, letting down her guard, she was mugged as she mailed a letter.

The police tell of an elderly man — call him Ralph — one of the few elderly people of means, who thought money could insulate him. So he paid two brothers $1,000 in extortion money to protect him from the predators in his Bronx neighborhood. He was mugged anyway — and incensed that one set of predators didn't protect him from the other.

But most old people don't retreat from life because of fear. They live with it every day in hundreds of ways.

"The least little noise and I can't sleep. Sometimes I wish I wouldn't wake up," Bessie cries.

She can't afford and doesn't really want to leave her spacious old $113-a-month apartment. All her memories are there, the dolls on her bed, the picture of Bessie and her husband years ago when the days were fine.

Sometimes she talks to the picture.

Series Centers On Big Cities

EDITOR'S NOTE: Crime in the nation's cities has created a life of fear for many old people. They feel like walking targets — and they are. Nowhere is the fear more pervasive than in New York City's Bronx where a wave of brutal assaults on the elderly has focused attention on a problem that exists in many urban areas. This is the first of three stories on crime and the elderly.

"My life, my nerves are shot. What's to become of me?" asks Bessie, a 77-year-old widow who lives off the majestic, mugged-infested Grand Concourse in the Bronx.

She has been burglarized three times and mugged twice in the last couple of years. A girl once held a knife to her throat and demanded a family ring from her finger.

When she said it was a dime store trinket, the girl shoved Bessie, a pale, blonde dumpling of a woman, against the wall and said: "Choke on it!"

Then someone threw a flare into Bessie's window and burned out one room.

She takes tranquilizers. Depressed and lonely, she seldom leaves her apartment, except to do some shopping or go to a senior citizens center where she played Goldie in "Fiddler on the Roof."

"I'm even afraid to let people help me across the street," says

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Revive A Little

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices, down for four straight sessions, revived a little today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose a fraction in the early going, and advances took a lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted that some of the glamor issues, including IBM, started to recover late in Tuesday's session, an indication the market might rally today.

Early prices today included: Sony Corp., the NYSE's most active issue Tuesday, up 1/8 to 10 1/2. The company reported higher quarterly earnings.

Mattel Inc. was next, down 1/8 to 5 1/2 and Westinghouse Electric was third, unchanged at 17 3/4.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average gave up 2.58 to 950.96.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 3-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 18.66 million shares, against 18.04 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index lost 16 to 54.93.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .23 at 112.59.

Ma Bell's Earnings Set Record

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Bell Telephone Co. today reported record 1976 earnings of nearly $121.8 million, up $18.8 million from the $103 million reported the previous year.

Despite the record, Michigan's largest telephone utility said the earnings were "well below what most regulatory commissions have ruled fair and reasonable."

"We must necessarily look to the Michigan Public Service Commission for appropriate relief," Bell President David K. Easlick said in the firm's annual report. The utility presently has a $178 million rate increase case being considered by the PSC.

Easlick said the record profits must be "viewed in context."

"Even though revenues were greater than ever, they fell far short of producing the income needed to reach the 8.34 per cent rate of return the Commission has authorized for its intrastate operations," he said.

The utility reported revenues of $1.17 billion for 1976, up from $1.05 billion the previous year.

Profits for Michigan Bell "represented the lowest return on equity investment of any company in the nationwide Bell System," Easlick said.

Sodus Firm To Pay Six-Month Dividend

SODUS — Directors of Southern Michigan Cold Storage Co., Sodus, have approved payment of a 20-cent semi-annual dividend to stockholders, according to Jordan Tatter, president. It is the first semi-annual payment, Tatter said, adding that it is the intention of the board to pay dividends on a semi-annual basis in the future.

The 20-cent payment is half of a 40-cent annual dividend paid last year, and will total slightly over $51,000 to the firm's 250 stockholders. Payment will go to stockholders of record as of April 4, and will be made on May 2. The company, which operates frozen and dry storage warehouses in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, has 254,612 shares outstanding. Tatter said second quarter results are not in yet, but that the first quarter was the second best in the company's history.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Savings Vs. Stocks A Common Question

Q. We have a long-standing difference of opinion in our home as to what to do with our savings — which are substantial. My husband earns $35,000. I am a teacher with most of my salary going into savings. I think we have too much in savings. Even though we do not care for the stock market or for taking undue chances, I feel we should have at least $10,000 in some investment. We are in our early 50s.

A. That "long-standing difference" is about as common and as basic a difference as most families run into. It is right up there with "rent or buy," "city or suburb" and how late should junior miss be allowed to stay out on teenage dates.

Unlike the other "differences," however, there isn't as much difference in this question as one would think. In the first place, you do have investments: savings accounts — a perfectly proper form of investment. In the second place you are subject to risk, even though your money may be protected by the strongest bank insurance plan in the world. Your dollars are subject to the moods of inflation, which should not even be considered a "risk" — to one degree or another, it is a certainty.

So we may eliminate one "difference" — risk. There is no — repeat no — way to put dollars aside for your future without assuming some risk... period. Your problem now boils down to how much risk you want to assume... and in what form.

Inflation is an old story, although never so prominent as it has been in recent years when it ran, for awhile, above 10 per cent a year. If it continues to run at anywhere between 4 to 7 per cent a year (just a guess for argument's sake) then your deposits face a "fixed risk" of 4 to 7 per cent depreciation annually.

If you put your money into equities, a 20 or 30 per cent move — either way, up or down — is not to be ruled out. That is certainly a risk, too. Only you can decide what chances you want to take.

Q. I have E bonds which go back to the late '40s. How long will they earn interest?

A. I expect that E bonds will be extended. The maturity date of 1981 has been set for the earliest Es — issued in May, 1941. But even that may be extended.

Q. I am a young college graduate with a position which enables me to save $100 a month. Where should the money go? I'd like to buy a home in 10 years, and also begin building an annuity for retirement.

A. For at least a year or two that $100 a month should go into an insured savings account. Thereafter, it can go into growth stocks bought on an investment schedule. A broker can help set that up when you are ready. The annuity I can't see at this stage. Why put a dollar figure on income you won't receive for at least 25 or 30 years?

Q. Five years ago I bought some stock in a fast food business. I've received no dividends, ever, but I recently was offered a free sandwich. Will the stock pay a dividend?

A. I can't even find the name, let alone any data which would serve as a dividend-guessing basis. I don't know the sandwich, either.

Q. How can a stock pay no dividends while the president of the company continues to get a fabulous salary plus retirement benefits?

A. There's no rule which says shareholders must receive dividends. If the company is a young, aggressively growing outfit, all earnings are being plowed back into the business and the management may feel that the progress being made warrants its handsome rewards. The annual meeting is the place and time for you to ask your question.

Ann Arbor Test Center Site Named

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Nissan USA announced plans on Tuesday to locate a nearly $4 million auto emissions testing facility within the Greater Ann Arbor Research Park.

The firm, which distributes Datsun Automobiles, made the announcement from its Carson, Calif., headquarters after a five-month search for a site in or near Ann Arbor.

The facility will serve primarily to certify Datsun engines for conformity to U.S. emissions standards, Nissan officials said.

The lab site lies within the research park, which is a joint development of the city of Ann Arbor and the Greater Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce.

Nissan USA President Hiroshi Majima said the firm already has solicited bids for construction of the facility, estimated to cost between $3 million and $4 million. Construction is to begin later this spring, he said, with an estimated completion in early 1978.

LaPorte division is the parts distribution center for the full line manufacturer of major home appliances.

Papers' Merger Vote Set

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Stockholders of Gannett Co. Inc. and Speidel Newspapers Inc. will vote at separate meetings in May on a proposed merger of the two newspaper groups.

The Gannett board of directors approved details of the proposed merger Tuesday.

Speidel shareholders will vote at the company's annual meeting in Reno, Nev., May 9, and Gannett stockholders will vote at their annual meeting in Rochester May 10.

If approved, Gannett said, the merger would take effect about June 1.

When the proposed merger was announced, Gannett described it as a $173-million deal. The transaction would give Speidel stockholders eight-tenths of a share of Gannett stock for each share of Speidel.

The merger with the 13-newspaper Speidel group plus other pending acquisitions will increase Gannett's holdings to 73 newspapers in 28 states including Michigan. Speidel's newspapers are mostly in the West and Midwest.

The Gannett board also announced Tuesday the election of Thomas L. Chapple as secretary. Chapple, who had been assistant secretary and assistant general counsel, succeeds Douglas H. McCorkindale, who has been named senior vice president, finance and law.

Gannett said Philip T. Gialanella, publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, will be nominated a Gannett director at the annual meeting in May.

Thousands Face Fuel Shutoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of utility customers who had trouble paying their fuel bills last winter face cutoffs in service within a few weeks, a Senate report says.

A report to the Senate subcommittee on intergovernmental relations said Tuesday in some cases utility firms barred by state laws during the winter months from interrupting service are mass mailing notices to their customers.

The study said the Wisconsin Gas Co. of Milwaukee has sent out 25,000 disconnect notices scheduled to take effect April 2, the day after the state's moratorium on fuel cutoffs ends.

Utilities in Pennsylvania are also preparing to cut off service to "many thousands of customers" when a state moratorium is lifted, the report said.

The study said consumers had winter fuel bills averaging $139 higher than a year ago. Utilities responded to the coldest winter on record by providing continued service even when customers couldn't meet their payments.

Three Promotions Listed By Stevensville Company

DIETER KRUEGER

ARTUR LUCIUS

DARWIN KRIEGER

Ernst Oelke, president of Precision Mold & Engineering (PME) and Zodiac Industries, both in Stevensville, has announced three promotions at the firms. Dieter Krueger has been named manager in charge of engineering and sales for PME. Artur Lucius, a vice president of PME, has been appointed manager in charge of manufacturing. Darwin Krieger has been named secretary and general manager of Zodiac Industries.

Krueger has been with PME for the past year as a die casting and plastic molding engineer. He previously worked for Benton Harbor Malleable and Modern Plastics Corp., Benton Harbor. He and his wife Agathe and daughter live at 1418 Forbes avenue, St. Joseph. Lucius, a tool and mold maker, has been with PME since 1969. He and his wife Erika and two sons live at 5428 Alpine Ridge, Stevensville.

Krieger was previously assigned several managerial duties at Zodiac, according to Oelke. He has been at the custom plastic injection and molding company since 1971. He and his wife Peggy and their two children live in Bridgman.

Oelke also said that the industrial facilities tax exemption certificates granted both companies for recently completed expansions show the necessity for the firms' training programs for skilled craftsmen connected with Lake Michigan College. The firms are presently training eight mold maker apprentices or about half of those enrolled at LMC, Oelke said. The firms plan to take on more apprentices soon, he said.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

ADVANCED PLACEMENT CAN SAVE MONEY

If you are among America's hundreds of thousands of high school students enrolled in a college-level course or college-level program, the facts in today's column may help you slash the costs of your college education and also help you boost your lifelong earnings potential. But you must act now.

The key is the Advanced Placement Program of the College Entrance Examination Board offered to you, as a high school senior, junior, and sophomore through a variety of examinations in college subjects. These exams are the channel to the cost savings.

You have until April 1 — a week from this Friday — to sign up for the 1977 exams, which will be given during the week of May 16-20. You may sign up for the exams through your high school counselors or principals.

Your range of colleges and universities is extremely wide and gratifying, for more than 1,500 of them award college credit for Advanced Placement exams today. In addition, if you, the student, receive acceptable grades on three or more AP exams, 200 colleges and universities — including Princeton, Yale and the Universities of Hawaii, Kentucky, Missouri, Utah, and Wisconsin will permit you to start college as a sophomore. To explain, this will enable you to meet the requirements of a four-year degree in three years and to save thousands of dollars.

As an illustration of the extent of the savings involved (if you are bright enough and disciplined enough to meet the requirements and pass the qualifying tests) you, as a three-year graduate, can enter the job market a year earlier.

Just by achieving this, you can save $7,000 to $12,000 in college costs and deferred income — a sum that means even more than it sounds on the surface, considering living costs today.

You will not be the "odd one out" if you take the Advanced Placement exams. More than 75,000 high school students took 99,000 Advanced Placement exams in 1976, up 13 per cent in just one year. In 1976, more than 5,200 of the students received three or more acceptable AP grades, making them potentially eligible for sophomore standing. In the fall of last year, 378 students were eligible for sophomore standing at Harvard University while the University of Utah awarded sophomore standing to 31 students.

Joan Gombert, who took five AP exams at Evanston Township High School in Illinois before graduation, is in line for savings of $3,500 in college costs by graduating a semester early from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where she is studying earth and planetary science.

Edward Traisman, another Evanston graduate, is using the time he saved through AP to take advanced science courses in college. He is enrolled in the six-year honors medical

New Checks Requested By Midwest

People who paid for goods by check from last Wednesday to Monday at Midwest Athletic Equipment, St. Joseph, are asked to call the store and make arrangements to issue another check, according to Frank Schness, manager.

A bag containing money and checks was stolen Monday from the store, 714 Midway drive. Schness said exact amount of cash and checks in the bag had not been determined Tuesday, but "we had an unusually heavy check week and it could be between $2,600 and $2,800."

One man was arrested in connection with the theft.

Van Stolen; Covert Man Arrested

SOUTH HAVEN — A young Covert man was to be arraigned today in Seventh District court here on a charge of unlawfully driving away an auto early this morning.

William Saunders, 19, route 2, Covert, was arrested by state police here within an hour of the reported theft of a van.

Troopers on patrol said they saw the van parked on 30th avenue east of 77 1/2 street, Covert township, minutes later. A man inside the van was apprehended.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Revive A Little

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices, down for four straight sessions, revived a little today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose a fraction in the early going, and advances took a lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted that some of the glamor issues, including IBM, started to recover late in Tuesday's session, an indication the market might rally today.

Early prices today included: Sony Corp., the NYSE's most active issue Tuesday, up 1/8 to 10 1/2. The company reported higher quarterly earnings.

Mattel Inc. was next, down 1/8 to 5 1/2 and Westinghouse Electric was third, unchanged at 17 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average gave up 2.58 to 950.96.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 3-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 18.66 million shares, against 18.04 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .16 to 54.93.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .23 at 112.59.

Ma Bell's Earnings

Set Record

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Bell Telephone Co. today reported record 1976 earnings of nearly $121.8 million, up $18.8 million from the $103 million reported the previous year.

Despite the record, Michigan's largest telephone utility said the earnings were "well below what most regulatory commissions have ruled fair and reasonable."

"We must necessarily look to the Michigan Public Service Commission for appropriate relief," Bell President David K. Easlick said in the firm's annual report. The utility presently has a $178 million rate increase case being considered by the PSC.

Easlick said the record profits must be "viewed in context."

"Even though revenues were greater than ever, they fell far short of producing the income needed to reach the 8.34 per cent rate of return the Commission has authorized for our intrastate operations," he said.

The utility reported revenues of $1.17 billion for 1976, up from $1.05 billion the previous year.

Profits for Michigan Bell "represented the lowest return on equity investment of any company in the nationwide Bell System," Easlick said.

Sodus Firm To Pay Six-Month Dividend

SODUS — Directors of Southern Michigan Cold Storage Co., Sodus, have approved payment of a 20-cent semi-annual dividend to stockholders, according to Jordan Tatter, president. It is the first semi-annual payment, Tatter said, adding that it is the intention of the board to pay dividends on a semi-annual basis in the future.

The 20-cent payment is half of a 40-cent annual dividend paid last year, and will total slightly over $51,000 to the firm's 250 stockholders. Payment will go to stockholders of record as of April 4, and will be made on May 2. The company, which operates frozen and dry storage warehousing in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, has 254,612 shares outstanding. Tatter said second quarter results are not in yet, but that the first quarter was the second best in the company's history.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Savings Vs. Stocks A Common Question

Q. We have a long-standing difference of opinion in our home as to what to do with our savings — which are substantial. My husband earns $35,000. I am a teacher with most of my salary going into savings. I think we have too much in savings. Even though we do not care for the stock market or for taking undue chances, I feel we should have at least $10,000 in some investment. We are in our early 50s.

A. That "long-standing difference" is about as common and as basic a difference as most families run into. It is right up there with "rent or buy," "city or suburb" and how late should junior miss be allowed to stay out on teenage dates.

Unlike the other "differences," however, there isn't as much difference in this question as one would think. In the first place, you do have investments: savings accounts — a perfectly proper form of investment. In the second place you are subject to risk, even though your money may be protected by the strongest bank insurance plan in the world. Your dollars are subject to the inroads of inflation, which should not even be considered a "risk" — to one degree or another, it is a certainty.

So we may eliminate one "difference" — risk. There is no — repeat no — way to put dollars aside for your future without assuming some risk... period. Your problem now boils down to how much risk you want to assume... and in what form.

Inflation is an old story, although never so prominent as it has been in recent years when it ran, for awhile, above 10 per cent a year. If it continues to run at anywhere between 4 to 7 per cent a year (just a guess for argument's sake) then your deposits face a "fixed risk" of 4 to 7 per cent depreciation annually.

If you put your money into equities, a 20 or 30 per cent move — either way, up or down — is not to be ruled out. That is certainly a risk, too. Only you can decide what chances you want to take.

Q. I have E bonds which go back to the late '40s. How long will they earn interest?

A. I expect that E bonds will be extended. The maturity date of 1981 has been set for the earliest Es — issued in May, 1941. But even that may be extended.

Q. I am a young college graduate with a position which enables me to save $100 a month. Where should the money go? I'd like to buy a home in 10 years, and also begin building an annuity for retirement.

A. For at least a year or two that $100 a month should go into an insured savings account. Thereafter, it can go into growth stocks bought on any convenient schedule. A broker can help set that up when you are ready. The annuity I can't see at this stage. Why put a dollar figure on income you won't receive for at least 25 or 30 years?

Q. Five years ago I bought some stock in a fast food business. I've received no dividends, ever, but I recently was offered a free sandwich. Will the stock pay a dividend?

A. I can't even find the name, let alone any data which would serve as a dividend-guessing basis. I don't know the sandwich, either.

Q. How can a stock pay no dividends while the president of the company continues to get a fabulous salary plus retirement benefits?

A. There's no rule which says shareholders must receive dividends. If the company is a young, aggressively growing outfit, all earnings are being plowed back into the business and the management may feel that the progress being made warrants its handsome rewards. The annual meeting is the place and time for you to ask your question.

Ann Arbor

Site Named

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Nissan USA announced plans on Tuesday to locate a nearly 84 million auto emissions testing facility within the Greater Ann Arbor Research Park.

The firm, which distributes Datsun Automobiles, made the announcement from its Carson, Calif., headquarters after a five-month search for a site in or near Ann Arbor.

The facility will serve primarily to certify Datsun engines for conformity to U.S. emissions standards, Nissan officials said.

The lab site lies within the research park, which is a joint development of the city of Ann Arbor and the Greater Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce.

Nissan USA President Hiroshi Maipima said the firm already has solicited bids for construction of the facility, estimated to cost between $3 million and $4 million. Construction is to begin later this spring, he said, with an estimated completion in early 1978.

Papers' Merger

Vote Set

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —

Stockholders of Gannett Co. Inc. and Speidel Newspapers Inc. will vote at separate meetings in May on a proposed merger of the two newspaper groups.

The Gannett board of directors approved details of the proposed merger Tuesday.

Speidel shareholders will vote at the company's annual meeting in Reno, Nev., May 9, and Gannett stockholders will vote at their annual meeting in Rochester May 10.

If approved, Gannett said, the merger would take effect about June 1.

When the proposed merger was announced, Gannett described it as a $173-million deal. The transaction would give Speidel stockholders eight-tenths of a share of Gannett stock for each share of Speidel.

The merger with the 13-newspaper Speidel group plus other pending acquisitions will increase Gannett's holdings to 73 newspapers in 28 states including Michigan. Speidel's newspapers are mostly in the West and Midwest.

The Gannett board also announced Tuesday the election of Thomas L. Chapple as secretary. Chapple, who had been assistant secretary and assistant general counsel, succeeds Douglas H. McCorkingdale, who has been named senior vice president, finance and law.

Gannett said Philip T. Gialanella, publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, will be nominated a Gannett director at the annual meeting in May.

Thousands

Face Fuel

Shutoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Thousands of utility customers who had trouble paying their fuel bills last winter face cutoffs in service within a few weeks, a Senate report says.

A report to the Senate subcommittee on intergovernmental relations said Tuesday in some cases utility firms barred by state laws during the winter months from interrupting service are mass mailing notices to their customers.

The study said the Wisconsin Gas Co. of Milwaukee has sent out 25,000 disconnect notices scheduled to take effect April 2, the day after the state's moratorium on fuel cutoffs ends.

Utilities in Pennsylvania are also preparing to cut off service to "many thousands of customers" when a state moratorium is lifted, the report said.

The study said consumers had winter fuel bills averaging $139 higher than a year ago. Utilities responded to the coldest winter on record by providing continued service even when customers couldn't meet their payments.

PICKED:

Four Face Court In Felony Cases

David C. Watson, 19, of 405 Morton avenue, Benton Harbor, demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned in Berrien District court yesterday on a charge of larceny in a building.

Watson was returned to jail in lieu of $3,500 bond set by Judge Leo Cook.

He was accused of stealing a bag containing an undetermined amount of money and checks from the Midwest Athletic Equipment Co., 714 Midway drive, St. Joseph, on Monday. The bag was reportedly stolen from a box under a counter at the front of the store while a clerk was busy elsewhere.

Also demanding a preliminary examination was Edward E. Pendergrass, 22, of 271 Parker avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of breaking and entering a house in Benton township Nov. 21. He was jailed in lieu of $3,000 bond.

During the same hearing, Pendergrass was sentenced to 30 days in jail for probation violations — being convicted of use of marijuana and assault and battery while on probation, not reporting for three months, and failing to maintain employment. The probation stemmed from a January, 1976, conviction for petty larceny.

Judge Cook also set a $2,000 bond for Pendergrass on another petty larceny charge — shoplifting at the Osco drug store, Benton township, on Sept. 21.

According to court records, Pendergrass did not appear for a Jan. 13 trial on that charge. He was free at the time on $1,000 personal recognizance bond which was withdrawn yesterday.

Steven A. Cayo, 22, of 8165 Scottsdale road, Berrien Springs, demanded a preliminary examination on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon (a .357-magnum revolver) in Berrien Springs March 21.

Bound over to Circuit court was Thomas E. Kepler, 22, who waived examination on two charges of obtaining money by false pretenses over $100.

Kepler was accused of obtaining money at branches of the Inter-City Bank in Benton and Lincoln townships July 21 by falsely claiming he had savings accounts of $115 and $120.

Sentenced were: Joshua Blackshire, 24, of Michigan City, Ind., three days and $150 fine and costs or 20 days for driving while his license was suspended March 21 in New Buffalo township.

Ruthard W. Byrd, 28, of 340 Sutherland, Watervliet, $400 and one year probation for driving impaired, second offense, in Coloma township Jan. 24.

Malvine D. Burke, 18, of 650 Crystal avenue, Benton township, $90 or 30 days for reckless driving in Benton township March 22. On a related charge, Burke pleaded innocent and demanded a jury trial on a charge of fleeing and eluding a police officer (Benton township Patrolman James Windsor).

Sentenced for the following violations were: Driving under the influence of intoxicants: Rex Nichols, 37, of Charleston, W. Va., $152 or 30 days; and Lynn Don Brockway, 36, of Homer, Mich., $150.

Four Face Court In Felony Cases

David C. Watson, 49, of 405 Morton Avenue, Benton Harbor, demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned in Berrien District court yesterday on a charge of larceny in a building.

Watson was returned to jail in lieu of $3,000 bond set by Judge Leo Cook.

He was accused of stealing a bag containing an undetermined amount of money and checks from the Midwest Athletic Equipment Co., 714 Midway Drive, St. Joseph, on Monday. The bag was reportedly stolen from a box under a counter at the front of the store while a clerk was busy elsewhere.

Also demanding a preliminary examination was Edward E. Pendergrass, 22, of 271 Parker Avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of breaking and entering a house in Benton township Nov. 21. He was jailed in lieu of $3,000 bond.

During the same hearing, Pendergrass was sentenced to 30 days in jail for probation violations — being convicted of use of marijuana and assault and battery while on probation, not reporting for three months, and failing to maintain employment. The probation stemmed from a January, 1976, conviction for petty larceny.

Judge Cook also set a $2,000 bond for Pendergrass on another petty larceny charge — shoplifting at the Oscar drug store, Benton township, on Sept. 21.

According to court records, Pendergrass did not appear for a Jan. 13 trial on that charge. He was free at the time on $1,000 personal recognizance bond which was withdrawn yesterday.

Steven A. Cayo, 22, of 8165 Scottdale Road, Berrien Springs, demanded a preliminary examination on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon (a .357-magnum revolver) in Berrien Springs March 21.

Bound over in Circuit court was Thomas E. Kepler, 22, who waived examination on two charges of obtaining money by false pretenses over $100.

Kepler was accused of obtaining money at branches of the Inter-City Bank in Benton and Lincoln townships July 21 by falsely claiming he had savings accounts of $115 and $120.

Sentenced were: Joshua Blackshire, 24, of Michigan City, Ind., three days and $150 fine and costs or 20 days for driving while his license was suspended March 21 in New Buffalo township.

Ronald W. Byrd, 28, of 340 Sutherland, Watervliet, $400 and one year probation for driving impaired, second offense, in Coloma township Jan. 24.

Malvine D. Burke, 18, of 6311 Crystal Avenue, Benton township, $90 or 30 days for reckless driving in Benton township March 22. On a related charge, Burke pleaded innocent and demanded a jury trial on a charge of fleeing and eluding a police officer (Benton township Patrolman James Windsor).

Sentenced for the following violations were: Driving under the influence of intoxicants, Rex Nichols, 57, of Charleston, W. Va., $152 or 30 days; and Lynn Don Brockway, 38, of Homer, Mich., $150.

Possession of an illegally taken steelhead trout: Gary L. Commons, 25, of 100 Niles Avenue, Berrien Springs, and Kevin D. Piltz, 26, of 1961 Union Street, Benton township, each $75.
